OLD THIRTY-THIRD HOLDS FIFTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REUNION

Survivors of Famous Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry Association Meet in Memorial Hall—Election of Officers This Afternoon—Banquet and Informal Program

When "Ramrod" Ryder, wounded in the Atlanta campaign when Sherman and his veterans marched to the sea, strode into Memorial hall at 11 o'clock this morning, his six feet of stature towering over the height of two dozen other war heroes waiting to greet him, the fifty-sixth annual reunion of the survivors of the famous old Thirty-Third Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry association was officially started.

Just 60 years ago today, 1200 members of the old valiant command were ready to go "forward" to their first battle at Thoroughfare Gap down in Virginia. The rattle of musketry and booming of cannon kept them ever alert. The regimental band was playing "We Are Marching Along" as the boys passed swiftly through Fairfax. Many of them failed to gather around the campfires at nightfall when the stars came out, and the boys in blue who had survived, spent a solemn evening with ranks shattered and their comrades in arms gone from the lines that braved the battle front.

Today few survivors of the old fighting command are on hand to salute the colors, but among those who arrived this morning for the annual reunion and love feast were Joseph Drummitt of Wolfboro, N. H.; J. E. Barrows, Wilmington; Ira C. Bumpus, Boston; Henry A. Dickson, Fitchburg; Charles B. Fairgraves, Boston; John P. Green, Lynn; Elias Hannon, North Billerica, William J. Hargraves, Roxbury; William Jubb, Shirley; Edward P. Lincoln, Brighton; John J. Ryder, Buzzards Bay; Dudley L. Page, Lowell; Dr. Melville E. Webb, Wilton, N. H.

Letters of regret came from Geo. E. Clark, Townsend; George W. Gove, Madison, Wis.; Rev. James H. Little, Bethel, Me., and William H. Severance, Troy, N. Y.

President William H. Severance of Troy relinquishes his office this year, and this afternoon, when officers are elected for 1923, the veterans planned to elect John J. Ryder, the present vice-president, in his place. Mr. Ryder, familiarly known as "Ramrod," and greatly beloved by the veterans, was badly wounded in the Atlanta campaign, but recovered and returned to the rank before peace was declared. He was a corporal in the old Thirty-Third and was 80 years old last April. The new president-to-be used to be six feet and two inches in height, but since ago began to creep along the roadways he has lost the two inches and doesn't regret it.

William H. Severance had an excellent year as president and his friends told him so in royal fashion today.

The secretary of the association, W. T. S. Bartlett of this city, handled the day's programs, arranged for the fine dinner at noon and superintended the after-dinner exercises and read the usual reports. Today's dinner was provided without cost for the veterans and their friends by a Lowell feminine friend of the comrades in memory of a beloved daughter and her husband.

At noon nearly 50 members and friends, including numerous invited guests, sat down to the annual banquet. The election of officers came afterward, with a program of informal nature including speaking and singing.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—Golf is succeeding liquor as a commercial asset to salesmen, according to Vincent L. Price, president of a candy manufacturing company here today. "Where a salesman would entertain a customer with rounds of highballs in the days before prohibition, he now is establishing friendly relations on the golf course," he said.

THE COAL PROFITEERS

Fuel Administrator Calls Them "Swivel Chair" and "Roll Top" Jobbers

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—A demand that steps be taken to regulate the practices of "swivel chair" and "roll-top" jobbers in coal, who are adding from $2 to $5 per ton to the price which Massachusetts consumers must pay for fuel was sent by James J. Phelan, state fuel administrator, to Federal Distributor Spens today.

Mr. Phelan points out that although the federal authorities have fixed a maximum price of $9.25 at the mines, these jobbers have so arranged matters that many Massachusetts dealers are obliged to pay as much as $15 per ton at the mines, this resulting in a price of $21 for coal delivered in this state.

The Massachusetts administrator feels that one of the first steps to be taken in the coal situation is to rid the country of the jobber who exacts exorbitant prices for coal, and conse-

France is Taking Precaution to Prevent Reoccurrence of Such a Move

PARIS, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press) The buying of dollars by British banks with French francs in their possession is said by French financiers to be the principal cause of the present weakness of the franc. The dollars were used by the British to pay the interest on their war debt to the United States.

Bankers and the financial authorities of the government appear undisturbed by the rise of the dollar and the pound. "It is rarely possible to put one's fin-

HOLDUP AND ROBBERY IN ANDOVER STREET

A holdup and robbery in Andover street that occurred a week ago last Saturday night, in which Mrs. Ann Denny, for four years employed by Mrs. Freeman B. Shedd, was robbed of her pocketbook containing $60 and valued and identifying papers and keys, came to light today.

The attack and robbery took place just above the park at the intersection of Andover and Nesmith streets at about 9.30 p. m. and although Mrs. Denny fought for her possessions and screamed as she was roughly handled by two young men, no one happened to be passing at the time and she was forced to watch them disappear, one in one direction and the other in the opposite.

The attack was at once reported to the police by Mrs. Shedd, but no trace of the robbers has been found.

AT THE NORMAL SCHOOL

Superintendent of Schools in Worcester Addresses Normal School Students

Harvey S. Gruver, superintendent of schools in Worcester, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Normal school students in the assembly hall this afternoon. Mr. Gruver, who has been actively identified with Massachusetts schools for many years, spoke on "The Objects of the Curriculum," and showed that the school curriculum is the expression of the philosophy of public education, and can best be interpreted in terms of the main objectives to be gained. The speaker also discussed general educational questions in their relation to the Normal school, and the teachers it produces.

WILL NOT CLOSE UNTIL NOV. 5

The Merrimack Square theatre management has found it possible to postpone its closing for the purpose of extensive building alterations for another week, so instead of making the coming Sunday the closing day, it will be a week from then, or on Nov. 5.

Elsewhere, in an advertisement, the theatre management expresses regret at being compelled to close for nearly two months, but the plan of expansion is so comprehensive and sweeping that it would be a physical impossibility to continue entertainments while the major portion of the construction is going on.

A complaint filed by the attorney general against the Famous Players-Lasky corporation for an alleged violation of the state motion picture censorship laws was dismissed today by a general sessions grand jury. The motion picture corporation had failed, it was charged, to make certain eliminations ordered by the censors from one of its plays, until after it had been shown several times.

BLUENOSE GETS BETTER START

Clever Work on Part of Ford's Skipper Gives Gloucesterman Advantage

Canadian Schooner Overtakes Ford and at One Time Has Half Mile Lead

Race to First Buoy Close With Defender Having 700 Yards Lead

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—The Henry Ford and Bluenose this morning started the second official race for the championship of the North Atlantic waters. The racing was most even with first one boat and then the other having the lead.

The Canadian defender got away to the better start and led for a while but a clever bit of sailing on the part of the Yankee skipper put the Henry Ford in the lead. The Bluenose came up fast and passed the Henry Ford and at one time had a lead of a mile. This the American schooner cut down to one-half mile near the buoy but as the schooners neared this point the Bluenose was in the lead by 700 yards. The weather conditions at first favored the Henry Ford but they are constantly shifting.

Three minutes after the start the Bluenose passed the Ford to the weather and took the lead. Both boats were off toward the first mark slowly as the wind dropped to seven knots, five minutes before the start. The Ford headed for the line sharp on the starboard tack, the Bluenose being well to weather. The Canadian came down slowly and a minute before the start, was on the Ford's bow, completely taking her wind.

The Ford tried hard to get out from under, but did not have quite speed enough to go through the lee of the Bluenose, although she started nearly a length ahead.

Clever Work

At 11.23 the Bluenose crowded the Ford over toward the shore until both boats were practically before the wind. The Canadian was holding the weather position. Captain Morrissey allowed the Bluenose to get by and then came up on the weather of the Canadian. It was a clever piece of helmsmanship by Morrissey.

The official starting times: Ford 11.00.50; Bluenose, 11.00.59.

At 11.30 the Ford swung away for the first mark with about a hundred yards lead and was dropping the Bluenose. The wind had increased a bit but both boats sailed slow with booms well out to port.

The Bluenose had a lead of 25 seconds at the first turn. The boats turned the mark as follows: Bluenose, 11.47.50; Ford 11.48.15.

Bluenose Passes Ford

Coming up to the mark the Bluenose after being 100 yards behind began to gain and caught and passed the Ford, 100 yards from the buoy, passing the latter's stern and taking her wind. The Bluenose's staysail was hoisted

COMPARISON OF CHARTERS MAKES INTERESTING PASTIME

Plan B and Present Instrument Not Unlike in Cardinal Provisions—School Committee of Seven, With Mayor as Member and Chairman, One Radical Change—Much Discussion As To Length of Term For Mayor

What is Plan B charter and in what respects does it differ from the form now in favor?

In the first place, Plan B is one of four forms standardized by the state legislature a few years ago for the purpose of allowing cities to choose therefrom and to obviate special acts creating charters for municipalities that desired a change.

In its cardinal section Plan B does not differ a whole lot from Lowell's present form of government. That is, the skeleton is similar and, in many respects the instrument devised by a special charter commission shows similitude with the one to be voted on Nov. 7.

Each calls for a mayor and a city council of 15 members, nine to be chosen from that number of wards and six at-large. Under Plan B the school committee numbers six, all elected at-large, but provides that the mayor shall be a member of the committee ex-officio and of paramount interest, shall serve as its chairman. That makes the committee's personnel seven, against the present layout of nine.

Under the present form of charter the term of the mayor is one of two years. Under Plan B, particularly in the present case, where petitioners have exercised an option and have specified annual elections if the charter is adopted, there seems to be no clear-cut statement as to his terms of office.

In the Plan B text it distinctly says the mayor's term shall be two years, but some construe the law to mean that if petitioners specify annual elections, this applies to the mayor and makes him subject to balloting every year. Others incline to the belief that annual elections apply only to the council and school committee, some members of both boards being retired yearly as their two-year terms expire.

An amendment to the charter act this year gives petitioners the right to exercise an option as to designate annual or bi-annual elections, and there is a belief in some quarters that this would limit the mayor to a one-year term, inasmuch as the petitioners have chosen annual elections.

Under the present charter all councillors are elected for two years. Plan B provides that at the first election held in a city after adoption, councillors chosen from wards shall be elected to serve one year and councillors elected at-large, for two years and at each annual city election thereafter councillors shall be elected for two years to fill vacancies caused by expiration of terms.

Whether this applies to the mayor as well is a mooted question at present.

As is the case with the council, school committee members at present—nine of them—are chosen for two-year terms. Under Plan B, with six to be elected, at the first election held after adoption, two members shall be elected to serve for one year two for two years and two for three years and annually thereafter there shall be elected two members to serve for three years.

The present form of charter fixes the mayor's salary at $5000 and that of each councilor at $300 per annum. Under Plan B the mayor shall receive whatever salary the city council, by ordinance, shall determine, not exceeding $5000 and the council may, by a two-thirds vote of all its members, establish a salary for its individual members, not exceeding $500 a year.

Plan B gives a mayor even more sweeping and intimate control of city affairs than at present. He has the power of appointment, with confirmation, of all heads of departments and members of boards and commissions, except officials appointed by the gov-

GREAT BRITAIN MUST PAY DEBTS TO AMERICA—LLOYD GEORGE

Former Prime Minister Addresses Coalition Liberal Members of Parliament—Gives Views on All Important Topics Concerning England's Government—Viscount Grey Says France Let Down By Allies

LONDON, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press.)—"I will support any party and any government that pursues a policy of peace, economy and steady progress, neither revolutionary nor reactionary, and does it efficiently," former Prime Minister Lloyd George told the coalition liberal members of parliament at a meeting today.

In another part of his speech he made the declaration: "Great Britain must pay America all her debts."

On the question of German reparations, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"We should not attempt to impose upon Germany any payment which is beyond her capacity. What is within her capacity, she ought to pay."

The former premier expressed himself with some definiteness as regards the question of Russia.

"I am strongly in favor of the renewal of a pact with Russia," he declared.

All He Does Is Shoot at Crusts

SHOOTING OUT CRUSTS IN CEMENT KILN IS THIS MARKSMAN'S STEADY JOB.

Fusing of materials used in Portland cement manufacture calls for long cylindrical kilns. In these, the ground stone and other raw material are blended under intense heat.

The molten mass is wont to collect and form a ring around the interior of the cylinder. As this grows, it threatens to close up the cylinder and stop production.

Stopping to remove this ring is an expensive process necessitating a two-day shutdown. The shotgun, therefore, became the agency for removing it while the work went on.

Standing at a special opening, shotgun in hand, a marksman watches for a ring to collect. When he sees one, he fires "deer load" of heavy shot at one point in the ring, breaking through the crust and causing the rest of the ring to break off.

From 600 to 1000 shots are fired at one ring, often, and all at such speed that 10 repeating shotguns must be used, one man firing them and another loading them.

It's great for your marksmanship—but hard on your shoulder.

THE AUDACITY OF THE FORD

A Ford touring car driven by James S. Wilkinson of Dracut ran head-on into an inward bound street railway car on Central bridge last night at about 12 o'clock and while the machine was badly damaged and the electric also showed signs of conflict, neither the operator of the motor nor the street car was injured. The motorman was Timothy Mack.

Wilkinson claimed his machine was held in a rut in the bridge surface and he could not swing in out of the way in time to avoid a collision.

GAVE LECTURE IN LIBERTY HALL

His subject was "Old Age," and he treated it from the standpoint of malpracticing upon ourselves by thinking and believing that old age with its infirmities is inevitable and incurable.

Stories of Scottish folks, a recounting of an interview with Harry Lauder and other noted men of brains and brawn from "o' Scots lan'" were given in Mr. Ramsay's best style, showing that he is still "verra thick wi' the mon" from the land across the sea.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By the Theatres Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "No Trespassing," starring Irene Castle, and "The Face in the Fog," with Lionel Barrymore in the the leading role. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a complete change of program.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Sure Fire Flint," starring Johnny Hines, one of the most amusing players on the screen today, in his first long comedy, and "Hearts' Haven," with Robert McKim and Claire Adams in the starring roles.

"Sure Fire Flint" is a big production in more than one way. Johnny Hines is at his best in this big photoplay of action, comedy and romance, and playing opposite him is pretty Doris Kenyon, who has just completed a year's run as a star in a new Broadway success, "Up the Ladder."

As a "go-getter" in "Sure Fire Flint," Hines goes through the six reels in a burst of action that sweeps the onlooker along with him to dizzy heights of speed and action, so much so that one is made to feel that he is part and parcel of the picture. When a photodrama is capable of performing this feat the picture surely must be labeled "Sure-fire."

"Sure Fire Flint" concerns itself with the story of the modern 20th century youth who knows no obstacles in his desire to land a job and make good. Fired from one job after another, Flint obtains employment that brings with it responsibility and a cauldron of trouble from which he emerges triumphantly with the boss' daughter as the final reward. The story is told convincingly and directed with vision by Dell Henderson. All in all "Sure Fire Flint" is one of the best bets of the picture season, and it behooves lovers of worthwhile movies not to miss this most entertaining comedy-drama.

"Heart's Haven," the second feature for the week-end, presents Claire Adams in an appealing dramatic story of modern life that you can't afford to miss. The usual excellent surrounding bill will also be shown.

RIALTO THEATRE

Katherine Macdonald, known as one of the most beautiful women on the screen and a favorite with patrons of the Rialto theatre, opens a two days' engagement this afternoon in one of her latest productions, "The Beautiful Liar." Faire Binny in "The Case of Becky," William Desmond in "The Perils of the Yukon," comedy and the Pathe News completes the program. Katherine Macdonald's latest production is the story of a girl who rose from a stenographer to a famous actress through a series of lies and impersonations. The famous star depicts both roles with great excellence.

THE STRAND

The presence of May Beth Carr, daughter of Mary Carr, in the Fox special, "Silver Wings," showing all week at the Strand, is one of the many interesting features in its presentation. Miss May Beth gives every promise of being a pronounced success, and with the motherly guidance of Mary Carr, she surely should win laurels in the future. "Broad Daylight," with Lois Wilson, is the other feature photoplay on the bill. Both are worthy of the consideration of every lover of the better class of pictures.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The Princeton Five, which is frontlined at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, is one of the foremost musical organizations on the theatrical stage. There are both music and good comedy in the act. Kenney & Hollis, old favorites, give a travesty on medicine, and Walter and Emily Walters present one of the very best ventriloquistic acts seen here in a long time. Another prime act is by Faber & Bernel. It is comedy. The remainder of the show consists of Bagnell & Sheldon, manipulators; Monroe & Grant, trampolinists, and Everdean & Boothby, in a musical act.

Aged one hundred, an Austrian burglar was recently arrested in an uninhabited house, where he had lived for a fortnight, drinking the wines in the cellar.

Comparison of Charters

ernor, with the proviso, however, that department heads serving at the time the charter is adopted, shall serve out the terms for which they previously have been elected. The city solicitor shall be named by the mayor, without confirmation.

This differs somewhat from the present plan of election, for under the charter now in existence, the city council has the power of naming the city clerk, city auditor and city treasurer by its own majority vote, without mayoralty approval. At present the board of election commissioners is named by the mayor, without council confirmation, but Plan B provides for confirmation for this board.

Under Plan B, the mayor, with the approval of a majority of the members of the city council, may remove any head of a department or member of a board before the expiration of his term of office, but the removal official must receive copy of the reasons for said removal and may, if he desires, contest it before the city council. Although no mention is made of possible reinstatement, it is presumed this could occur on a two-thirds vote of all councilors.

At present, however, the mayor may remove the head of a department without council approval, although the removed official may demand a public hearing and may be reinstated over the mayor's removal. Reasons for all removals must be filed with the council through the city clerk and copies sent to the person or persons removed.

Under the present charter the city council may remove the head of any department for reasons it deems sufficient, but this power is not vested in this body under the provisions of Plan B.

One of the most important sections of Plan B is that which has to do with the award of contracts. In a recent supreme court decision, based upon a Quincy case, the court held the mayor has full control over all contracts and the matter of awarding them is left wholly in his hands. Under the present charatr the mayor approves all contracts, but boards and heads of departments have the power to award them subjete of course to mayoralty approval.

Both charters require that every order, ordinance, resolution and vote relative to city affairs and adopted or passed by the city council shall be presented to the mayor for his approval and gives the mayor the right of veto and the council the right to pass over a veto by a two-thirds vote.

Plan B calls for annual election of a superintendent of schools by the school committee.

Considerable discussion has arisen regarding the disposition of such commissions as the board of public service and the budget and audit commission and also the director of school hygiene, which distinctly are children of the present charter, in case Plan B should be adopted.

It is presumed by some that these officials would continue to serve out their terms of office and then be retired if the government saw fit to dispense with them, while others feel that inasmuch as no mention is made of them in Plan B they would automatically cease to exist when a new regime went into power.

This is a question, one among several perhaps, that will have to be worked out if the new charter is accepted.

There is a provision in the act which created the four-standard charters to the effect that once one of the forms is accepted, it must be kept for four years.

When this charter act first was passed, no primary elections were provided, but later amendments included a primary for all four forms.

Many Come to Aid of Mrs. De Bouchel

BY NEA SERVICE

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 25.—Last week, Atlanta, Ga., held the limelight in the jilting of Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel, beautiful New Orleans society woman. Now it's New Orlean's turn.

Said to represent the Candler interests, private detectives and other agents are reported to have been working here, seeking to gather evidence against Mrs. De Bouchel. By this, it is charged, the Candlers hope to bolster the charges of impropriety made by Asa G. Candler, millionaire coca-cola king, when he broke his engagement.

Even the offices of Mrs. De Bouchel's attorneys have been visited by these agents, it is alleged. Harold Moise, one of the woman's lawyers, alleges he caught a man leaving the Moise office with the last letters Candler wrote his ex-fiancee. A struggle ensued before Moise regained the missives, he says.

Meantime, New Orleans is militantly aligned with Mrs. De Bouchel in regard to the charges made against her. Her return from Atlanta was the occasion for hundreds of socially prominent people, leaders in woman's clubs, etc., to meet her at the station and el motor car mounted on a stand.

They pledge their confidence in her integrity and their aid in refuting the charges.

Mrs. De Bouchel is in seclusion here. Meantime, from all over the south, her friends are rallying to her support.

From Memphis comes new assistance in Mrs. De Bouchel's fight to vindicate her honor. George Bowling, who was adjutant general of the Sons of Confederate Veterans in 1919, says he saw Mrs. De Bouchel nearly all the time the confederate veterans were in session in Atlanta. He says he is ready to be a witness and testify the charges of impropriety against her are false.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends, neighbors and relatives who, by kind acts, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings helped to lighten our burden of sorrow in the death of our beloved son and brother.

Claim British Bought Francs

ger on the actual circumstances affecting exchange," said a high official of the bank of France to the Associated Press today. Then attempting to express himself by using an American colloquialism said: "But this time we can locate the colored gentlemen in the wood pile."

"The British banks and the British treasury, which have long been accumulating French francs have used them, as was their right to do, to buy the dollars they needed instead of using pounds," he continued. "The consequence was that the payment of the big sum of interest to the United States had no bad effect on the pound. On the contrary, British exchange profited by the subsequent depreciation of the franc."

The British banks, having disposed of their francs, cannot repeat such an operation easily again, it was pointed out.

"Speculation has had little to do with the present movement," said an important banker today. "Speculation simply followed the movement which was started by the skillful British operations. Even the situation in Germany had more to do with it than speculation. The tribulations of the debtor are always an embarrassment to the principal creditor. If we could count on the payment of even part of those sums which are owed us by Germany, the effect on our exchange would be considerable."

France is taking precautions to assure the deliveries of wheat needed to supply the deficit of this year's crop, which, according to the present rate of exchange, will need about a billion francs.

The Coal Profiteers

quently has sought the support of other administrators in the New England states, and in New York, in his effort to obtain action by the federal authorities.

William H. Woodin, New York administrator, has notified Mr. Phelan that he will co-operate with Massachusetts, and has already sent to Washington a request for action.

Many dealers have complained to Mr. Phelan of the unjust prices being demanded, and have asked for relief, in order that they may compete in the market with those dealers who are securing their fuel at the established price.

The letter sent by Mr. Phelan to Federal Distributor Conrad H. Spens is as follows:

"Again I wish to reiterate that if the public is to get advantage of the prices named for 'company' coal and that part of the production controlled by 'independents' who have agreed to the $9.25 maximum price, some way must be found to eliminate the roll-top, swivel chair dealer commonly referred to as the 'go between' and sometimes as a 'jobber,' and who is supposed to get the rake off between the Pennsylvania price and the exorbitant prices asked of the local dealers, which, based on prices now being asked, might range anywhere from $3 to $5, if not even higher.

"Now, isn't there some way that you as federal fuel distributor, can clarify the situation of the 'go-between?' Unless you can, I cannot clearly see how Massachusetts is going to be much benefitted by these so-called 'company' prices at the mines, ranging from $7.90 to $8.50, who control 75 per cent of the production, and so-called independent producers, who control 20 per cent of the production, who have agreed to fix their maximum price at $9.25 and later the same will apply to so-called independent prices (which I understand is the maximum price you hope to have fixed by Oct. 31) on the remaining 5 per cent of production.

'Stop this abuse and the coal situation will not only be helped greatly in the present emergency, but for the future as well."

Happy Mother Tells How Children Were Restored

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine is again very forcibly demonstrated in the home of Mrs. Josephine Deckret, 1912 Bank st., Baltimore. After putting this splendid tonic to the test with herself and three children, Mrs. Deckret says:

Tanlac has been such a great blessing to myself and three children that it has won my lifelong praise. My health had been so wretched for two or three months that I was just dragging around. I could neither eat nor sleep to do much good and had a world of trouble with indigestion. I have just finished my third bottle of Tanlac and am almost a well woman already.

"John Frank, aged six, and Carolina, who is four, both complained of headaches, pains in the stomach and were very restless at night. They had no appetites, were thin and pale, and took no interest in play or anything else.

"And Joseph Paul, two years old, was in just about the same fix. I could not get him to eat, he was fretful day and night, and was very thin and pale. They have taken about two bottles of Tanlac each now, and healthier, happier children could not be found. John Frank has gained six pounds, Carolina eight and little Joseph is as fat as a butterball and playful as a kitten. I certainly have good reasons for praising Tanlac."

The experience of the Deckret family is only typical of thousands of others whose statements are on file in the Tanlac offices. Hardly a day passes that does not bring scores of such messages of praise from every part of the United States and Canada from families where mother, father, son and daughter have all found health, contentment and the joys of living through simply taking a course of Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

May Reduce Face Value of Ruble

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press)—In connection with the efforts being made to stabilize the ruble, the finance commission has proposed a new issue of money which would do away with notes running into the denominations of the millions by the simple expedient of chopping off the last six ciphers. Thus the million ruble note now in circulation would represent one ruble of the issue proposed for 1923.

A NEW ORGANIZATION

SHANGAI, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press) At a meeting here of delegates from the American chamber of commerce of Shanghai, Tientsin, Peking, and Haakow, the associated chambers of commerce of China was organized and a program outlined for the betterment of trade conditions in the Orient.

Marriages performed in registry offices in one district of London alone increased from 200 or more than 1000 annually, within recent years.

FACES TRIAL FOR SLAYING TWO

Great Britain Must Pay Debts

relations in general, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"It is said Great Britain is not going to extend her responsibilities. But you must not be afraid of your responsibilities. The policy of Great Britain must be peace-loving, but unafraid. If I stand alone, I will resist any departure from it.

Must Have Fair Play

"I will never let Great Britain down. I will not stand by or for any man who does. Whatever government is in power, we must not offer it any factious opposition. There must be no nagging critics: there must be fair play.

"We are told that the new government is a government of tranquility. In what respect does a policy of tranquility differ from ours? If tranquility means any change from the existing conditions of things, then it is bad.

"We have made peace in Europe; we have made peace in the Near East. What does the new policy mean? It's no use using words unless they mean something."

Referring to the coalition government which he headed, he said: "I have stood for national unity—for unity of the men of all creeds, parties and sections.

"Our object first was the winning of the war, and afterwards extricating the country out of its after-war difficulties. It was our policy then, and it is our policy now."

Understands Revolt

Referring to the conservatives, who broke away from the coalition and by their defeat of Austen Chamberlain as conservative leader, brought about the accession of Andrew Bonar Law to the premiership, he said:

"I can understand the revolt of the under-secretaries. There were subalterns who would like to be captains and captains who would like to be made colonels or full generals."

At another point he said: "The country's interest is the thing that matters, at the beginning, at the end and all the time. The peril is not over. Alone the conservative party cannot defend the great interests which are our common concern.

"The conservatives may win the next victory. I doubt that, but supposing they do, that is not the end of the war between the two great conflicting ideas of the organization of society. Our business is to see that this blunder shall not do harm to our country."

Urges Unity

Unity in action between Great Britain and the United States was urged by Mr. Lloyd George in his speech.

"I am for the League of Nations," he said, "but until you get the United States and all the great nations of Europe, as well as the small, the league will be crippled and cannot serve its full purpose. America and Great Britain must work together.

"I am all for co-operation with the allies, but Great Britain has her own responsibilities. She has her own mission in the world, and she must stand by it."

In the course of his dealing with home affairs, Mr. Lloyd George declared the first purpose of any government in its policy at home must be to do everything to improve trade.

"Stern economy is essential," he added, "and I ask that the new chancellor of the exchequer shall pursue the policy of the old.

"McKenna says things are worse. I know Mr. McKenna, and, quite frankly he was the man most responsible for the liberal division in 1916.

"Mr. McKenna was always denouncing me because from profound convictions I thought it essential there should be a change in the direction of the war."

Grey Makes Allusion

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Considerable interest has been aroused by Viscount Grey's allusion, in his address at Bradford, last night, to France having been "let down" by her allies since the world war. Viscount Grey was British foreign secretary at the outbreak of the war, retiring upon the formation of the Lloyd George ministry in 1916.

"Before we criticise France's actions," he said, "let us realize the facts. When peace was concluded France had two agreements, one with Great Britain, and one with the United States, that she would have the full support of Britain and America if attacked in the future by Germany.

"These were not included in the treaty of Versailles, but they were as much a part of the peace as was the treaty of Versailles. They made an enormous difference to France. They are gone. I admit it was not the fault of Lloyd George's government that they went, but it does not make it any better for France whose fault it was."

Viscount Grey added, however, that exclusive treaties could not assure permanent security and would lead to counter treaties and counter alliances.

He contended that the policy of the coalition government had brought Great Britain dangerously near the necessity of fighting a single handed war in the near east, and had imperiled the Indian empire.

SENSIBLE, THINKING WOMEN no longer doubt the efficacy of that old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, because it relieves the ailments to which they are afflicted. In almost every neighborhood there are living witnesses of its wonderful effects. Therefore, if you doubt its value or power to help you, ask your neighbor. In nine times out of ten she has been benefited by its use or knows someone who has. It will pay you to give this root and herb medicine a trial.—Adv.

Valuable Painting Desecrated

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A $5000 painting of Jeanne d'Arc by Edward Rigny, an American painter, which reposes as an altar piece in the little chapel of the Jeanne d'Arc home for French girls, has been desecrated, it was learned today, when the artist began the work of restoring it. The damage Rigny said, was an act of "innocent vandalism" probably perpetrated by a house painter who sought with unskilled hand but sincere purpose to repaint it to his liking.

Schoolboy Faces Trial For Larceny

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Willie Dalton, 17 years old, former bank messenger, laid aside his school books once more today to face his third trial for stealing $772,000 in bonds from the Illinois Northern Trust in February, 1921. In the first two trials, the juries disagreed. Young Dalton, whose flight with the stolen bonds made him the quarry of a nation-wide search, was captured in a country poolroom by a village marshal at Heywood, Ill.

Little Children Brighten Homes

EVERY young couple starting out in life has visions of joyful hours spent before the fireside with healthy, happy children; but, alas, how often young women who long for children are denied that happiness because of some functional derangement which may be corrected by proper treatment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the medicine for these conditions, as the following letters show:

Chicago, Ill.—"You surely gave women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous it kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."—Mrs. Adritt Tomsheck, 10557 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without this Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Fred Miner, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

Original Stories Crowded Off Screen

"BEAST," LOUIS WOLHEIM, WHO WENT INTO MOVIES AFTER APPEARING AS THE "HAIRY APE" ON THE STAGE

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The crying need of the screen is the development of a form of art distinctively its own. Producers and directors have been telling me that for the past several years, yet they seem to be getting farther and farther away from that development.

The original screen story stands hardly a ghost of a chance of being produced. A survey of pictures now on the way to the screen shows that.

"Bella Donna," "Vanity Fair," "Adam and Eva," "Nobody's Money," "A Bill of Divorcement," "Robin Hood," "The Christian," "Ben Hur," "Lorna Doone," "If Winter Comes," "Brothers Under Their Skins," "Affinities," "Java Head," "Outcast"—all of them are adaptations of plays and published stories.

However, can you think of one movie made from an original story having the story worth of the general run of those just listed? Possibly "The Old Nest" and "Remembrance," written by Rupert Hughes directly for the screen, might rank with some of them.

Other pictures based on original screen stories now on the way to the screen are "Broken Chains," "Back Home and Broke," "Glumm," "The Dangerous Age" and "Fury," but they are as so many drops in the mighty ocean of celluloid drama.

Perhaps you think this decline in the use of original stories for the screen is due to a lack of supply. The Fox scenario department alone received 10,000 scenarios last year and not one was accepted. Cecil DeMille has a standing offer of $1000 for one idea around which a photoplay can be constructed. It need be expressed in only three or four words, but as yet nobody has submitted an acceptable idea.

The best three photoplays of the month are "When Knighthood Was in Flower," "Clarence" and "The Old Homestead." The only motion picture of more than passing interest developed from an original screen story in the month is "Skin Deep." This record doesn't indicate that the screen is developing its own art form.

Screen rights to Ethel M. Dell's "Top o' the World," Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" and to "The Rear Car," a play recently produced in California, have been purchased by Goldwyn.

Warner Brothers have purchased film rights to "Beau Brummel," Richard Mansfield's hit; "Cornered," Madge Kennedy's play last year, and "How to Educate a Wife," by Elinor Glyn.

Cosmopolitan has acquired "Yolanda," "Touchstone of Fortune" and "Gentle Knight of Brandenberg," all by Charles Major, and "The Go-Getter," by Peter B. Kyne.

Richard Walton Tully is preparing to star Guy Bates Post in a new version of "Trilby," which was filmed five years ago with Clara Kimball Young and Wilton Lackaye in the leading roles.

This is only a partial list of material which has been bought and which is not yet in the process of transition to the screen, but it is sufficient to indicate that the writer of original screen stories stands little show of having his or her material produced for some time to come.

Then what is the hope for the screen developing a distinctive art form?

Oscar, an elephant, plays an important role in "Ten Ton Love," the next picture starring Madge Bellamy.

Betty Blythe is dressed as Cleopatra in some of the scenes of "The Darling of the Rich," which is about completed.

BLIND MAN IS TRAVELING ALONE

Traveling alone through the New England states, although blind for many years, Eugene Smith of Keene, N. H., is now spending a few days with his brother, Loren E. Smith of 8 Alder street. Smith is a trained musician as well as traveler, and is also an expert piano tuner. He is a graduate of the Perkins Institute for the Blind and began his musical career there.

Smith's study of music in its varied branches has been long and arduous, but entirely successful. His real pleasure in life, he said, when interviewed, was to hear the birds sing and smell the perfume of growing flowers. He is entirely happy though fated to remain in darkness the remainder of his days, and much of his time is taken up with music for which he has great fondness.

COURT MERRIMACK F. OF A. CELEBRATES

The 43d anniversary of Court Merrimack, 11, Foresters of America, was observed in a fitting manner last evening. The observance was in the form of a get-together for the members and a few invited guests at the close of the business meeting and was largely attended.

The evening's program was presided over by Lecturer John L. Hendricks and included the following numbers: Piano selections, Master Francis Redding; remarks on the history of the court, Deputy Grand Chief Ranger Thomas Greene; vocal selections, Thos. McQuade; address on the observance, Grand Secretary William J. Mitchell of Boston; vocal selections, Ambrose Ready; address on the fraternal work of the Foresters, former Grand Treasurer Patrick J. Daley of Lawrence; remarks, Mayor Brown; recitation, John J. Payne; remarks, Past Grand Secretary James J. Gallagher.

During the evening refreshments were served by the following committee: Charles A. Gallagher, Thomas C. Mooney, Thomas L. Kelley, R. J. Townsend, John J. Gilligan, Thomas L. Burns, Arthur Bernhart, John J. McCullough, Martin Harban, Edward J. Mefnerney, Peter L. Gill, William Cousen and A. Ready.

AVOID AUTO "RIDE BEGGARS"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—When you see a stranger asking for a lift keep on going. Take no chances.

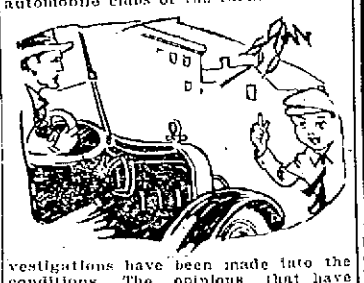

This warning is issued to motorists of the country by Walter D. Meals, president of the National Motorists' association. It refers in no way, to acquaintances, says Meals, but to that class which he terms "ride beggars."

"The attitude of those seeking rides," he says, "is not usually one of gratitude. Frequently they seem to get the notion that the driver is under some sort of obligation to them."

Many motorists who have turned down "ride beggars" have heard indecent and abusive language flung after them. Complaints have come to the automobile clubs of the N.M.A. and investigations have been made into the conditions. The opinions that have been reached are summed up by Meals.

"It is often dangerous to give rides to strangers, particularly at night," he concludes. "There is the danger of robbery. There is danger of becoming liable in case of accident or injury to the person given a ride.

"The practice is bad. It encourages children to solicit rides. The danger of accidents is not negligible.

"Two classes particularly have made themselves obnoxious. They are the boys who want rides just for the excitement and fun of the thing. Then there are the strangers who have acquired the ride begging habit.

"The driver of an automobile is under no obligation to give anyone a ride. In emergencies, like street car tie-ups, motorists have shown themselves generous and public-spirited. They need not defend themselves for exercising care and scruple in a matter so personally concerning them in times when ordinary circumstances exist."

Turning the steering mechanism while the car is still puts a strain on the steering gears and is bad for tires.

Motor traffic into Canada increased by 600 per cent last year.

Ponca City, Okla., has more than one car to each family.

Windshield for the rear seat is made on automatic rollers.

Chicago "L" lines announce plans to use motor buses as feeders.

Motor bus lines are now running regularly in 108 of the largest cities.

Twenty-eight steam railroads in 23 states are using flanged wheel motor buses for short hauls.

Windshields and spotlights are being made for fitment to motorcycles.

Old tire casings may be used to make inside boots or blowout patches.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS DISMISSED

Roland S. Watts of 1 Newbury street, this city, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Arthur Richard of Dracut, which occurred last Wednesday night, was found not guilty and discharged at the Methuen district court yesterday. Watts informed the court that on the night of the accident he was driving his car towards Lawrence with Richard sitting beside him. He said at a point near the Methuen armory on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard he swung his machine to the right to allow a truck to pass by and at the same time one of the tires of his car burst and the machine swerved into a telegraph pole. Richard, who was thrown heavily to the ground, was taken to the armory and subsequently to the Lawrence General hospital, where he died.

NEW INDUSTRY GETTING READY FOR BUSINESS

The new textile organization prepared to open for operations early in November in the formal Lowell Textile company's plant in North Chelmsford, as to be known as "The Southwell Wool Combing Corporation of North Chelmsford," with a paid-up capital of $150,000. The proprietors of the new concern plan to scour, card and comb wool. Jacob Read of Worcester, president of the corporation, was the purchaser of the plant at public auction on Oct. 10.

James Southwell, who is to be general manager of the new corporation, is well known in the textile world and a former superintendent of the Atlantic mills in Providence, R. I. Mr. Southwell, in addition to managing the business, will also act as vice president and treasurer. The machinery will be operated by steam with a power plant of 300-horse power capacity. Work of installing machinery and necessary mill equipments is now going rapidly on.

Here's the start of the first race between the Canadian Bluenose and the Henry Ford, American entry, off Gloucester, Mass. The Henry Ford (right) won. Captains of both fishing schooners considered it a race but officials declared it "no race" since the skippers disregarded their signal to return after the start.

Bluenose Gets Better Start

before she luffed around the mark and she gained a few more seconds by good sailing. The Ford was slow. She split tacks immediately and stood inside.

At 12.05 the Ford's inshore pitch proved nothing but a sharp luff and the American boat soon stood back on the starboard tack and followed the Bluenose.

The Bluenose was leading by 200 yards, was pointing higher and footing a trifle faster. The wind had increased to 10 knots. The Ford set her staysail.

At 12.30 the Bluenose had increased its lead to 400 yards. The Ford, however, had edged a bit to windward and was holding herself a trifle higher, probably on account of her staysail. The wind had breezed up a trifle more and was blowing a full 12 knots both boats being rail under.

The Bluenose tacked to port at 12:40 and crossed the Ford by 300 yards. The Bluenose, after taking the port tack set her staysail to windward. The Ford kept on the starboard tack. At 12:45 when a trifle to the windward of the Bluenose, she tacked to port. The Ford was quicker in stays than on Monday. The Ford was 100 yards to windward of the Bluenose's wake, but nearly half a mile astern. The Ford was badly handicapped by the leech of her mainsail which had been cut twice by orders of the committee.

At 1 p. m., the Bluenose was leading the Ford by nearly a mile although the Ford was standing higher.

The breeze had increased to 15 knots and a high sea was running.

Captain Morrissey set up his staysail at 1.10 and at once the Ford began to overhaul the Bluenose. In 10 minutes the American boat had cut the lead of the Canadian to a half mile and was holding a better breeze. The race instead of being a Canadian affair, became an exciting contest again. At 1.20 the boats were within four miles of the second mark, with the Bluenose leading by 700 yards.

Ford Was Favored

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press)—Gloucestermen and Lunenburgers, crews of the racing fishermen Henry Ford and Bluenose, were brought together again today for competition after continued controversy and prepared for the start of their third race in a soaking sou-wester. The wind was moderate and on past performances was considered to favor the Henry Ford's chances for another victory, which would be the second of the series officially and would bring to her without further question, the international fishing vessels championship.

For the Bluenose, the conditions were more or less a disappointment, the brisk blow from the northwest having passed. In light to moderate winds the Henry Ford has shown herself the better boat. In the stiffer going at the close of Monday's race won by the Ford, the Bluenose showed she was at her best.

Start at 11 o'Clock

The start of the race today was set for 11 o'clock. With the rain sweeping in through the harbor entrance, the men of the Ford in sou'westers worked as hard as if they were pulling travis against an approaching storm, taking out the ballast put aboard yesterday when they had declared they would abandon racing and the consequent controversy and go fishing. It was with the agreement that this ballast be restored to its previous condition and the racing trim of the vessel be left unchanged, that the trustees of the cup under the deed of gift, gave assurances that no question would be raised of the technical violation of the rules involved.

H. R. Silver, chairman of the board of trustees, was on the wharf early today to see that the ballast removal was carried out without prejudice to the chances of the Bluenose. It was to him that Capt. Clayton Morrissey of the Henry Ford had to give written statement that his ballast was as before. Except for Mr. Silver, the wharf was deserted as the men of the Ford went about their lumping job.

Protects Sails

Aboard the Bluenose Capt. Angus Walters held the covers on his lower sails as protection against the soaking rain. This was a luxury of sail equipment not possessed by the Gloucesterman.

Captain Angus was disappointed in the reduced wind. The postponement of yesterday, he felt, had cost him a chance to go out in the blow in which the Bluenose would be at her best.

Captain Morrissey said he thought the Henry Ford would be able to do as she had done before. While his men were doing the laborers work, he was supervising changes to alter the setting of his staysail lowering a block, tightening a leech and making it more fit to hold the wind. His main sheet, he remarked as he looked at the reduced spread, still lacked the length that he would have liked to carry out with him. This was the result of the successive slashings ordered to meet the stipulated sail area.

Fund Will Be Raised

In the city today a fund was under way to buy for him and for the Henry Ford a new mainsail, the one he was racing with having been made unfit for fishing, according to the skipper.

The decision to race today, was made late last night by Captain Morrissey and his crew at a banquet in their honor. This sudden turn about on the part of the Gloucestermen, who had been bending every effort to return to the fishing banks, caused joy throughout the fishing port. The Ford's skipper explained it as a concession to the public demand for another race.

The spectator fleet was considerably reduced today but a number of local fishing craft prepared to follow the race. Several destroyers and the flagship Rochester were on hand.

ART SCHOOL HEAD DEAD

Lloyd Warren Jumped or Fell to Death Today in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Lloyd Warren, head of the Beaux Arts School of Architecture and a brother of Whitney Warren, internationally known architect, jumped or fell to his death today from a window in his sixth floor apartment in West 54th street.

The architect's body, clad in silk pajamas, was found by a milkman at the bottom of an airshaft. Police declared Warren had committed suicide but this theory was discredited by his brother, who said Lloyd had been suffering from syncope since an injury to his head some time ago, and that he probably toppled from the window while seeking a breath of air.

MINISTERS TO TAKE OATH OF OFFICE TODAY

LONDON, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press).—The king has summoned a council for today, at which the new ministers announced yesterday by Prime Minister Bonar Law will take their oaths and receive their seals.

Nowhere in the London press this morning, is any special enthusiasm shown for Mr. Bonar Law's choices, although the Unionist press as might be expected are calmly appreciative. It is assumed that all of yesterday's appointees will be members of the cabinet, except Attorney General Douglas McG. Hogg and the lord advocate, W. A. Watson, and there may be further cabinet appointments. The Unionist political writers believe many of the under-secretaryships and minor posts will not be filled until after the election.

Charles Darwin, famous evolutionist, was very delicate and considered a day's work done at noon.

GASTON HOLDS RALLY

Democratic Candidate for U. S. Senate Attacks Tariff on Wool

ATHOL, Oct. 25.—In an attack upon the woolen schedule of the republican tariff bill at a rally here last night, Col. William A. Gaston, democratic candidate for the United States senate, declared that no part of the tremendous increase, in the cost of clothing, due to the high duty, will go to labor. He charged that the wool growers of the western states will receive exorbitant prices for their wool and that the money which is taken from the pockets of the working people will go direct to the wool growers. He said in part:

"Two years ago, one of the largest Boston dealers in wool purchased a shipment of Argentine wool 'in the grease' at a cost of 31 cents a pound. There was no duty at that time. Under the prices now prevailing the same grade of wool costs 15 cents a pound without the duty. But the republican congress claps a duty of 22 cents a pound on it 'in the grease.' It is a grade of wool that should enter into the making of medium priced clothes. The American family is not allowed to profit by the fall in the cost of Argentine wool."

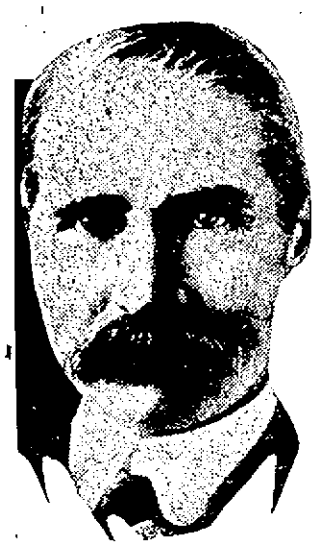

BABY GUY'S GUARDIAN AWARDED NEAT SUM

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser yesterday awarded to John E. Mack, guardian of Isaby Guy Stillman, $25,000 for his services in defending the infant against the charge of illegitimacy brought by James A. Stillman, millionaire banker, in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Anne U. Stillman. He also allowed to Mr. Mack $4301.14, which the guardian reported he had expended in Guy's behalf.

The court also allowed to Referee Daniel J. Gleason, who heard evidence in the case, compensation at the rate of $150 a day for 148 days devoted to the case—a total of $22,200.

Counsel for Stillman had fought the granting of compensation to guardian Mack, contending he was entitled only to his "taxable costs" in the case. They also had contested Referee Gleason's fees as "exorbitant."

In disposing of these objections, Justice Morschauser recalled it had been shown Stillman was willing to spend money "to purchase evidence," referring to letters alleged to have been written to Beauvais by Mrs. Stillman, for which the banker paid $15,000.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womankind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's, called An-uric (for kidneys and backache), has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefits received—that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. of any of his remedies, or write for free medical advice.—Adv.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

CAR SHORTAGE FELT HERE

Contractors Sometimes Have to Wait for Supplies—Lots of Lumber

Lowell contractors and builders are meeting with frequent delays in certain important building construction quarters due to lack of supplies coming promptly from far points, owing to extreme car shortages on railroad lines running north and west.

Lumber merchants, however, say that most of their orders are being taken care of handily, with delays infrequent when orders are not issued for immediate shipments.

The Davis & Sargent people claim to be well stocked with lumber materials for the more important new construction wants, and deny that they are having any trouble supplying demands.

"Shipments from outside points are sometimes delayed but during the past two weeks cars of materials ordered some time ago, have come in more freely, and we are stocked closely now on the materials most in demand for new building purposes," a member of the Middlesex street concern.

Other lumber merchants declared they are not short on required supplies, although in some lines such as lathes, narrow finish and clapboards, there has been frequent shortage of supplies, but no extraordinary demand that could not be readily filled in most instances.

The shipments of lumber have come into Lowell during the past two weeks in really large quantities, a Thorndike street concern reported.

Railroad headquarters reported nine cars of lumber from western points and three from southern lumber stations, in since last Friday. Merchants dealing in building supplies required to complete work before cold weather sets in, claim they are having no delays worth mentioning. All of the open yard areas appear to be well stocked at the present time with "roughs" and finished lumber.

There has been a shortage of piping materials in some quarters. House sewerage connections have also been scarce for some time, and required connections with both sewers and water mains have had to wait.

One lumber dealer reports three cars of hard pine and oak just in, replenishing a fast-disappearing supply.

Bricklayers Scarce

There is a steady demand for bricklayers in Lowell and vicinity and few good workmen in that branch of the building industry are available at the present time.

Curtis W. Johnson, of the building firm of C. W. Johnson & Son, Central street, said the shortage of expert bricklayers was real, although no great amount of work had been held up on that account.

Other contractors declared that the demand out of the city for bricklayers, with payments of higher wages per hour, and even bonuses, had called many good workmen to the Shawsheen and other districts. The American Woolen Co. in Andover is building many new homes for employes, and bricklayers are scarce in that vicinity many Lowell men going there to help supply the demand for good workmen at top wages.

FIND HAT WORN BY U. S. RELIEF WORKER

MOSCOW, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press).—The hat worn by Philip J. Shield, missing American relief worker, when he left his house in Simbirsk, has been found on the bank of the Volga river, five miles above the town, according to a telegram from Joseph Dalton, district supervisor of the relief organization in Simbirsk. So far as known Shield has not been seen by anyone in the locality since his disappearance more than a week ago. Col. William N. Haskell, director of the American relief work in Russia, has gone to Simbirsk for a personal investigation.

BUSINESS REPORTED ON THE UPGRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Business in Europe, Latin America, and the Far East is steadily on the upward grade, and, with few exceptions, is better the world over, delegates to the convention of the American Manufacturers' Export association were told today by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. The convention which opened today, will continue through tomorrow.

"Conditions almost everywhere show decided improvements," Dr. Klein declared. "In the Orient, conditions are better now than they have been at any time since 1920. Japan is pulling herself out of the slough of economic depression and business in China is getting better.

"Deflation has run its course, stocks have been reduced, and merchants have taken their losses; labor has taken its cut and has shown a pronounced tendency to co-operate. Production, always the fundamental basis of economic development, is increasing throughout the entire area."

LOWELL PEOPLE BACK FROM POLAND

Antonina Targ, her daughter and son-in-law, Antonina and Joseph Janas, have arrived home from Poland where they have been spending the past six years. Henry Wiecha of 83 Third street, an organizer of the North American Civic league, also made the return trip to America on the same steamship. The travelers had some difficulty in passing the immigration station in New York, but after showing deeds to Lowell property and bank books showing funds in Lowell savings institutions, the travelers were allowed to continue their journey to their former homes in this city.

Polish money has greatly depreciated in value, the returned voyagers say. Mr. Janas has obtained employment in the Massachusetts mills.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

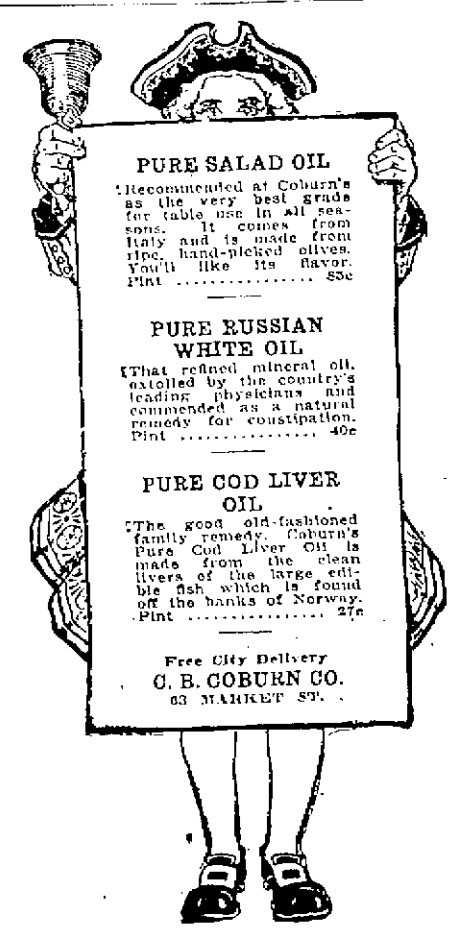

Says Backache Often Means You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them. like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.—Adv.

THE CAMPAIGN

It is fortunate for the republicans that the election comes so soon after the enactment of the robber tariff bill, that the people will not have an opportunity to realize its ruinous effect upon certain lines of industry and the monopolistic power it grants to the favored interests, which dictated the schedules.

Already the cost of living is bounding upward as a result of the tariff, but six months hence the real effects of the measure will become apparent. In the course of a year, according to tariff experts, the republican tariff law will extort four billion dollars from the American people or an average of $36 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It provides a tariff on wool that will add from three to six dollars to the price of every suit of woolen clothes. In this case the tariff on wool is 76 per cent greater than that provided in the famous Schedule K of the Payne-Aldrich law for which the republican party was swept from power. But it has apparently been the purpose of the republican leaders to hold back the enactment of this law until the approach of election so that its effect on the cost of living would not be seriously felt and would not, therefore, stand forth in its true light as a damning witness against the party at the polls.

Senator Lodge and other republican leaders argue that it has brought prosperity. The fact that it was withheld so long has delayed the return of prosperity which would come unless blocked by the suspense due to republican inaction which left merchants in a quandary as to the future.

In his own party there is a strong revolt against Senator Lodge because he devotes his time and his energies to directing the republican machine instead of fighting for the industrial interests of New England. His friends are making frantic appeals for support, but it is too late. The housekeepers and the wage earners, a large proportion of whom are also women, will vote against Senator Lodge and for his opponent, Col. Gaston, the democratic candidate, will fight for their interests and the interests of the country, whereas Senator Lodge fights mainly for the republican party, which holds him in office. His reactionary policies hark back to the days of Mark Hanna when the trusts were fostered under the McKinley tariff law. They were swept aside by the Wilson administration, but are now to be revived or an entirely new act brought to life by the bounties of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, for which Senator Lodge was the chief expounder and defender.

AGAINST CHILD LABOR

The cotton manufacturers of Fall River have voted in favor of a 48-hour week throughout the country for the textile industries. They recommend this as an amendment to the constitution and about the same time the Child Labor committee of Massachusetts has requested the Massachusetts senators and representatives in congress to work for an amendment to the constitution empowering congress to regulate child labor. We surmise that if this amendment were adopted, congress would very soon enact a 48-hour law for textile factories throughout the country. That would go far to prevent child labor as it has been carried on in the south.

The appeal to the Massachusetts congressional delegation states that the nation must see that its children are not exploited by backward communities and asserts that in Georgia children of 12 years may now work ten hours a day and those of 14 years and six months may work all night without violating any law of the state. The law in regard to child labor in North Carolina is equally in favor of children working long hours either by day or by night. It is hoped that something may be done along this line, inasmuch as congress has already made two attempts to put a stop to child labor in the south or wherever it might exist throughout the country, and both have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. The enslavement of children in factories and sweat shops should be stamped out.

AN OAKLAND FIRE STATION

The residents of the Oaklands are fully justified in demanding that the city government shall furnish them with better protection against fire. The High street engine house is the nearest to the Oaklands district but it is over a mile distant from some points in the Oaklands where valuable residences are located. Some of the petitioners favor the location of a new fire station on Belvidere heights and others at Oakland square. Oakland square would seem to be a very central location and, if chosen, would probably serve to provide fire protection for growing districts out along Rogers street. The needs of the Highlands had reason to complain of the drainage for and now it is the duty of the city government to meet the necessities of the Oaklands at its earliest convenience.

The residents of the Oaklands have had reason to complain of the drainage system and it is not entirely certain that this has yet been satisfactorily solved. Nothing is being said of that, however, at the present time and people are interested in securing better fire protection. It is not very long since a very destructive fire occurred at the Atherton plant occupied by the Northern Waste Co. The fire department might have checked that fire in its incipient stage had there been a station at Oaklands square.

If we are to judge from the consideration given the petitioners at the hearing before the city council on Monday evening, it would appear that the council favors the location of a new fire station in the Oaklands and will take steps to have one built there as soon as possible, although it can hardly be expected that the work can be accomplished this season.

HARVEY BREAKS OUT

Ambassador George Harvey has broken out again in London, this time in a tirade against the book of Genesis, which, he says, is not inspired. He denied the rib theory of creation and favored that of simultaneous creation of man and woman, but holds that women have no souls. He also claims that the Decalogue was intended for men only and is not binding upon women, who in biblical times, he held, were used more as slaves or beasts of burden. Mr. Harvey blamed Moses for various versions of the Decalogue and he dilated upon the legends of the creation found in different nations.

England, a nation that has been accustomed to acceptance of the Bible as inspired, must feel shocked at such an iconoclastic address, striking at the very roots of all Christian belief.

The British people stand aghast at Harvey's lucubrations and wonder in what direction he will make his next outbreak.

THE SOVIET SYSTEM

In Russia only soldiers and peasants or other people who actually work with hand or brain are allowed to vote.

New rulers, issued to Soviet election officials, rule that the following shall not be permitted to vote. "Persons who employ hired labor for the purposes of profit, persons who live on unearned increment, private dealers, traders and commercial agents, clergymen, monks and all employes of religious cults."

This is class government, "pure and simple." Among others, it bars from the polls a farmer employing one farmhand. The Bolshevik bars the bourgeois, or the man supposed to have accumulated a little wealth. He is ostracized and that explains why Soviet Russia has no private capital to conduct her industries and no public capital to maintain her system of transportation.

THOSE STOCK MELONS

Sober second thought suggests that some of these stock dividends are encumbers or lemons, rather than melons.

A share of stock is really a mortgage on part of the actual physical value of a business. Divide the total number of outstanding shares of stock into the dollars or physical value that the shares represent, and you have the true value of one share.

When the number of shares is doubled, the original real value of one share is cut in two. Tripled, divide by three. And so on. That's simple arithmetic. A gallon remains a gallon, whether you keep it in one jug or divide it into quarts or pints or dilute it with water so that it will fill five gallons.

JOKES

Raymond Hitchcock, comedian, says Americans have a sense of pie-in-the-face or slapstick fun, but no real sense of humor.

He claims the old jokes go best with audiences because a joke, to an American, is like wine—has to be aged to be appreciated.

That's not the real reason. Old jokes bring laughs, year after year, because a new generation is always growing up that never has heard the old gags. The stuff that is old to grown-ups is new to youth. Actors and scenery change, but life is the same old show, century after century. Some of the best jokes known date back to ancient times just as some of our wisest maxims have come down from the age of Solomon, Pericles, Caesar and Augustus.

FREIGHT CARS

A shortage of 141,252 freight cars existed October 8, reports the American Railway Association. And the shortage is growing.

Nine months ago, on January 8, the railroads had a surplus of 646,672 idle cars.

A comparison of the figures informs you more about business conditions than you could get by reading a mile of the average financial news. When railroads move freight on a big scale, people are buying and selling on a big scale. That makes prosperity.

Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League and Congressman Holden Tinkham of Boston after debating the merits or demerits of the prohibition law are said to have shaken hands and parted good friends. Had Tinkham had his choice of the formalities, we surmise, he would have had a clinking of glasses in a farewell drink after the old style. But the strongest accompaniment of the debate was a drink of water.

Ponzi comes to trial, but it will be noted that he is not regarded as the ordinary swindler. Had he embezzled a few thousand dollars from a bank or swindled a farmer in a horse trade, he would probably be more severely punished than he will be for the grand larceny of $8,000,000.

Secretary Weeks of the war department very naturally objects to the pacifist movement for the reduction of armaments with the United States leading as an encouragement to other powers to follow and some of them do not incline to follow even in the distance.

There is a dangerous relation between October leaves thickly strewn on the highways and the auto skids now so numerous.

A Thought

The glory of life is to love, not to be loved; to give, not to get; to serve, not to be served.—HUGH BLACK.

The Shock Absorber

Jones was buying a cheap car and was discussing the necessary fittings. "How about a shock absorber?" he asked. "Well," said the salesman, "we can fit one for you." "No!" replied Jones thoughtfully. "No, don't fit it on; just send one to my wife in advance—she thinks I'm buying a limousine!"

Easy To Say

Three women were drinking tea together and the first said: "George and I have been married for 25 years, and in all that time there has never been an unkind word—no, not even an unkind thought to mar our perfect happiness." The second woman was tremendously impressed. "My goodness! I wish I could say that!" she cried. The third woman smiled, and said: "Well, why don't you? Jane did."

Unwarranted Liberty

They were rival candidates for a seat in congress and they smiled patronizingly when they met in a railway train. "My dear sir," said the first rival, kindly, "whatever on earth has prompted you to oppose me in the forthcoming election? You haven't a chance to win; it's a donkey to a strawberry against you." "Indeed," said the other man dubiously, "that doesn't sound encouraging, but perhaps you wouldn't mind apologizing for the liberty you've taken in calling me a strawberry."

Wonderful Memory

At a regimental dinner a popular brigadier boasted that he never forgot the name or the face of anyone who had served under him. After the coffee had been round and conversation was more or less "easy," as soldiers say, a youth approached the brigadier. "You don't remember me, sir?" "Why, of course, I do, my boy; I remember you quite well in the old brigade. Tell me, how is young Barton getting on? Do you ever see anything of him now?" "O, yes, sir," replied the ex-officer. "I see him pretty often. I am Barton."

He Was Reading

Poor old Jones had met just a few old college friends, and wending his uncertain way homeward, he pondered ways of concealing his condition from his wife. "I'll go home and read," he decided. "Who ever heard of a drunken man reading a book?" Later Mrs. Jones heard a noise in the library. "What on earth are you doing in there?" she asked, when she discovered it was her husband. "Reading, my dear," Jones replied cheerfully. "You old idiot!" she said scornfully, as she looked in at the library door. "Shut up that telephone directory and come to bed!"

Approved of Funeral

The county court judge had retired at last, after a long and unpopular career, but there were sufficient false flatterers among the lawyers practicing before him to propose a testimonial. They sent around to a young lawyer who had no false politeness to waste and asked him for a subscription. His reply was as follows: "Gentlemen—I am afraid I cannot send you anything for the purpose you indicate in your letter. Please put me down, however, for a handsome donation toward a wreath when it shall be required."

This Way But Once

We go this way but once, O heart of mine,
So why not make the journey well worth while,
Giving to those who travel on with us
A helping hand, a word of cheer, a smile?

We go this way but once. Ah, never more
Can we go back along the selfsame way
To get more out of life, undo the wrongs,
Or speak love's words we knew but did not say.

We go this way but once. Then let us make
The road we travel blossomy and sweet
With helpful, kindly deeds and tender words,

—BRITISH WEEKLY.

FITZGERALD TO SPEAK HERE TOMORROW

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, democratic candidate for governor, will visit Lowell tomorrow and conduct three noon rallies. At 12.30 he will speak at the Massachusetts mill gate, at 12.45 at the Hamilton and at 1.30 at city hall square.

He will move into Middlesex county cities nearer Boston in the afternoon and has rallies scheduled for Somerville, Medford, Winchester, Everett and Malden.

WHEN ROADS ARE CLEAR

If you wish to avoid heavy traffic, while on an auto trip, go out on Tuesday or Wednesday. On these days, between 2 and 3 in the morning, you will find the road most free of motor cars.

This is the conclusion of the United States bureau of public roads, after taking a traffic census of the most traveled roads in the country.

From Wednesday to Saturday traffic increases steadily. It jumps to its greatest volume on Sunday.

Ninety per cent. of the day's traffic, the bureau finds, is between 7 in the morning and 9 at night.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

You can't keep a good man down, and that's why Frank Ricard was an interested spectator at the O.M.I. Cadet-Butler A.A. football game last Sunday. Mr. Ricard, to whom the Lowell sport public needs no introduction, had promised a beautiful loving cup to the winner of the crucial game, and consequently was right on deck to reward the victors. The score ended in a tie, however, and the presentation was deferred to a later date, when, it is hoped, the rival teams will meet again and settle the much-disputed championship claim. The valuable cup is now on exhibition in the display window of Mr. Ricard's jewelry store in Central street and has caused more than one casual passer-by to pause and marvel at its beauty.

Saw Bob Hart, big league umpire, at the K. of C. carnival the other night. Bob looks good after a strenuous season on the diamond, during which one of the closest championship struggles took place. Like a great many big league umps, Mr. Hart plans a very busy season of indoor activity. Besides being a recognized expert on the baseball field, Bob is also an accomplished poloist and has exhibited his skill in that line here on many occasions. It is probable that the local council of the Knights of Columbus will invite the Lowell arbiter to address the members at a coming meeting. His last talkk khefore the council was greatly appreciated.

Style makers announce that women will wear their hair pompadour again. That means a return of the unsanitary "rat." The companion story comes from the Panama canal, where the steamer Felix Tanssig passes through, bound for Atlantic ports. In its cargo is a large shipment of human hair, also 47 bales of goats' beards. Are they for the goats of fashion?

Charles M. Schwab, the steelmaker, says he doesn't take much stock in great geniuses, but "the hardest struggle in the world is to be more than an average man. Think and do differently from the average, if you want to find success. Learn to do some one thing better than anyone else." Mr. Schwab undoubtedly meant that the thing to be done better than anyone else can do it should be one of sufficient importance to justify the expenditure of time and money in learning it.

PROSPECTIVE BENEDICT GUEST OF FRIENDS

Pierre C. Favreau, a member of the firm of Favreau Bros., electrical contractors, in Merrimack street, whose home is in Lakeview avenue, will be married Thursday, October 26, to Miss Rose Alma Perron, a popular resident of Salem and a vocal student at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. The ceremony will be performed at St. Josephs church, Salem, by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Grenier. The bride will be attended by her father, Mr. Joseph Perron, while Mr. Favreau's witness will be his brother, Mr. Urgel Favreau. At the close of the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride, 33 Cabot street, Salem, and later the couple will leave on a honeymoon trip to New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will make their home at 49 Lamb street, this city.

PIERRE C. FAVREAU

These facts concerning the coming wedding were made known yesterday and immediately arrangements were made for a bachelor party and some thirty friends of the young man were invited to attend the festivities, which were carried on last evening in the main dining room at Cole's Inn in Central street.

At 8.30 o'clock a bountiful dinner was served and after the inner man had been looked after properly, Eugene Caisse, a close friend of the guest of the evening, presented him, in behalf of those present, a purse containing $100 in gold. Then the fun began. Mr. Favreau responded briefly, but to the point, and his remarks were followed by a varied entertainment program in which all present participated. A feature of the program was an address by Harry A. Cole, manager of the inn, who served in the Y. D. division in France with Mr. Favreau, and who related in a very pleasing manner incidents which occurred to the boys in France. The affair was brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "O Canada," by the gathering. Urgel Favreau acted as master of ceremonies.

In attendance were Alberic, Urgel, Venance and Euclide Favreau, Eugene Caisse, Arthur J. Bernier, Alfred St. Onge, George Boucher, William Perreault, Henri Bissonnette, Arcelle Brunelle, Henri Desrosiers, Charles Corideau, Lucien Lussier, Avilia Desrosiers, Donat Gervais, Edgar Rancourt, Richard Thomas, William Patterson, Amedee Caron, Jr., Arthur Breault, Raoul H. Monier, Nelson Phillips, Philippe Favreau, Edouard Coutu and E. J. Larochelle.

DRIVE TO ORGANIZE TEXTILE OPERATIVES

The United Textile Workers of America has launched a drive for the organizing of textile operatives of New England under the banner of the organization and in order to carry the drive to a successful end all organizers have been ordered to the front and in addition two women organizers have been added to the staff. The drive will include this city, but it is said activities will not be started here for a few weeks.

Organizer Thomas J. Regan, of this city, has been ordered to report at Cohoes, N. Y. tomorrow and he will leave tomorrow morning for his new field of work. Mr. Regan has received instructions to organize the operatives of the Harmony mills in that city, which number close to 5000 and also to gather into the organization of employes of the hosieries and underwear plants in the city. The employes of the Harmony mills are already organized about 85 per cent. and the Lowell man feels it will be an easy task to gather the other 15 per cent. under the banner of the organization he represents. "Of course," he says, "it will be a bigger job to organize the hosiery and underwear workers, but I believe I can manage it." He figures he will be in Cohoes about three weeks.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

AS ORDERED

It's Halloween, and I must write a poem,
Adapted to the season and the date,
So I must mention—though you doubtless know 'em—
Such matters as will seem appropriate.
For instance "jack-o-lanterns, golden yellow,"
And "missing gates that rouse the owners' spleen,"
And "hickory nuts" and "cider rich and mellow,"
It's Halloween!

Of course it's necessary, too, to mention
The "sheeted figures slipping through the dark,"
And obviously I must call attention
To "pranks the youngsters play while on a lark."
And I must speak of "fun that's gay and hearty,"
And note the weather, "brisk and chill and keen,"
And tell of "merry games at many a party,"
It's Halloween!

I'll say a word about the "girl who glances
Into a mirror by a candle's light,
Seeking her destined hero of romances";
Can't leave that out and have my verses right.
"Popcorn," "marshmallows," "apples"—you'd be cheated
If these weren't listed in my lay, I ween;
So—there they are! And now my job's completed,
It's Halloween!

Chicago Rooters Look To Coach and Captain

COACH STAGG; CAPTAIN LEWIS

Chicago looks to Coach Stagg and Captain Lewis to supply the strategy that will give Chicago another victory over Princeton Stagg, one of the oldest and most resourceful coaches in the country, regards his Chicago team of this year the equal of the 1921 eleven. Chicago beat Princeton last year, 9 to 0. The inference is Stagg looks for another victory. The fact that Princeton appears weaker than last season strengthens the belief that Stagg will deliver.

Woman With Babe in Arms Jailed

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Rose Febro, who appeared in federal court with a baby in her arms, has been sentenced by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe to serve five months in the county jail for violation of the Volstead act. The court remarked that women had given the ballot and demanded all the rights of men and that they should be given the same treatment as males. "If they have children and their relations or friends will not take care of them, the city authorities will have to do so," said the court.

THE REASON

CONTENTMENT of mind, fair treatment, and the consideration at all times of the welfare and happiness of our employees are the things which make possible that team-work and co-ordination of effort between many thousands of employees and many different mills which has made the American Woolen Company famous for cloth of unsurpassed "per-dollar" value.

Matters that concern us most concern our employees. Hence, the executives of the American Woolen Company—from its president down—feel a personal interest and moral responsibility in the welfare of our hosts of workers.

RADIO FINDS USE FOR CORKSCREW

Don't throw away your old corkscrew and whiskey bottle. If you're a radio fan do what Jack Riley of New York did with his pre-Volstead apparatus. The bottle contains a new stimulant in the form of radio detector, and the corkscrew with a wire around it acts as antenna.

LOCAL MILK INSPECTOR VERY BUSY MAN

If any one has an idea that Milk Inspector Melvin F. Master and Collector John J. Coughlin have a cinch, all they have to do is take a trip to the fourth floor of city hall, examine the milk samples stored in the laboratory and peruse the various charts and figures compiled there, ready for submission to the state department. Doubting Thomases will come away from the building wondering how two men are able to handle the vast amount of work that is thrown upon the milk inspectors. Most people have an idea that this department runs itself and would get along if only one of the working force appeared now and then to glance at daily reports submitted. As it is Inspector Master puts in many long, dreary hours of overtime work attempting to keep the department up to snuff and open for inspection at any time.

While on the subject of data and the like it might be well to mention the fact that this department sorely needs a clerk. In addition to doing all of the laboratory work, taking samples and numerous other things Inspector Master is compelled to look after the clerical work. A short visit to the laboratory with its many pieces of apparatus will convince one that a man handling that branch of the work should not be forced to address letters, answer telephones and attend to other things that an experienced clerk might easily do. Inspector Master says that he hasn't any kick to make as far as the work is concerned but the only thing that bothers him is the fact that there are not more than 24 hours in a day to do the work. At the present time his book-keeping is a bit behind, due to the fact that the laboratory part of the department has been unusually heavy.

Collector Coughlin has all he can do attending to the collection of samples, making investigations of places selling milk and the like. He is kept on the go from morn to night making visits here, there and everywhere in an effort to see that all distribution points are properly covered. He has turned in 2579 samples so far this year, and Inspector Master has taken 334.

These samples do not include those brought in to the office by persons desirous of seeking information relative to the quality of their milk. More than 1000 samples have been submitted up to date this year by individuals and owners of milk producing animals.

During the past four months Inspector Master has tested nearly 2500 samples. During the month of June he tested 523 samples. In connection with these seven people were brought into court and fined $190. In July 525 samples were tested. Four persons were convicted of milk law violations and paid fines totaling $36. In August 525 samples were tested. Fifteen persons were convicted in court and paid fines totaling $310. In September 491 samples were tested and two persons were convicted. Both cases were filed.

The milk at the present time is said to be running good. It always does at this time of the year, according to Inspector Master, because the cattle are being brought in from grazing and fed on grain. This always raises the standard of milk. The Massachusetts law requires that milk contain 12 per cent. solids and 3.35 butter fat. At the present time it is up to about 12.50 and 3.80 respectively.

Another contributory factor to better milk results no doubt from the manner in which the milk inspector has kept on the trail of the producer and distributor. Two years ago 33 per cent. of the samples analyzed were found to be below standard. Last year the percentage was reduced to 18. It is hoped to bring the mark still lower this year although no figures have been computed as yet on the subject.

The average cow in this locality gives about 3.5 per cent. butter fat. This is shown by a chart which Inspector Master has diligently kept for the past year. As he explained it, there are many who own cows in this vicinity which will produce perhaps 4 or a higher per cent. of butter fat, but he was basing his statement on the rank and file, so called.

Inspector Master has been with the local department about 14 years and has seen milk change in quality in this section. He says that in most cases the producers are giving excellent co-operation in an effort to keep the milk above the standard at all times. During the warmer months of the year he said that it was a pretty difficult thing for the farmers to keep their animals producing milk that would pass the tests.

He pointed out that many times a man has milk below the standard because it is not properly handled and that the fault comes through ignorance or carelessness of the handler.

The inspector intimated that the department would keep right after the milk handlers regardless of the fact that the milk was running good at the present time. He said that he wanted to keep it above standard at all times and was working with the end in view where he could point to the seat of trouble the minute milk began to drop below the standard set by law.

"I'm the KEN man"

WITHIN a few days, perhaps today, a man will ring your door bell and say, "I'm the KEN man." He will have something important to tell you—something interesting—something worth many times the few moments he will need to tell it. He will come as the representative of your Grocer to tell you the story of KEN, That Washes Everything.

An Amazing New Product Made from Corn

You know the value of corn meal as a cleanser! You know it will keep your hands soft and white! You know it will wash and clean without force and harshness.

Corn is the most important ingredient of KEN. It is the combination of corn with the other materials of natural detergent properties that has produced this most wonderful of cleaners.

KEN is neutral, with no free caustic alkali. It washes and cleans in a gentle manner; the dirt particles are loosened, absorbed in the solution and easily and quickly rinsed away.

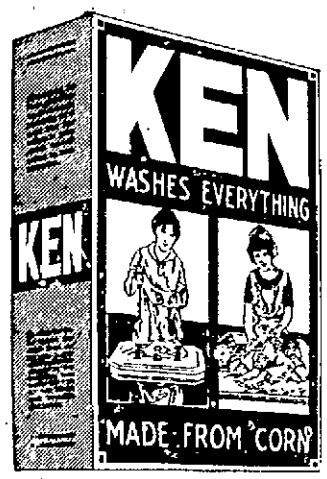

A delight for dainty fabrics, KEN is equally effective for the coarser and harder washing and cleaning. Clothes look fresh and new when washed with KEN. They have that sweet and wholesome smell. They wear longer because they can be washed and cleaned without rubbing or boiling. Even the yellowness caused by the use of ordinary soap will usually disappear after a few washings with KEN.

KEN is equally effective in hot, cold, hard or soft water. It needs no help from ammonia, borax or soda. You require only the one product for every washing purpose. KEN is economical, too. The 10¢ package contains nearly half as much more than the ordinary package of flaked or powdered soap, and you use less of it.

Be Sure to Hear the KEN Man's Story

He will make it easy for you to try KEN and to learn for yourself the superiority of KEN'S golden grains for all washing purposes. And he will save you money.

If you miss his call, or prefer not to wait, order from your grocer.

Dempsey Discusses Future Rival

ELZEAR RIOUX

By BILLY EVANS

During the world series Jack Dempsey acted as a baseball expert.

Like all the other dopesters, Dempsey picked the Yankees to win, qualifying Jack for honorary membership in the "goat club."

Dempsey was unquestionably the busiest man in the press box. He wore out a couple of fountain pens autographing baseballs and score cards. Before the close of the series his voice was little better than a whisper from answering questions.

"Who is the huskiest fellow you ever faced?" someone asked Dempsey.

Has Faith in Rioux

"A fellow up in Canada, who as yet hasn't achieved any fame in the ring. His name is Elzear Rioux," was Dempsey's reply.

Thereby hangs a very interesting tale.

Dr. Gadbois, a prominent Canadian sportsman and a great lover of boxing, has for 30 years been looking for a physically perfect Canadian, who might develop into the heavyweight champion of the world.

In Elzear Rioux, the learned doctor believes he has found such an individual.

After discovering Rioux the doctor put him under a course of training that reduced his weight from 265 to 215, and his waist measurement from 37 to 33. His chest measurement has been increased a number of inches.

For six months Rioux trained carefully, but never once was he allowed to box. He made his boxing debut with Champion Jack Dempsey.

Glutton For Punishment

Dempsey said he hit Rioux with his entire repertoire of punches in the one round that he boxed but was unable to floor him. The meeting with Dempsey was to test the courage of the French-Canadian and he came through with flying colors.

It is the intention of Dr. Gadbois to have Rioux take all instruction possible in boxing for about a year and then if he shows something turn him loose on the crop of heavies.

Rioux is 23 years old. His weight is 215 and he is 6 feet 4- inches in height. His reach is 81 inches.

NOTRE DAME CAPTAIN FACES BIG TASK

Captain Glen Carberry of the Notre Dame football team is a man of action and deeds.

While Carberry will be called upon to face some stiff opposition on the gridiron this fall, he should prove equal to the task.

During the World war Carberry did his bit and saw plenty of fighting.

After serving 11 months with the A.E.F. in France, Glen Carberry was blown up with an ammunition dump and came down to spend three weeks in a hospital.

The only bad effect of this happening was a shattered ear-drum. Otherwise he enjoyed the best of health and turned his efforts to law and football at Notre Dame university.

Carberry served as substitute for the all-American Rodger Kiley on the great Notre Dame squad that lost but one game in three seasons. When that team was blasted but four men remained with any experience. Before leaving their alma mater to stars of 1921 looked over the remaining field and chose Glen Carberry to assist Coach Rockne in the building of another Notre Dame machine capable of whipping West Point, Georgia Tech, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech, Indiana, Purdue and five other teams this year.

Pershing's former lieutenant has become the lieutenant of another general—Knute Rockne—in an undertaking which is very serious to Notre Dame men and which will be watched with general interest over the country.

Captain Carberry comes from a football family. Two older brothers played on the elevens of the University of Iowa. Two younger brothers are now on the high school team at Ames, Ia.

Curiously enough, all of the Carberrys have played the end position.

INJURY TO LIEB WILL WEAKEN NOTRE DAME

In defeating Purdue by a decisive score, Notre Dame suffered a great blow in the loss of Tackle Tommy Lieb. A broken leg will keep him out of the game for the rest of the season.

When the famous team of last year was badly shattered by the loss of a dozen star players, things looked bad for Coach Rockne. Tommy Lieb was one of the bright spots in the material at hand. Fate has again been unkind to Rockne.

When the 1921 season ended Lieb was known as a substitute for Johnny Mohardt—and Johnny Mohardt's sub had little chance to show. So Lieb was left apparently just an ordinary halfback.

But Knute Rockne, who knows a thing or two of football flesh, and whose job it is to produce a winner from the remnant of his squad and incoming freshmen, took a second glance at Tom Lieb.

Rockne saw 200 pounds of mean muscle and bone. He recognized a human of herculean strength. He put Tommy at tackle; and Tommy has already made the fans forget one of the greatest tackles of the 1921 season—Buck Shaw.

Lieb is a terror on the offense. He shatters lines and bids for backfield tackles. On the defense he is a wonder.

Not alone in football does he star. Lieb is also national college champion discus thrower, champion of the western conference, winner of the event at the Drake relays. In his first year of track competition Tom never met defeat.

Support High School Teams

James F. Conway, faculty manager of athletics for the high school, has issued a statement of receipts and expenses for all sports at the school for the 1921-22 season, and a loss of $241.31 is shown. Contrary to opinion, track was not the best paying sport last against $249.01 for football. Baseball year, the total receipts being $174.50 as against $249.01 for football.

and basketball were losing propositions.

The 1921 football team cost $2889.80, including equipment. Admissions to games and guarantees offset this figure by $1000, and from the total report, it is evident that an athletic fund, such as the one proposed by the Lowell Ad club, is a necessity in high school athletics. It is for this reason that the big "Dollar Day" game will be played at Spalding park on Nov. 4.

WHAT THE DOLLAR GAME PROJECT MEANS

Lest some folks gain the impression that the Dollar Game project launched by high school alumni for the purpose of raising funds for high school athletic equipment is connected with the proposed purchase of Spalding park for the erection of a stadium, a word of explanation may be in order.

Neither venture has any connection with the other, except that each of course relates to the high school. The stadium project, once started and soon to be revived, is a campaign to raise money by public subscription for the erection of a suitable athletic field and Spalding park has been decided upon as the site. The Dollar Game is a horse of another color.

It is just one of the games on the local high school schedule this year—and it happens to be the Woburn game on November 4—for which tickets are being sold for $1 each. The usual price is 50 cents. The distribution of proceeds, however, is where the reason for the scheme comes in. The high school athletes need proper and more equipment; the school is not financially strong enough to purchase it all at one time, so a committee of the Lowell Ad club, supplemented by several newspaper men, has undertaken to put over an intensive drive to secure the needed money.

If 5000 tickets are sold, it means $5000 and necessary equipment. While in a sense each purchaser is a contributor, he, nevertheless, is getting something for his dollar, for each ticket sold will admit one person to the game.

Tickets are being distributed in several ways and through many channels. Two thousand pasteboards have been given out among the undergraduates of the school, with accountings to be made to room teachers and they in turn to Headmaster Henry H. Harris. The Rotary club is interested; tickets may be purchased at the Y.M.C.A.; persons will be delegated to canvass business and professional men and all in all every effort will be made to thoroughly arouse the interest of as many people as possible.

High school alumni should rally to the cause without urging and undoubtedly will, while others will catch the fever from the enthusiasm thus engendered.

You will be asked to buy a ticket, perhaps two or more. Buy all you can and attend the game. It will do you good. It will be a game worth while watching and may whet appetites for other things in the future.

LOWELL HIGH AND ST. JOHN'S PREP

Lowell high will have St. John's Prep school as its opponent next Saturday. This game will be played at Danvers, but trucks will be run to the game and anyone wishing to go should see the cheer leaders as soon as possible. Coach Liston is working hard this week as he wishes to break the string of defeats. He has developed many trick plays. St. John's Prep has a strong team and Lowell will not find it easy to run up a score against them.

In last Friday's game Coach Liston tried to save his men for Saturday's game. Dean, Brine and Talley will be in the game Saturday. Capt. McMannon is still having men respond to his call for players which he issued at the beginning of the year, but there is still football stock in the school which, with a little practice, could be developed into first class players.

High School Practice

High school football practice was suspended by Coach Liston yesterday afternoon to allow the members of the varsity squad to go to Concord, N. H., for a visit to their "pal," Pete Sheehan, who was injured in the game with Concord high about two weeks ago. Sheehan is on the road to recovery, say the boys, and it is thought he will be allowed to leave the hospital in a week or two, as the doctors plan to put his leg in a plaster cast the latter part of this week. A group of Concord high school pupils visit the Lowell athlete daily, bringing him candies, fruits and flowers and making him feel considerably at home.

GENE SARAZEN HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Gene Sarazen, American open golf champion, had a narrow escape from serious injury last night when he made an unsuccessful effort to avoid running down Luke Robinson, an old resident of White Plains. Sarazen, who was discharged from the hospital nine days ago after a remarkably quick recovery from an appendicitis operation, ran his car onto the sidewalk in trying to avoid Robinson, who was knocked down and suffered a fractured skull and several broken ribs. Sarazen was paroled by Coroner Fitzgerald after eye-witnesses had described the accident as unavoidable.

POOR COACHING IS OFTEN SERIOUS HANDICAP

By AUBREY DEVINE

All-American 1921 Center and 1921 "Big Ten" Champions

Keeping fit, however, is no the only element that determines the star's prospects in college. The coaching he has received in high school is also important.

Many high school coaches have never played college football. When a high school coach, who has not had the expert coaching and training that goes with college football, starts out to teach football to high school players he is apt to generalize and in so doing overlook the technique in the fundamentals of football, namely, correct passing, tackling, blocking and shifting and carrying the ball.

Poor Coaching Hurts

A high school star who has not learned to execute these fundamentals in the right way is handicapped from the start. In football, as in everything else, it is much easier to teach a raw and inexperienced recruit how to do things in the right way than it is to reform a good man who has learned to do those very same things in the wrong way.

Therefore, if you should know the prospects that a high school star has of making good in college, consider first his manner of living and the quality of the coaching he has received in high school.

Upon entering collegiate football competition, the man fresh from high school must buck up against much more formidable material than he has met with in high school. He must expect to be pitted against men of more weight and greater speed, who extend themselves in a way he never dreamed of back on the home-town field. He will find that the college coaches give a good deal more attention to details, to technique and execution.

Players Must Specialize

The "prep" star will find that if he hopes to make the varsity he will have to specialize for some particular position on the team. If the coaches look upon him as a potential centre, he must learn the nature and requirements of the centre position by heart. If he is to be an end, he must learn football technique and strategy from the standpoint of an end.

Then, too, the high school star should realize from the start of his college career that he is more or less under martial law, and that he need expect no coddling from the coaches. He must steel himself to hearing the coaches tell him in plain, unvarnished English in just what matters he is lacking.

The competition and the discipline may be a little irksome, but if a man is going to make good in college football he must pay the price for his success.

TIGER ELEVEN IS CONFIDENT OF WIN

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.—The Princeton football squad is making the usual mid-season preparations for its first hard test of 1922, that being the coming battle with the University of Chicago on Saturday. The 9 to 0 defeat of last year at the hands of Chicago, is still stinging the memories of Tiger football men.

Chicago will start the game a decided favorite, football fans at Princeton declare, although the Tiger green team has kept all comers from its goal line thus far this season.

The team's lineup is undecided. Jack Cleaves, fullback, is a certainty. Pecenkopf, who has been off the squad for several weeks due to an injury has returned and probably will be in the lineup.

The entire lot of 8000 tickets allotted to Tiger rooters has been sold.

DISTINGUISHED HIMSELF

In a football game last Saturday in Manchester, N. H., between St. Anselm's Prep and Tufts Freshmen John F. Garvey, son of ex-Councilman Thos. F. Garvey of Centralville, distinguished himself by his brilliant playing at left end for the New Hampshire institution. On one occasion he intercepted a forward pass and after shaking off three prospective tacklers, ran 30 yards for the first touchdown of the game. St. Anselm's won the game by a score of 20 to 0.

TORONTO CLUB BUYS O'ROURKE

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 25.—Announcement is made that the Toronto club of the International league has purchased Frank O'Rourke, infielder, from the Boston Red Sox. It is said the Toronto club paid $5000 for O'Rourke, who played shortstop for the Leafs in 1920.

MURPHY A WINNER

Billy Murphy of this city added another victory to his string when he defeated Young Denney of the West End in a boxing match last night in the Opera House. At the end of the third round Denney's handlers tossed in the towel, acknowledging defeat.

CHESS SERIES ARRANGED

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Frank J. Marshall of New York, chess champion of the United States, and Edward Lasker of Chicago, winner of the recent masters' tournament, have signed articles of agreement to play a championship match of 18 games for $5000. Play is to begin in New York on March 15 next, other games of the series to be staged in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and New Orleans. This is the first contest for this title in 13 years.

Coach Stagg Is Banking on Jimmy Pyott

JIMMY PYOTT

Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago has great faith in his back field. If the Chicago line holds, and Stagg is confident that it will, he feels sure his back field stars will pile up enough points to make a maroon victory certain. Jimmy Pyott is one of the back field candidates who has been playing a fine game this year. Pyott is one of the best punters in the Chicago line and spends much time daily keeping his educated toe in shape for a grueling battle with the Princeton Tiger.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Joe St. Hilaire of Somersworth, N. H., who is on the card to meet South Boston Johnny Downes in the main bout of ten rounds at the Moody Club show tomorrow night is ready and anxious for the bell, according to word from his training camp at Wamesit.

St. Hilaire has been training with Young Martin, Douglas and Jim Flaherty, the latter trio, sons of the veteran Martin, and he is pronounced to be boxing better than at any time during his career. St. Hilaire has been at the game for several years but claims that in all that time he has lost but one bout. That was to Joe Gibbs, and later in return for humiliation St. Hilaire knocked out the same Gibbs in a second match.

St. Hilaire is a short, blocky individual, but he possesses long arms. He can swing them with machine-like rapidity and can hit like a trip hammer. He is out to win tomorrow night's fight in decisive fashion and if successful will go for matches with all of the leading lightweights in this neck of the woods.

The news from Boston brings the information that Johnny Downes is traveling at top speed as he is particularly anxious to win tomorrow night and thereby work into a return match with Phinney Boyle.

Young Martin Flaherty will meet Denny Grogan of Cambridge in the semi-final of eight rounds and the sensational youngster is confident of adding another victory to his clean slate, though he realizes Grogan is a worthy foe.

Freddie Jackson of Lawrence and Nick McDonough of Lexington are to meet in one preliminary and Tony Dalton of Boston and Georgie Gosslin of Lawrence are scheduled to perform in the other.

Louis Hamlin of Nashua and Tommy Leahy of Worcester are to meet in Marlboro a week from Friday night, when boxing is to be resumed in that city.

Lowell fans who saw Pancho Villa defeat Danny Edwards in Boston on Monday night declare the Filipino is about the fastest workman seen in ago.

Pete Latzo, who was nosed out by Eddie Shevlin in their recent melee in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is slated to meet Georgie Ward of Jersey in a 10-rounder to be staged by the Commercial A.C. the night of Nov. 3.

In a letter to The Sun, Al Diamond, the local boy, now in New York, states he has resumed training in anticipation of a busy campaign. He weighs 112 pounds, the flyweight limit, and stands ready to meet any boy in that figure. He is training with Frankie Jerome, who is to box Terry Martin in a return match in New York Saturday night. This pair boxed a sensational bout at the Garden last month. Diamond is to meet Terry Gray at the new Fairmont A.C., New York, on October 30.

Terry Martin, the Providence bantamweight, and Eddie Anderson of Wyoming, have been booked for a 12-round decision contest at the Broadway Exhibition association, in Brooklyn, on Nov. 6.

Bermondsey Billy Wells and Frankie Murphy of Denver have been matched to battle 10 rounds to a decision at the National Press club show to be staged at the Mount Royal Arena in Montreal on Oct. 30.

"Jocko" Conlon, the Harvard baseball star, who has played in Lowell on a number of occasions, making many friends, has won additional honors at Harvard. The following clipping will undoubtedly be of interest to Conlon's local admirers.

George Owen is adding to the glories he has already gained in football, baseball and hockey at Harvard, having been awarded the Dana P. J. Wingate cup for showing the best all-around ability in baseball, reckoned on his performance last season. This is Owen's second season in possession of the prize cup, each winner having his name inscribed thereon. Arthur J. "Jocko" Conlon, varsity captain last spring and a letter man in football as well, has also won the Barrett Wendell trophy for the second successive year for showing the best all-round effectiveness on the team. Owen has played varsity first base for two years and is captain-elect of the nine as well as of the hockey team. He fielded for .955 last year and batted for .329. Conlon handled his shortstop position for .942, under Owen's average, but he led the crimson hitters with a .341 averthese parts in many a day. He's a revelation, say the Lowellites.

Volstead Opposed for Re-election By Rev. O. J. Kvale

BY NEA SERVICE

GRANITE FALLS, Minn., Oct. 25.—The father of America's prohibition law, opposed for re-election by a minister and lifelong foe of liquor who has the backing of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and other "wets"—

Such is today's strange paradox in the political campaign in the seventh Minnesota congressional district.

Congressman Andrew J. Volstead, author of the Volstead prohibition act, is back home here, making the hardest political campaign of his career.

He seeks re-election on his prohibition record, against the Rev. O. J. Kvale, who declares himself "drier than Volstead."

The fight has assumed national interest. The nation's "dry" and "wet" organizations have both entered the campaign, for it is bound to have a tremendous effect upon the big effort to amend the dry law and legalize light wines and beer.

Volstead's opponent is pastor of the Lutheran church at Benson, Minn. Rev. Kvale has not raised the prohibition question, did not seek "wet" support—but regardless of the "dry" views, it has been thrust upon him.

Volstead Power Great

Volstead is chairman of the powerful judiciary committee of the house of representatives, to which all bills for modification of the prohibition act would be referred. Volstead's ability to hold down consideration of wet measures is a big factor for prohibition strength.

Defeat of Volstead, besides eliminating him, would improve chances for favorable action toward amendment. If the republicans retain control, George S. Graham, Philadelphia, would become chairman of the judiciary committee. Wets say he would be "more amenable to reason" than a prohibitionist.

Should the democrats regain control of the house, Robert Y. Thomas of Kentucky would be the committee chairman. Consideration of modification amendments by the judiciary committee would be assured, in either case, with Volstead removed, says the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Thus, the Rev. Kvale, ever a foe of the saloon, involuntarily has the support of the national "wet" organization, while the national organization of the Anti-Saloon League, which he has always supported, is fighting him.

It's Third Race

This is the third time the two "dry" men have opposed each other. Two years ago, Kvale defeated Volstead for the republican nomination. The republican state organization backed a contest, however, and Volstead was declared nominated.

In the fall Kvale, running as the farmer-labor candidate, lost to Volstead by but 1500 votes.

This year, Kvale is running as an independent, with the endorsement of the democrats and non-partisan league.

All is not "wet" support that is behind the Rev. Kvale. Since he came to Boston from Wisconsin, five years ago, he has won widespread popularity through his charitable w[illegible] his activity during the war and the prominent part he has taken in public affairs at Benson.

High In Church

In the Lutheran church he has been prominent since school days. He is a member of the board of education and the board of finance of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

For 23 years, Kvale was pastor at Oxfordsville, Wis., near Madison. During this time he was a close friend of Senator Robert LaFollette, and gives the latter credit for much of his political inspiration.

Rev. Kvale and his wife have seven children.

"Thoughtful Mothers!" Are You One of Them?

All mothers—bless them—are loving and devoted. How often we are led to respect and admire the "thoughtful mother," who provides for emergencies and saves her loved ones from hours of suffering and herself from needless anxiety and sleepless vigil.

The season for colds, coughs, pneumonia, influenza and catarrhal ailments is drawing near, when the "thoughtful mother" makes up a full pint of pure, quickly effective cold and cough syrup; made at home by using pure concentrated Essence Mentho-Laxene (2½ ozs.) mixed with simple sugar syrup or strained honey. A pint of sugar and a half pint of water makes the syrup in three minutes. The essence and the syrup are then poured into a pint bottle and is ready to use to prevent bad colds and coughs getting worse. The very first dose gives wonderful relief and in a few days all trace of the congestion and catarrhal symptoms are usually gone. The joy of seeing the quick freedom from colds, coughs and dangerous complications, the freedom from anxiety and sleepless nights, to say nothing of the real economy of this home remedy—is "worth its weight in gold."

The drug store supplies the Essence Mentho-Laxene. "Best ever sold for cough or cold". Send 5 cts. in stamps for trial bottle to The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio

With Aid of Collars You Can Make Old Frocks New

One way to refurbish one of last season's frocks is to add one of the new wide collars now so fashionable.

Those of net or georgette crepe, trimmed with hemstitching and a lace edging, may be made very inexpensively at home and they give the same effect of the expensive ones you buy in the shops.

It seems only fair to give this word of warning—if you have very broad shoulders such a collar will emphasize the fact. Only the young and slender should attempt this extreme style.

MONEY PAID BY CITY TO PENSIONERS

Just how much money yearly does it cost a city to take care of its employes too old to work and those incapacitated from injuries received in performance of their duty? The average person in this city hasn't an idea, couldn't guess within a few thousand dollars and has little idea, if any, how many persons are on the pension list. To those who do not know it might be interesting to learn that last year the city of Lowell paid out $23,112.94, while this year the figure will be slightly over $26,000. This amount does not include the money paid to members of the school department as the state has an arrangement with teachers which provides for pensions.

The figure for last year is fixed, as far as last year is concerned, but this year's figure is based upon that amount of money expended in the past nine months. Taking the amount of money paid out in the month of September as a computation basis, the city will pay out $26,127.13 this year. This will not be the exact figure in all probability because some individual may be added to the list before the year closes which would increase the total, or then again death may claim some member now on the pension list which would lessen the total for the year.

At the present time there are 41 persons, all men, drawing pensions from the city. During the month of September 42 men drew pensions but during the middle of the month one of the number died, thereby automatically cutting his name from the list.

The fire and police departments, two of the largest municipal departments with regard to the number of men employed, head the list of representatives on the pension sheet. Each has 15 former members of the department receiving compensation. Until the death of one former member of the police department, which occurred last month, the police had one more drawing pension than the fire department.

The highest yearly amount paid out to any fire department member is $1015.35, while the lowest is $501.87. The average amount paid out each month is $788.60. The lowest amount paid to any one member is $1.37½ per day. In taking such a figure into consideration it should be remembered that the pension laws have changed since they were first made, thereby allowing men pensioned at the present time to receive more money.

In the police department the pensions vary greatly. They range from $1.75 per day to $2 and $2.50 per day up to a yearly basis of $1500. The lowest amount received by any on this list is $548. In September $963.01 was paid out.

The water department takes care of two men. One of these receives $365 and the other $684. The public buildings has one man who receives $21.67 per month. In the streets department there are six men who receive amounts varying from $25 per month to $927.90 per year. The total payroll is $245.54 per month.

Two janitors connected with the school department receive $28.73 and $41.66 per month. This totals up to $70.39 per month or $844.78 per year.

It is fortunate that a city is able to care for faithful employes or those who are incapacitated during the time they work for a city. Of course a number not included here are protected through the workmen's compensation law. With one or two exceptions, the men on the pension list are those who have been in the city's service for years and who were retired on pension as a reward for faithful services rendered.

FIVE AFTER ONE POSTMASTERSHIP

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 25.—Five well known residents of this city are known to have made application for examination as candidates for the postmastership of Springfield.

Applications were to be filed in Washington by midnight last night. Those known to have applied are Col. Paul J. Norton, commander of the 104th Regiment, M.N.G.; Christopher G. Simpson, ex-president of the common council; James F. Walls, Jr., ex-alderman and former chairman of the republican city committee; Archibald H. Matthews, a veteran of the 104th Infantry, U.S.A., and Ellis P. Knox, a present employe in the postoffice.

It is estimated that the dog has been man's companion for about 7000 years.

LONDON PAPERS PRAISE NEW PRIME MINISTER

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Times comments in a friendly tone on Bonar Law's accession to the premiership, expressing the belief that the country will be pleased at his abstention from melodramatic promises and will confidently await the full exposition of his program.

The Daily Telegraph, which has been generally a hearty supporter of former Premier Lloyd George, also is favorable to the new prime minister, commending the "honesty, moderation and strong common sense of his address yesterday."

The Daily Express reproduces a rumor, which also appears elsewhere but which is entirely unconfirmable, that the premier may include the Earl of Balfour in his administration. Such a step, says the Express, would be disastrous, because "Balfour is the author of the Palestinian policy whereby the Zionist minority is to govern and dispossess the Arab majority with the aid of British bayonets."

This policy, the newspaper adds, is leading straight to an Arab revolt and trouble as disastrous as the Greeks met in Asia Minor. It calls upon the government to reverse its policy in Palestine and clear out of the near east altogether.

This stand is supported by the Daily Mail and it is obvious that unless Bonar Law complies, these two papers will oppose him.

MAYONNAISE

AND YOU CAN MAKE IT YOURSELF—READ HOW

EVERYBODY likes mayonnaise. But the best mayonnaise is the kind you make yourself at home. Some housewives think mayonnaise is difficult and troublesome to prepare.

Look over the Mazola recipe here and see how simple it is.

Take the can of Mazola you now have or get a can from your grocer and follow this recipe carefully. You will be delighted with the results.

Mazola-made mayonnaise is always firm and will keep longer without separating.

Likewise for other dressings, such as French Dressing, Mazola is not only the preference of those who know salad oils, but you don't need to worry about using Mazola liberally.

For, as there are no heavy ocean freight rates or import duties to pay, it is much less expensive than imported olive oil.

Mazola never gets rancid, in any climate or temperature. So you do not need to keep it in the ice box.

A Friendly Hint: Be sure to always have a can of Mazola on hand.

Mayonnaise Dressing

1 cup Mazola ½ teaspoon Salt
1 Egg Yolk ½ teaspoon Sugar
3 tablespoons Lemon Juice or Vinegar
½ teaspoon Paprika

Add well mixed seasoning to egg, with one teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar, and beat well, adding one teaspoon Mazola at a time until mixture thickens, after which the Mazola may be added more rapidly. Thin with lemon juice or vinegar when necessary.

LINER LANDS LIQUOR

Halifax Temporary Storage Place While Ships Are in American Waters

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 24.—The Red Cross liner Silvia, plying between St John's, Halifax, and New York, landed all her liquor stores on her regular call here today so that she might enter New York without violating the Daugherty prohibition ruling. The Silvia will pick up her liquor stock on the return trip, thus initiating the practice of using Halifax as a temporary storage place for liquor during the period when Canadian ships are in American waters.

The Furness liner Sachem, sailing tomorrow for Boston, will carry out the same procedure. It was announced, picking up the liquor on the return trip.

LOWELL MARINE ON PITTSBURGH CRUISE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Starting on a cruise which in all probability will last two years, James Henry Fallon of Lowell, Mass., is a member of the United States Marine Guard on the cruiser Pittsburgh, which left here recently and is now reported steaming toward the Mediterranean. In view of his excellent record in the Marine Corps he was especially selected for this cruise.

The men of the Pittsburgh are looking forward to an interesting cruise in European waters. That vessel will visit the Canary Islands, then Gibraltar, may eventually be ordered to duty in the vicinity of the Dardanelles. The Pittsburgh is to meet the U.S.S. Utah in the Mediterranean, where Vice Admiral A. T. Long will come aboard and make the Pittsburgh his flagship. According to the present itinerary the vessel will cruise about the Mediterranean in the winter months and the Baltic and North seas in the summer. Fallon and his comrades will have an opportunity to visit many European ports.

Young Fallon was born in Lowell 20 years ago, and he is a stepson of Andrew Powell, 108 Meadowcroft street, that city. He joined the Marines at Buffalo, N. Y., last April, and was especially trained for sea duty. His assignment to duty on the Pittsburgh followed.

GLASGOW CENTER OF POLITICAL INTEREST

LONDON, Oct. 24. (By the Associated Press.)—Glasgow will be the chief center of interest in the political situation for the rest of the week. The new prime minister, Andrew Bonar Law, on Thursday will announce the details of his policy there, and 18 hours later former Premier Lloyd George will address a meeting, being accompanied to Scotland by Sir Robert Horne, who was his chancellor of the exchequer.

The Times political correspondent empasizes the importance of the situation in Glasgow, which it says is due to the strength of the communistic party among the industrial workers, adding that this is largely on account of the reluctance of the Glasgow members of parliament to abandon the coalition. The writer suggests that this position is likely to give impetus to the Scottish home rule movement.

It is hinted elsewhere that Bonar Law's reelection as member from the Central division of Glasgow is in no wise certain, and that he will be opposedby Sir George Paish, as a Free Liberal, in addition to the labor candidate.

"NATIONAL FORGET-PASSION PLAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, New York rabbi, speaking here before a congregation of Jews, assailed the Passion Play of Oberammergau as an agency which inflames religious and racial prejudices against the Jews.

Rabbi Wise said he witnessed the revival of the Passion Play after its suspension during the war.

"The Passion Play was first presented by the people of that little German village in 1633—almost three centuries ago," he said. "At that time, the Jews of Europe were being widely persecuted. They were pariahs—social outcasts.

"The play reflects the antipathy for the Jew that was so flagrant at that time, and I hold that its performance is a grave injustice to the Jewish race and only fans the flames of racial and religious prejudice."

ROTARIANS HEAR STREET RAILWAY MANAGER

It's a long lane that has no turning. The figurative worm turned yesterday when the Eastern Massachusetts street railway, through its new manager, Maurice E. McCormick, well armed with verbal shafts pointed and far-reaching, described what ails the Lowell electric street car service and named a few antidotes that may bring a reaction and a return to the outlawed regime of low fares and better service.

The manager discussed the local railway traffic situation in detail, armed with manuscripts, tables and reports, although much of his extended address was delivered without reference to notes of any kind. His description of the life a railway manager has to lead, with complaints constantly piling up, lawsuits threatened or begun for minor troubles, timetables askew causing additional worries and complaints, and the sparse patronage noted on many local cars during the day, the average number of passengers to each car per car mile being seven, was listened to with marked attention by the 85 Rotarians and guests present at today's weekly luncheon of the club in Dutton street headquarters. Mr. McCormick was the guest of honor.

Previous to the address that explained some things the public wants to know about in connection with local transportation matters, an invitation was received from Malden Rotarians to attend an event in that city; an invitation was extended to Rotarians to co-operate with the local American Legion members and help make the Legion military ball a success, and Willard Parker, advertising man for the Nov. 17 charity ball, begged everybody to distribute placards, posters and tickets and "Keep busy" from now on to make the first event of the Rotarian winter social schedule a success.

Former Manager Thomas Lees of the street railway, was the chairman of the afternoon. He gave a little history of his early days on the local division, told of joining the Rotary club with a few other eager souls, and paid a little tribute to Brother Harry Pitts, who was secretary of the first Rotarian organization here.

Mr. Lees introduced the new manager, Mr. McCormick, vouching for him as capable, honest and a "good fellow." During the ovation to Mr. Lees, who relinquishes his work with the railway soon after aiding the new manager daily during the past three weeks, the Rotarians made Mr. Lees an honorary member of the local association for life. William Mitchell made the motion.

Manager McCormick declared that the history of the Eastern Massachusetts lines was an open book. He went back, nevertheless, and told of the early days of street railroading before the "electries" came along. He reviewed the story of the coming of the public trustees. The summary showed the falling off in patronage.

The manager declared that a street railway only turns over its capital but once in five years. The growth of the street railways of the country represented a sum of more than five billion dollars. The history of many lines show that numerous roads were built that never paid a cent, but were only constructed to satisfy public demands before the days of the automobile. Details showing the deterioration of cars, tracks, equipment, etc., were explained and figures given to show numerous cases of depreciations that badly affected the roads' profits.

The manager said the five-cent fare was "always too small," but why it was selected as a staple fare, he did not know, except that in the old days a "nickel was popular." "If the roads had adopted eight-cent fares in the old days and stuck to them, they would have been in a prosperous condition today," he said.

"The telephones, the rural free delivery service, automobiles, etc., have affected street railway service everywhere. In Quincy square on a Sunday in June, during a period of 10 hours, 6046 automobiles passed through, taking away passengers that might have gone in the street cars in former days.

Mr. McCormick declared that the public trustees have drastic power—that the state public service corporation has practically no control of the local division lines, as some people think. But the public trustees saved the street railway service, the speaker said. Borrowed money is being paid back with 6 per cent interest. Trackage is being renewed, new equipment bought, cars repaired and painted, new rail lines put down and all old-time "flat wheels" thrown away and new ones employed. The speaker described the burdens of the winter storms.

The lines' only relief, he said, are the one-man cars. Four hundred double-truck cars have been reconverted to one-man cars, and 200 single cars were ordered and placed in service. Great cuts have been made in maintenance shop forces. In repair shops and car barns, fully 50 per cent being the rule where unnecessary workmen are done away with to save expenses.

The manager declared Lowell is getting today "more car miles per day than any other city on the system." The company is providing 210,000 seat miles per day, but only 40,000 customers use them. Only one-sixth of the number of passengers provided with seats use the service. The average number of passengers per car mile for every mile run is but 6½. The Lowell lines, Mr. McCormick declared, are losing money on the cars now in service daily.

"If we could get two more passengers per mile for each car, we could reduce fares," said Mr. McCormick. He told of the promptness with which passengers file claims for damages "for nervous shock" when a car jumps the rails and slides along the street once in a while. Out of 25 passengers on one derailed car, at least 18 claim damages, on the average. The nervous shock accident claim is the worst trouble-maker the local corporation has to deal with, he added.

"But we are here to serve you. If you will give us more passengers per mile, we will give you lower fares. We welcome suggestions at all times. We cannot operate this railway here in Lowell at less than cost. Support the railway and we will give you the best service we can and lower fares."

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Attorney J. Weston Allen today issued a challenge to Louis A. Coolidge to a debate in Boston, on the question whether Massachusetts shall conform with the federal prohibition amendment which is to be the subject of a referendum vote at the state election, Nov. 7. Mr. Allen said he was willing that the debate in which he would of course take the affirmative, should be a part of the debating program now being arranged by the Constitutional Liberty league of Massachusetts, of which Mr. Coolidge is a leader.

FIRE CHIEF ENTERTAINS NEW BEDFORD MEN.

Chief Edward F. Saunders, of the local fire department, entertained Chief Dahill and members of the New Bedford city government yesterday morning, taking them through the Memorial Auditorium and pointing out other things of interest.

The visitors came to the city primarily to see if the local department was equipped with a drill tower, but finding none, spent a few hours in sightseeing.

Chief Saunders has received an invitation from Chief John O. Taber, of the Boston department, to participate in exercises to be held in the Hub on Nov. 7, which is the 50th anniversary of the great Boston conflagration of 1872. Lowell apparatus also has been invited to take part in a parade of machines from Boston and other nearby cities and towns.

No decision has been made by the chief as to the extent of Lowell's participation, although very likely he will attend the exercises.

Chief Taber's letter, which outlines the proposed program for the day, follows:

Boston 18, October 21, 1922.

Chief E. F. Saunders,
Lowell Fire Department,
Lowell, Mass.

My Dear Chief:

November 9th will be the fiftieth anniversary of the great Boston fire of 1872.

His Honor, the mayor, the fire commissioner and myself are all anxious that proper notice be taken of the day.

It has been arranged to hold a parade through the principal down-town streets in which a portion of the Boston fire department as can be relieved for the purpose will participate.

We should be very much pleased if you and some of your department and some of your apparatus could participate in this commemorative parade. A similar invitation is being sent to all the cities and towns adjacent to Boston and to all other cities and towns whose departments participated in the great fire.

We are preparing to arrange for some informal gathering of the chiefs after the parade, and at 7.24 o'clock in the evening His Honor, the mayor, will pull Box 1437 which has replaced Box 52, which box was pulled for the great fire. The number 52 will be struck on the department tappers, and the present first alarm apparatus will respond to the building on the site of the building where the great fire originated, and this apparatus will all be put to work for a few moments. Afterwards we will adjourn to another point where a demonstration of the fire-boats will be given.

If it is your intention to take part in this event, I shall be pleased to have you write me immediately.

I sincerely hope that you can arrange to participate, and I shall be glad to take up any further details with you by letter or telephone.

Very sincerely yours,
JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

LONDON, Oct. 24. (By the Associated Press.)—The issuance of Mr. Lloyd George's honors list, which is expected tomorrow or Thursday, is awaited with great interest.

It is persistently rumored that Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, who was foreign minister in Mr. Lloyd George's cabinet, is to be made a duke. Picketing Renewed at White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Picketing of the White House grounds as a protest against continued imprisonment of violators of war time laws was renewed today by the joint amnesty committee, representing the Maryland Civil Liberties Union, the Pennsylvania Committee for Release of Political Prisoners and the American Civil Liberties Union. Half a dozen women appeared at the gates about the time the cabinet convened, all of the picketers bearing banners urging the release of those convicted for war time offenses.

WEDS TITLED MAN

Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, stepdaughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt, has married Sir Paul Dukes, British war hero. The wedding at Nyack, N. Y., was kept secret for more than a week. The bride inherited a part of the Vanderbilt millions. She wedded Congressman Ogden L. Mills, in Paris during the war, and later divorced him there. She met Sir Paul when he was engaged in British secret service work in Soviet Russia. For a year Dukes has been lecturing in America and Canada.

FIGHTING PROHIBITION

Counsel for Shipmen Seek Supersedas Order to Prevent Injunction Dismissal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—An effort by counsel for the ship companies which are seeking to prevent enforcement of the prohibition of liquors on foreign ships touching American ports and on American vessels outside territorial waters of the United States, to obtain from Associate Justice Brandeis of the supreme court a supersedas order to hold up the dismissal of their injunction proceedings by Federal Judge Hand of New York was awaited here today.

Whether Justice Brandeis would act immediately on such a petition which the attorneys announced they were preparing to submit to him, or wait until after the supreme court meets Nov. 13, was a subject of speculation. If a supersedas order were obtained shortly it was pointed out, interference by the government with operation of the appellants' ships would be prevented until final decision by the supreme court on the legal point at issue, where the normal course would be for federal officers to proceed with enforcement of the statute as soon as dismissal of the injunction case had been formally signed by Judge Hand.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES—No. 92.

Jack started in to dig and worked hard. It was not long before his hands were blistered and his back was aching. The plucky lad kept right at his task, however. He was anxious to uncover the hidden treasure. Flip ran around chasing sparrows.

Unnoticed by Jack, a strange boy wandered near and watched him dig. Presently he motioned for others to come over and watch. The lad was very curious as to what Jack was digging for. In the meantime Jack went deeper and deeper into the ground.

Footsteps and strange voices startled Jack. He stopped and looked around. Quite a crowd had gathered. The little adventurer was bewildered and somewhat scared. He didn't know a soul in the crowd and wondered if anyone would interfere with him. Continued.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

BIG CROWD AT CARNIVAL

Second Night of Big Carnival in Associate Hall Very Successful

Favored by ideal weather, the second night of the big K. of C. carnival continued in Associate hall last night with about 3000 people in attendance. The various booths, neatly distributed about the hall, reported a capacity business, the gathering generously responding to the persistent appeals of the lively and energetic salesmen and ladies. As on the opening night, general dancing was in order throughout the evening and continued until midnight, with the following in charge: Floor director, J. Joseph McOsker; assistant floor directors, Thomas P. Donnelly and Bernard F. Roach. During the dance numbers, a singer from Boston rendered several popular airs, which were greatly approved by all. A balloon dance, in which all participants were required to purchase balloons, was one of the many features of the evening. Several of the balloons refused to behave and soared to the celestial heights of the hall while others burst without warning in the hands of the owners.

At appointed intermissions, John F. Roane ascended the stage platform and assumed the position of auctioneer, calling for bids on various articles of rare worth. Joseph M. Duffy, of 199 High street outbid his nearest competitor and was awarded a beautiful electric lamp, while a bag of flour was won by Miss Winifred Hart of West street, one of the hustlers on Santa Maria table.

While the main hall bustled with activity, the vendors in the council chambers upstairs reported sales of unusual proportions, practically doubling the receipts of the night before. Grand Knight John E. Hart was again on deck to supervise the affair and with a competent staff of assistants, everything proceeded with consistent regularity. The carnival will close this evening when special features, especially reserved for the closing, will be exhibited, including a grand auction sale of every article on the tables. This afternoon was devoted to the children of the city and, needless to say, all took advantage of the opportunity to engage in the merry-making.

MILITARY BALL BY AMERICAN LEGION

The military ball to be held Friday evening, Nov. 10, Armistice eve., under the auspices of the local American Legion, promises to be a colorful affair, for in addition to guests coming attired in uniforms of the World war, army, navy and marine corps, there will be the brilliant colors of the Spanish war veterans, the venerated uniforms of the Grand Army of the Republic and the attractive display of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and other famous organizations of renown in the world military.

The ball room decorations are to be in keeping with the display of uniforms and the spirit of the evening. A most extensive decoration scheme has been planned, the active committee in charge of this work being headed by Dr. Joseph P. Kearney, chairman, who has conferred with Blackall & Clapp and Whitemore, architects, to obtain a comprehensive scheme that will be in harmony with the building and event.

Legion committeemen announced today that the ball is not for military representatives and enthusiasts alone, but for the general public. The Legion is simply endeavoring to revive interest in the glory of old-time military events of this kind and is seeking the hearty co-operation of the public at large.

The list of invited guests includes Governor Channing Cox, Lieut.-Gov. Fuller, Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Gen. Edwards and numerous other well known gentlemen in civic and military life of the commonwealth.

Rev. Francis J. Mullin, assistant pastor of St. Michael's church, was reported at St. John's hospital this morning as showing signs of improvement. He passed a quiet night, and is resting comfortably today.

Miss Rita Hebert of 903 Moody street was agreeably surprised last evening on the occasion of her birthday anniversary. A group of her friends gathered at her home and after presenting her a purse of gold, spent a most enjoyable evening. Games were played, entertainment numbers were given and a buffet luncheon was served.

TICKETS FOR LECTURES

Many Season Tickets Distributed for the Moses Greeley Parker Course

Three thousand season tickets for the Moses Greeley Parker course of lectures and concerts have been distributed. Two thousand were rapidly snapped up on Monday and the third thousand was as eagerly sought this afternoon at the Auditorium box office.

The course this year will be divided into week-day night lectures and concerts and Sunday afternoon concerts and one of the best general programs possible has been arranged by the committee.

Beginning with a concert by the Boston Symphony ensemble, a group of musicians from the large orchestra, on Thursday evening, Nov. 2, the course continues until April of next year. Three Burton Holmes travelogues have been booked and twice Isaac F. Marcosson will lecture, once on "The Changing East" and later on "The German Collapse and World Security."

They will have a choice of seats only until 7.45 o'clock on the evening of a concert or lecture. After that time the general public will be admitted without tickets so far as the seating capacity of the Auditorium will permit.

The speakers, the titles and the dates of the evening entertainments are as follows:

FLIVVERING FROM COAST TO COAST

Flivvering in a gasoline vehicle plastered with the names of cities and towns from 'Frisco, Cal., and far Tijuana, the wettest town on the other side of the Mexican border, to Portland, Me., not forgetting the Spindle City, two more of the clan of coast-to-coast travelers slid into the big square near the Richardson hotel on Middlesex street this noon and hurried over to a frankfurt parlor for sustenance, also demanding coffee that wasn't made of chicory.

For these two trippers of the Ford clan of tourists have been used to good foods all the way from the Yuma desert, where they ate free frigoles and honey, to the land of cotton where the tamales and the fried corn pones came easy. Folks all the way along the route didn't want any Yankee money for entertaining the tourists, who gave their names to The Sun this noon as Fred Hammond, who appeared in chic khaki, and T. H. Hanley, who wears glasses, and is a good fellow to meet. Hanley came from Lynn once, but hangs out when at home in Springfield, Mass., where this famous trip started.

The record to Lowell is just 22,000 miles by flivver, with six blowouts, two new sets of tires on the rears and six changes from old to new on the two front spinners.

The box covering the Ford was home made, but cost nearly $500 to build. It is covered with names of men, towns and famous sights discovered on the long trail.

Hanley built the conveyance. Everything went fine until the oil stove gave out on the Mojave desert, but a traveler helped them out and there were no obits to write in the home papers.

The trip was begun in the spring of 1920, backed by a letter from good Governor Milliken of Maine.

From Portland the boys visited all the states, interviewing Rockefeller oil barons continuously when they weren't getting governors' signatures. They spent the winter in California and outside stations, skipped down to the Mexican resorts to see if the wild animals were really alive as reported, and left Los Angeles in April for the homeward trip. They hit Lowell this morning with frankfurts the first thing on the menus, while the truckmen who reside in the district of Thorndike street piled them with fancy bottles of orange juice and lemon pop, which necessitated a little irritating remark from Friend Hanley:

"Is that the best you can do in Lowell?"

Mr. Hanley has no relatives here, but says the Hanley family is well known, for he reads the Lowell papers.

MOTORCYCLE DAMAGED

A motorcycle owned by J. Paquin of 26 Tucker street and operated by Leo Rivet of 484 Moody street was badly damaged yesterday afternoon when it was struck by an automobile owned by Wilfrid Idonia of White street and operated by his son. The collision occurred in Moody street, but fortunately no one was injured.

INTERESTING ADDRESS

St. Patrick's Holy Name Society Hear William H. O'Brien of Boston

Practically the entire membership of St. Patrick's Holy Name society attended the special meeting in the school hall last night and listened to a very interesting and instructive address by William H. O'Brien, of the public utilities department of the state house. Mr. James O'Sullivan, president of the society, had charge of the meeting and introduced the speaker, who dwelt at length on his personal experiences in various lines of business, from the time of his connection with the Munsey magazine up to his present important position in the public utilities department.

Mr. O'Brien, who is an accomplished speaker, had no set subject for his address, but gave a heart-to-heart talk along many lines. He referred to the telephone and telegraph as two of the greatest public utilities in use today, and displayed a wonderful familiarity with that topic. At the conclusion of his informal talk, the members accorded the visitor a rising vote of thanks and extended him a welcome to reappear here in Lowell at some future date. Several non-members attended last night's meeting, including the brothers of St. Patrick's school and priests of the parish, who were present as invited guests.

ON NATIONAL GUARD RETIRED LIST

By order of the commander-in-chief, in a special order issued by Adjutant General Jesse F. Stevens, Dr. Schuyler B. Waller, of this city, has been placed on the Massachusetts National Guard retired list with the rank of major.

Retirement has come on the major's own request, but only after honorable, active commissioned service for the period required by law under the state statutes.

"Like — I'm Dead," Replied John

BOSTON, Oct. 25—Identified as a dead man and with preparations almost complete for his funeral, John A. Mooney of the West End, very much alive, finds himself in all sorts of complications. Last Saturday a body was picked up in Charlestown and taken to a morgue where Mrs. Mooney identified it as that of her husband.

Yesterday morning a patrolman saw John walking along the street. They went to the police station and Mrs. Mooney was summoned.

"You're dead," they exclaimed in unison.

"Like — I am," replied John.

"Who said so?"

After convincing them that he was still alive, John attempted to draw some money from a bank but was refused, it being told that he was dead. He also tried to convince officers of Station 2 that he was alive but they chased him out.

SEE IRENE CASTLE—FEW GOOD SEATS LEFT

There still remain a few good seats for Irene Castle's personal appearance at the new Auditorium Thursday night. Seats are still on sale at Steiner's. Tickets which have already been ordered but not called for will be placed on sale at noon tomorrow.

One of the most striking and original features on the program of Irene Castle's "Dances and Fashions of 1923," is her new Butterfly dance, which is brought direct from a distinct triumph at Armenonville in the Bois de Boulogne. The dance scored so heavily with lovers of joy at the amusing summer revue that the Castle butterfly could not be omitted when plans were laid for the concert tour in this country.

The Castle Madame Butterfly costume was first seen and applauded at the Ambassadors, on the Champs Elysees.

REAL ESTATE MEN HAVE BANQUET

Several Lowell real estate men attended the banquet of the Massachusetts Real Estate exchange held at Hotel Bellevue, Boston, last evening. Among those present from this city were George D. Kimball, Curtis W. Johnson, Dieudonne St. Pierre and Albert Beigeron.

The members had a business meeting after the banquet, discussing the pros and cons of the new legislative bill to come before the state solons this fall, providing for the licensing of all real estate brokers in Massachusetts.

Lowell members of the "M.R.E.E." are said to be a unit in favoring the passage of this bill, which, it is expected, will prevent so-called "outlaw" brokers from doing business in Massachusetts illegally.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL SENDS HIS REGRETS

The committee in charge of the Theodore Roosevelt memorial exercises to be held at the Memorial Auditorium on Friday afternoon of the present week, at which Senator Henry Cabot Lodge will be the principal speaker, has received a letter of regret from His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, who was invited to attend and speak.

The cardinal's letter, addressed to Mrs. Henry M. Thompson, local chairman of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial association, follows:

My Dear Mrs. Thompson—I wish sincerely it were in my power to be with you at the meeting in honor of Theodore Roosevelt to which you have so kindly invited me, but alas this is my busiest time of all the year and I cannot go, much as I wish to.

I had the honor of knowing Mr. Roosevelt rather intimately, and I admired him the more I knew him. He was the embodiment of those particular qualities which America most cultivates and which all real men most admire,—lofty courage, boundless energy, manly frankness. He was in many senses the typical American. His memory will always be a stimulus to patriotism and a challenge to honest and straightforward work.

How I should like to say all this and much more at your meeting. Please say for me what I should so like to say. Very sincerely,

WILLIAM CARDINAL O'CONNELL.

E. J. COONEY SPEAKS AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., October 25.—Newspaper advertising and public relations were subjects featured at today's session of the American Gas association at its fourth annual convention on the Steel Pier.

E. J. Cooney, of Lowell, Mass., said the gas men should stop wasting thousands of dollars annually in program and so-called special advertising and invest their money in newspaper advertising which would bring one hundred per cent results through strictly legitimate channels.

"Using valuable newspaper space to tell what your capitalization is always arouses the ire of those who preach socialism," he said, "while the publishing of the names of those who constitute your board of directors is a sop to the men occupying those positions. Such advertising never did and never will sell one cent's worth of gas, or will it ever accomplish one iota of good will for the company."

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Much Time Taken Up Today With Assault and Battery Case

A case which consumed considerable time in the district court today was that of Frank Leba, for assault and battery on a Polish woman. Dr. Matthew P. Mahoney testified on the witness stand that he was called to attend a severe flesh wound, apparently inflicted by a sharp instrument, on the forehead of the woman. Officer Jerome Cullen said he was in the vicinity of Common street on Oct. 14, when the alleged assault took place, but knew nothing of a knife being used.

The complainant, with bandaged forehead, stated that the defendant had slashed her with a knife, which was introduced as evidence. Leba exhibited two black eyes when called upon to give his testimony, and alleged that the two particular regions had been blackened by contact with brass knuckles in a brawl which preceded the assault in question. Judge Enright summed up the case briefly and fined defendant $25. He paid.

The old case of assault and battery against Peter Audonian, on Misto Ganem, came up again today and was continued until tomorrow morning.

The alleged assault occurred in a Suffolk street coffee house and in an argument over the Near East situation Audonian is said to have seized the complainant, knocked him down and bit his nose to such an extent that six stitches were required. Several witnesses were called and it was long after noon when the case was concluded.

Odilon Rochette, for the neglect of minor children, was released under bonds of $200, until next Friday.

For the non-support of his wife, Nicholas Shaheen was found guilty and fined $75. He appealed and was released in $300 bonds for appearance in superior court on the first Monday in November.

Vasolas Fotopoulos, on a charge of illegal sale, was granted a continuance until Friday.

Joseph Boisclair, Denis Lynch and James Burns, all pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness. Boisclair was already under a suspended sentence for a similar offense and the court today revoked the suspension and imposed a direct sentence of four months to the house of correction. Burns and Lynch received sentences to the same place for periods of four and two months, respectively.

WILL INCREASE VOTING FACILITIES

The election commissioners will enlarge the voting facilities in the polling places for precincts 2 and 3 of ward 3, at Chelmsford and Grand streets and on Pine street near Westford street, and also in precinct 1 of ward 5, at the High street engine house, in compliance with requests received from the republican city committee. The committee also made the same request for the Laura Lee school, but this already had been cared for on request of Councilor Arthur B. Chadwick.

Chairman Hugh C. McOsker said today the commission will crowd every stall possible into the booths in question, realizing the congestion that is possible in large precincts.

An unprecedented rush of voters is expected on state election day between 12 and 1 o'clock, noon, which will be the only hour available for hundreds of people. The polls will open at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m.

SYMPHONY CONCERT

Renowned Orchestra Heard to Excellent Advantage at Memorial Auditorium

The Boston Symphony orchestra again came to Lowell last night to be heard in concert in the Memorial Auditorium by nearly 4000 people. There were a few scattering vacant seats, but only a few, perhaps half a hundred in all, although the gallery in the rear of the stage was not used.

As many times as the Symphony may come to the city in the future, it will be enjoyed in increasing measure, principally because when playing in the Auditorium it is performing in a setting worthy of the stone. Cramped quarters for the musicians have been unavoidable in the past and while the big Auditorium stage was none too large, it was sufficiently roomy to accommodate the personnel of an even one hundred.

And then again, it is such a pleasure to hear music in the Auditorium. First, its acoustic properties were tested by the human voice in tones of addresses, then it was tested by the voice in song and last night by orchestral music. The properties are admirable in every way. It is indeed impossible to detect a flaw.

In the arrangement of his program last evening, Mr. Monteux selected a symphony, a symphonic poem, three movements from "The Damnation of Faust" and the much loved Tannhauser overture. The program ran a full two hours and was the best ever played by this splendid band in its many visits to the city.

The ability of leadership possessed and adroitly used by Mr. Monteux was in great measure responsible for the splendid impression instantly made. His spirit was contagious and clearly was echoed and re-echoed from all instruments from strings to kettledrums.

From the opening notes of Tchaikovsky symphony, sonorously sounded by horns and bassoons right through to the climax and conclusion of the Pilgrims' chorus in the Tannhauser overture, the orchestration was exquisite, brilliant when the scoring called for brilliancy, almost ethereal when the mood required and at all times moving in perfect concert in keeping with the director's nod and flourish of baton.

The program ran as follows:

Tchaikovsky,
Symphony No. 4 in F minor, Op. 36
I. Andante sostenuto; moderato con anima.
II. Andantino in modo di canzona.
III. Scherzo; Pizzicato ostinato: Allegro.
IV. Finale: Allegro con fuoco.

Liszt,
Symphonic Poem No. 3, "Les Preludes"

Berlioz,
Three Pieces from "The Damnation of Faust."
a. Menuet.
b. Valse des Sylphes.
c. Rakoczy March.

Wagner .....Overture to "Tannhauser"

The concert was secured under the local management of Albert Edmund Brown, who has booked many other splendid things for the Auditorium this winter. The Symphony again comes on March 27 of next year.

Last evening members of the Lowell Masonic choir served as ushers, and there was little, if any, confusion.

OLD THIRTY-THIRD HOLDS FIFTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REUNION

Survivors of Famous Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry Association Meet in Memorial Hall—Election of Officers This Afternoon—Banquet and Informal Program

When "Ramrod" Ryder, wounded in the Atlanta campaign when Sherman and his veterans marched to the sea, strode into Memorial hall at 11 o'clock this morning, his six feet of stature towering over the height of two dozen other war heroes waiting to greet him, the fifty-sixth annual reunion of the survivors of the famous old Thirty-Third Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry association was officially started.

Just 60 years ago today, 1200 members of the old valiant command were ready to go "forward" to their first battle at Thoroughfare Gap down in Virginia. The rattle of musketry and booming of cannon kept them ever alert. The regimental band was playing "We Are Marching Along" as the boys passed swiftly through Fairfax. Many of them failed to gather around the campfires at nightfall when the stars came out, and the boys in blue who had survived, spent a solemn evening with ranks shattered and their comrades in arms gone from the lines that braved the battle front.

Today few survivors of the old fighting command are on hand to salute the colors, but among those who arrived this morning for the annual reunion and love feast were Joseph Brummitt of Wolfboro, N. H.; J. E. Barrows, Wilmington; Ira C. Bumpus, Boston; Henry A. Dickson, Fitchburg; Charles R.

INTERESTING ADDRESS ON TEXTILE CONDITIONS NORTH AND SOUTH

System Manager of Department of Business of Boston Bank Addresses Lowell Ad Club—Speaker Says Northern Textile Mill Owners Are "Victims of Lassitude and Stagnant Conditions"

Calling upon Lowell Textile operators to "come out of their lethargy" and arise to meet the menacing competition of the idly growing and prosperous textile industries of the southern sections of the country, William J. Fortune, system manager, department of business, of the National Shawmut bank of Boston, gave a lengthy and forceful address to the members and guests of the Lowell Ad club after the noon banquet today in club quarters.

The speaker was equipped with facts and figures that made the New England textile industries look far from imposing in a business administration way when compared with new and incr asing industrial organizations listed on the books of textile corporations now in operation at many southern points.

Declaring that northern textile mill owners were "victims of lassitude and stagnant conditions" and decrying the "lack of energy exhibited during the past few years in local textile circles right here in Lowell," Mr. Fortune gave concrete examples of the great increase in southern mill construction and employment, and described ideal conditions existing in the mill areas and living quarters.

He insisted that these conditions were greatly benefiting the industries and making contented, happy work-

CHICAGO JUSTICE ISSUES STAY ORDER SAVING SCHOOLBOARD FROM JAIL

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Justice Orrin N. Carter of the state supreme court this afternoon, issued an order staying the high court's mandate on which deputy sheriffs were seeking four present and former schoolboard officials who would have been lodged in jail for contempt. One trustee, Hart Hanson, already was in jail and two others had served one day sentences. Justice Carter's order will prevent the sheriff from jailing Albert H. Severinghaus, former president of the schoolboard, and still a member; William H. Birther, former attorney for the board; George B. Arnold, state director of labor, and formerly a trustee, and Francis E. Croarkin, a trustee pending some further legal action.

THE COAL PROFITEERS

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—A demand that steps be taken to regulate the practices of "swivel chair" and "roll-top" jobbers in coal, who are adding from $2 to $5 per ton to the price which Massachusetts consumers must pay for fuel was sent by James J. Phelan, state fuel administrator, to Federal Distributor Spens today.

Mr. Phelan points out that although the federal authorities have fixed a maximum price of $9.25 at the mines, these jobbers have so arranged matters that many Massachusetts dealers are obliged to pay as much as $15 per ton at the mines, this resulting in a price of $21 for coal delivered in this state.

The Massachusetts administrator feels that one of the first steps to be taken in the coal situation is to rid the country of the jobber who exacts exorbitant prices for coal, and conse-

SUICIDE LEAVES LETTERS TELLING REASONS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 25.—A letter left for his sweetheart and another expressing his own state of mind gave the reasons, in the opinion of the authorities, why Louis Powell of Brooklyn, N. Y., took his life last night, by inhaling illuminating gas. His body was found today in a room here which he engaged yesterday afternoon.

The letter addressed "To my sweetheart" contained these words:

"Dearest Helen: Forgive me. Economic conditions were against us. Forgive me, please."

Another letter was addressed to the Social-Labor, Bronx, New York, and it said:

"Sorry cannot carry on the good work, but to the end and in my grave I will be a revolutionary."

A letter addressed to Powell's parents said he was despondent and sick and had decided to end it all.

QUICK ARREST IN HALL CASE

Witness to Double Murder Signs Statement Regarding Recognition

State Police Head Insists That An Immediate Arrest is Necessary

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 25.—Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "farm woman" who claims she saw Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills murdered on Phillips' farm, today signed a statement for the investigating authorities in which she said she recognized at least two of the four people she saw quarreling under the crabapple tree where the bodies were found.

One of the two was Mr. Hall, she declared. The other was a woman who has been prominently mentioned in the case. It was this woman, she said, who screamed out the name of a man after the shots had been fired.

Detective Mason after receiving the statement left at once for Newark, to lay it before Special Prosecutor Mott. At the same time, the state troopers generally credited with having found the Gibson woman, went to Trenton to give it to Col. Schwarzkopf, head of the state police. They insisted there was but one course open for them—an immediate arrest.

BLUENOSE GETS BETTER START

Clever Work on Part of Ford's Skipper Gives Gloucesterman Advantage

Canadian Craft Overtakes Ford and Leads Challenger Most of Way

With But Half of Leg to Sail Defender Appears Like Winner

With but about six miles from the finish Bluenose was leading the Henry Ford by about three-quarters of a mile and appeared to be a sure winner.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—The Henry Ford and Bluenose this morning started the second official race for the championship of the North Atlantic waters. The racing was most even with first one boat and then the other having the lead.

The Canadian defender got away to the better start and led for a while but a clever bit of sailing on the part of the Yankee skipper put the Henry Ford in the lead. The Bluenose came up fast and passed the Henry Ford and at one time had a lead of a mile. This the American schooner cut down to one-half mile near the buoy but as the schooners neared this point the Bluenose was in the lead by 700 yards. The weather conditions at first favored the Henry Ford but they are constantly shifting.

Three minutes after the start the Bluenose passed the Ford to the weather and took the lead. Both boats were off toward the first mark slowly as the wind dropped to seven knots, five minutes before the start. The Ford headed for the line sharp on the starboard tack, the Bluenose being well to weather. The Canadian came down slowly and a minute before the start, was on the Ford's bow, completely taking her wind.

The Ford tried hard to get out from under, but did not have quite speed enough to go through the lee of the Bluenose, although she started nearly a length ahead.

Clever Work

At 11.23 the Bluenose crowded the Ford over toward the shore until both boats were practically before the wind. The Canadian was holding the weather position. Captain Morrissey allowed the Bluenose to get by and then came up on the weather of the Canadian. It was a clever piece of helmsmanship by Morrissey.

The official starting times: Ford 11.00.50; Bluenose, 11.00.59.

At 11.30 the Ford swung away for the first mark with about a hundred yards lead and was dropping the Bluenose. The wind had increased a bit but both boats sailed slow with booms well out to port.

The Bluenose had a lead of 25 seconds at the first turn. The boats turned the mark as follows: Bluenose, 11.17.50; Ford 11.18.15.

Bluenose Passes Ford

Coming up to the mark the Bluenose after being 100 yards behind began to gain and caught and passed the Ford, 100 yards from the buoy, passing the latter's stern and taking her wind. The Bluenose's staysail was hoisted

COMPARISON OF CHARTERS MAKES INTERESTING PASTIME

Plan B and Present Instrument Not Unlike in Cardinal Provisions—School Committee of Seven, With Mayor as Member and Chairman, One Radical Change—Much Discussion As To Length of Term For Mayor

What is Plan B charter and in what respects does it differ from the form now in favor?

In the first place, Plan B is one of four forms standardized by the state legislature a few years ago for the purpose of allowing cities to choose therefrom and to obviate special acts creating charters for municipalities that desired a change.

In its cardinal section Plan B does not differ a whole lot from Lowell's present form of government. That is, the skeleton is similar and in many respects the instrument devised by a special charter commission shows similitude with the one to be voted on Nov. 7.

Each calls for a mayor and a city council of 15 members, nine to be chosen from that number of wards and six at-large. Under Plan B the school committee numbers six, all elected at-large, but provides that the mayor shall be a member of the committee ex-officio and of paramount interest, shall serve as its chairman. That makes the committee's personnel seven, against the present layout of nine.

Under the present form of charter the term of the mayor is one of two years. Under Plan B, particularly in the present case, where petitioners have exercised an option and have specified annual elections if the charter is adopted, there seems to be no clear-cut statement as to his terms of office.

In the Plan B text it distinctly says the mayor's term shall be two years, but some construe the law to mean that if petitioners specify annual elections, this applies to the mayor and makes him subject to balloting every year. Others incline to the belief that annual elections apply only to the council and school committee, some members of both boards being retired yearly as their two-year terms expire.

An amendment to the charter act this year gives petitioners the right to exercise an option as to designate annual or biennial elections, and there is a belief in some quarters that this would limit the mayor to a one-year term, inasmuch as the petitioners have chosen annual elections.

Under the present charter all councilors are elected for two years. Plan B provides that at the first election held in a city after adoption, councilors chosen from wards shall be elected to serve one year and councilors elected at-large, for two years and at each annual city election thereafter, councilors shall be elected for two years to fill vacancies caused by expiration of terms.

Whether this applies to the mayor as well is a mooted question at present.

As is the case with the council, school committee members at present —nine of them—are chosen for two-year terms. Under Plan B, with six to be elected, at the first election held after adoption, two members shall be elected to serve for one year two for two years and two for three years and annually thereafter there shall be elected two members to serve for three years.

The present form of charter fixes the mayor's salary at $5000 and that of each councilor at $300 per annum. Under Plan B the mayor shall receive whatever salary the city council, by ordinance, shall determine, not exceeding $5000 and the council may, by a two-thirds vote of all its members, establish a salary for its individual members, not exceeding $500 a year.

Plan B gives a mayor even more sweeping and intimate control of city affairs than at present. He has the power of appointment, with confirmation, of all heads of departments, members of boards and commissions except officials appointed by the

GREAT BRITAIN MUST PAY DEBTS AMERICA—LLOYD GEORGE

Former Prime Minister Addresses Coalition Liberal Members of Parliament Gives Views on All Important Topics Concerning England's Government—Viscount Grey Says France Let Down By Allies

LONDON, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press.)—"I will support any party and any government that pursues a policy of peace, economy and steady progress, neither revolutionary nor reactionary, and does it efficiently," former Prime Minister Lloyd George told the coalition liberal members of parliament at a meeting today.

In another part of his speech he made the declaration: "Great Britain must pay America all her debts."

On the question of German reparations, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"We should not attempt to put upon Germany any payments beyond her capacity. What is her capacity, she ought to pay."

The former premier expressed himself with some definiteness as to the question of Russia.

"I am strongly in favor of the renewal of a pact with Russia," he declared.

SHOOTING OUT CRUSTS IN CEMENT KILN IS THIS MARKSMAN'S STEADY JOB.

Fusing of materials used in Portland cement manufacture calls for long cylindrical kilns. In these, the ground stone and other raw material are blended under intense heat.

The molten mass is went to collect and form a ring around the interior of the cylinder. As this grows, it threatens to close up the cylinder and stop production.

Stopping to remove this ring is an expensive process necessitating a two-day shutdown. The shotgun, therefore, became the agency for removing it while the work went on.

Standing at a special opening, shotgun in hand, a marksman watches for a ring to collect. When he sees one, he fires "deer load" of heavy shot at one point in the ring, breaking through the crust and causing the rest of the ring to break off.

From 500 to 1000 shots are fired at one ring, often, and all at such speed that 10 repeating shotguns must be used, one man firing them and another loading them.

It's great for your marksmanship—but hard on your shoulder.

THE AUDACITY OF THE FORD

A Ford touring car driven by James S. Wilkinson of Dracut ran head-on into an inward bound street railway car on Central bridge last night at about 12 o'clock and while the machine was badly damaged and the electric also showed signs of conflict, neither the operator of the motor nor the street car was injured. The motorman was Timothy Mack.

Wilkinson claimed his machine was held in a cut in the bridge surface and he could not swing in out of the way in time to avoid a collision.

GAVE LECTURE IN LIBERTY HALL

Rev. Andrew J. Graham, C.S.B., of Boston was the lecturer last night before an audience that completely filled Liberty hall. The lecture was under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city and Rev. Mr. Graham is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother church.

His subject was "Old Age," and he treated it from the standpoint of malpracticing upon ourselves by thinking and believing that old age with its infirmities is inevitable and incurable.

TOLD OF RECENT TRIP TO SCOTLAND

A recent trip to Scotland, his birthplace, was described in interesting fashion by James P. Ramsay, probation officer for Middlesex county, before the members of the Educational club at the Central M.E. church yesterday afternoon. Stories of Scottish folks, a recounting of an interview with Harry Lauder and other noted men of brains and brawn from "o' Scots lan'" were given in Mr. Ramsay's best style, showing that he is still "verra thick wi' the men" from the land across the sea.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By the Theatres Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "No Trespassing," starring Irene Castle, and "The Face in the Fog," with Lionel Barrymore in the the leading role. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a complete change of program.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Sure Fire Flint," starring Johnny Hines, one of the most amusing players on the screen today, in his first long comedy, and "Hearts' Haven," with Robert McKim and Claire Adams in the starring roles.

"Sure Fire Flint" is a big production in more than one way. Johnny Hines is at his best in this big photoplay of action, comedy and romance, and playing opposite him is pretty Doris Kenyon, who has just completed a year's run as a star in a new Broadway success, "Up the Ladder."

As a "go-getter" in "Sure Fire Flint," Hines goes through the six reels in a burst of action that sweeps the onlooker along with him to dizzy heights of speed and action, so much so that one is made to feel that he is part and parcel of the picture. When a photodrama is capable of performing this feat the picture surely must be labeled "Sure-fire."

"Sure Fire Flint" concerns itself with the story of the modern 20th century youth who knows no obstacles in his desire to land a job and make good. Tired from one job after another, Flint obtains employment that brings with it responsibility and a cauldron of trouble from which he emerges triumphantly with the boss' daughter as the final reward. The story is told convincingly and directed with vision by Dell Henderson. All in all "Sure Fire Flint" is one of the best bets of the picture season, and it behooves lovers of worthwhile movies not to miss this most entertaining comedy-drama.

"Heart's Haven," the second feature for the week-end, presents Claire Adams in an appealing dramatic story of modern life that you can't afford to miss. The usual excellent surrounding bill will also be shown.

RIALTO THEATRE

Katherine Macdonald, known as one of the most beautiful women on the screen and a favorite with patrons of the Rialto theatre, opens a two days' engagement this afternoon in one of her latest productions, "The Beautiful Liar," Faire Binney in "The Case of Becky," William Desmond in "The Perils of the Yukon," comedy and the Pathe News completes the program. Katherine Macdonald's latest production is the story of a girl who rose from a stenographer to a famous actress through a series of lies and impersonations. The famous star depicts both roles with great excellence.

THE STRAND

The presence of May Beth Carr, daughter of Mary Carr, in the Fox special, "Silver Wings," showing all week at the Strand, is one of the many interesting features in its presentation. Miss May Beth gives every promise of being a pronounced success, and with the motherly guidance of Mary Carr, she surely should win laurels in the future. "Broad Daylight," with Lois Wilson, is the other feature photoplay on the bill. Both are worthy of the consideration of every lover of the better class of pictures.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The Princeton Five, which is featured at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, is one of the foremost musical organizations on the theatrical stage. There are both music and good comedy in the act. Kenney & Hollis, old favorites, give a travesty on medicine, and Walter and Emily Walters present one of the very best ventriloquistic acts seen here in a long time. Another prime act is by Faber & Bernet. It is comedy. The remainder of the show consists of Ruggett & Sheldon, manipulators; Monroe & Grant, trampolinists, and Everdean & Boothby, in a musical act.

Aged one hundred, an Austrian burglar was recently arrested in an uninhabited house, where he had lived for a fortnight, drinking the wines in the cellar.

ernor, with the proviso, however, that department heads serving at the time the charter is adopted, shall serve out the terms for which they previously have been elected. The city solicitor shall be named by the mayor, without confirmation.

This differs somewhat from the present plan of election, for under the charter now in existence, the city council has the power of naming the city clerk, city auditor and city treasurer by its own majority vote, without mayoralty approval. At present the board of election commissioners is named by the mayor, without council confirmation, but Plan B provides for confirmation for this board.

Under Plan B, the mayor, with the approval of a majority of the members of the city council, may remove any head of a department or member of a board before the expiration of his term off office, but the removal official must receive copy of the reasons for said removal and may, if he desires, contest it before the city council. Although no mention is made of possible reinstatement, it is presumed this could occur on a two-thirds vote of all councillors.

At present, however, the mayor may remove the head of a department without council approval, although the removed official may demand a public hearing and may be reinstated over the mayor's removal. Reasons for all removals must be filed with the council through the city clerk and copies sent to the person or persons removed.

Under the present charter the city council may remove the head of any department for reasons it deems sufficient, but this power is not vested in this body under the provisions of Plan B.

One of the most important sections of Plan B is that which has to do with the award of contracts. In a recent supreme court decision, based upon a Quincy case, the court held the mayor has full control over all contracts and the matter of awarding them is left wholly in his hands. Under the present charter the mayor approves all contracts, but boards and heads of departments have the power to award them subjete of course to mayoralty approval.

Both charters require that every order, ordinance, resolution and vote relative to city affairs and adopted or passed by the city council shall be presented to the mayor for his approval and gives the mayor the right of veto and the council the right to pass over a veto by a two-thirds vote.

Plan B calls for annual election of a superintendent of schools by the school committee.

Considerable discussion has arisen regarding the disposition of such commissions as the board of public service and the budget and audit commission and also the director of school hygiene, which distinctly are children of the present charter, in case Plan B should be adopted.

It is presumed by some that these officials would continue to serve out their terms of office and then be retired if the government saw fit to dispense with them, while others feel that inasmuch as no mention is made of them in Plan B they would automatically cease to exist when a new regime went into power.

This is a question, one among several perhaps, that will have to be worked out if the new charter is accepted.

There is a provision in the act which created the four-standard charters to the effect that once one of the forms is accepted, it must be kept for four years.

When this charter act first was passed, no primary elections were provided, but later amendments included a primary for all four terms.

Many Come to Aid of Mrs

BY NEA SERVICE

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 25.—Last week, Atlanta, Ga., held the limelight in the jilting of Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel, beautiful New Orleans society woman. Now it's New Orleans turn.

Said to represent the Candler interests, private detectives and other agents are reported to have been working here, seeking to gather evidence against Mrs. De Bouchel. By this, it is charged, the Candlers hope to bolster the charges of impropriety made by Asa G. Candler, millionaire cocoa-cola king, when he broke his engagement.

Even the offices of Mrs. De Bouchel's attorneys have been visited by these agents, it is alleged. Harold Moise, one of the woman's lawyers, alleges he caught a man leaving the Moise office with the last letters Candler wrote his ex-fiancee. A struggle ensued before Moise regained the missives, he says.

Meantime, New Orleans is militantly aligned with Mrs. De Bouchel in regard to the charges made against her. Her return from Atlanta was the occasion for hundreds of socially prominent people, leaders in woman's clubs, etc., to meet her at the station and pledge their [illegible] and their aid [illegible]

Mrs. De Bouch[illegible] here. Meantime, fro[illegible] south, her friends are r[illegible] support.

From Memphis comes new[illegible] nance in Mrs. De Bouchel's fight to [illegible] dicate her honor. George Bowling, who was adjutant general of the Sons of Confederate Veterans in 1919, says he saw Mrs. De Bouchel nearly all the time the confederate veterans were in session in Atlanta. He says he is ready to be a witness and testify the charges of impropriety against her are false.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends, neighbors and relatives who, by kind acts, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings helped to lighten our burden of sorrow in the death of our beloved son and brother.

All He Does Is Shoot at Crusts

SHOOTING OUT CRUSTS IN CEMENT KILN IS THIS MARKSMAN'S STEADY JOB.

Fusing of materials used in Portland cement manufacture calls for long cylindrical kilns. In these, the ground stone and other raw material are blended under intense heat.

The molten mass is wont to collect and form a ring around the interior of the cylinder. As this grows, it threatens to close up the cylinder and stop production.

Stopping to remove this ring is an expensive process necessitating a two-day shutdown. The shotgun, therefore, became the agency for removing it while the work went on.

Standing at a special opening, shotgun in hand, a marksman watches for a ring to collect. When he sees one, he fires "deer load" of heavy shot at one point in the ring, breaking through the crust and causing the rest of the ring to break off.

From 500 to 1000 shots are fired at one ring, often, and all at such speed that 10 repeating shotguns must be used, one man firing them and another loading them.

It's great for your marksmanship—but hard on your shoulder.

THE AUDACITY OF THE FORD

A Ford touring car driven by James S. Wilkinson of Dracut ran head-on into an inward bound street railway car on Central bridge last night at about 12 o'clock and while the machine was badly damaged and the electric also showed signs of conflict, neither the operator of the motor nor the street car was injured. The motorman was Timothy Mack.

Wilkinson claimed his machine was held in a rut in the bridge surface and he could not swing in out of the way in time to avoid a collision.

GAVE LECTURE IN LIBERTY HALL

Rev. Andrew J. Graham, C.S.B., of Boston was the lecturer last night before an audience that completely filled Liberty hall. The lecture was under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city and Rev. Mr. Graham is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother church.

His subject was "Old Age," and he treated it from the standpoint of malpracticing upon ourselves by thinking and believing that old age with its infirmities is inevitable and incurable.

TOLD OF RECENT TRIP TO SCOTLAND

A recent trip to Scotland, his birthplace, was described in interesting fashion by James P. Ramsay, probation officer for Middlesex county, before the members of the Educational club at the Central M.E. church yesterday afternoon. Stories of Scottish folks, a recounting of an interview with Harry Lauder and other noted men of brains and brawn from "o' Scots lan'" were given in Mr. Ramsay's best style, showing that he is still "verra thick wi' the mon" from the land across the sea.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By the Theatres Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "No Trespassing," starring Irene Castle, and "The Face in the Fog," with Lionel Barrymore in the the leading role. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a complete change of program.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Sure Fire Flint," starring Johnny Hines, one of the most amusing players on the screen today, in his first long comedy, and "Hearts' Haven," with Robert McKim and Claire Adams in the starring roles.

"Sure Fire Flint" is a big production in more than one way. Johnny Hines is at his best in this big photoplay of action, comedy and romance, and playing opposite him is pretty Doris Kenyon, who has just completed a year's run as a star in a new Broadway success, "Up the Ladder."

As a "go-getter" in "Sure Fire Flint," Hines goes through the six reels in a burst of action that sweeps the onlooker along with him to dizzy heights of speed and action, so much so that one is made to feel that he is part and parcel of the picture. When a photodrama is capable of performing this feat the picture surely must be labeled "Sure-fire."

"Sure Fire Flint" concerns itself with the story of the modern 20th century youth who knows no obstacles in his desire to land a job and make good. Fired from one job after another, Flint obtains employment that brings with it responsibility and a cauldron of trouble from which he emerges triumphantly with the boss' daughter as the final reward. The story is told convincingly and directed with vision by Dell Henderson. All in all "Sure Fire Flint" is one of the best bets of the picture season, and it behooves lovers of worthwhile movies not to miss this most entertaining comedy-drama.

"Heart's Haven," the second feature for the week-end, presents Claire Adams in an appealing dramatic story of modern life that you can't afford to miss. The usual excellent surrounding bill will also be shown.

RIALTO THEATRE

Katherine Macdonald, known as one of the most beautiful women on the screen and a favorite with patrons of the Rialto theatre, opens a two days' engagement this afternoon in one of her latest productions, "The Beautiful Liar." Faire Binny in "The Case of Becky," William Desmond in "The Perils of the Yukon," comedy and the Pathe News completes the program. Katherine Macdonald's latest production is the story of a girl who rose from a stenographer to a famous actress through a series of lies and impersonations. The famous star depicts both roles with great excellence.

THE STRAND

The presence of May Beth Carr, daughter of Mary Carr, in the Fox special, "Silver Wings," showing all week at the Strand, is one of the many interesting features in its presentation. Miss May Beth gives every promise of being a pronounced success, and with the motherly guidance of Mary Carr, she surely should win laurels in the future. "Broad Daylight," with Lois Wilson, is the other feature photoplay on the bill. Both are worthy of the consideration of every lover of the better class of pictures.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The Princeton Five, which is featured at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, is one of the foremost musical organizations on the theatrical stage. There are both music and good comedy in the act. Kenney & Hollis, old favorites, give a travesty on medicine and Walter and Emily Walters present one of the very best ventriloquistic acts seen here in a long time. Another prime act is by Faber & Bernet. It is comedy. The remainder of the show consists of Bassett & Sheldon, manipulators; Monroe & Grant, trampolinists, and Everdeau & Boothby, in a musical act.

Aged one hundred, an Austrian burglar was recently arrested in an unlihabited house, where he had lived for a fortnight, drinking the wines in the cellar.

ernor, with the proviso, however, that department heads serving at the time the charter is adopted, shall serve out the terms for which they previously have been elected. The city solicitor shall be named by the mayor, without confirmation.

This differs somewhat from the present plan of election, for under the charter now in existence, the city council has the power of naming the city clerk, city auditor and city treasurer by its own majority vote, without mayoralty approval. At present the board of election commissioners is named by the mayor, without council confirmation, but Plan B provides for confirmation for this board.

Under Plan B, the mayor, with the approval of a majority of the members of the city council, may remove any head of a department or member of a board before the expiration of his term of office, but the removal official must receive copy of the reasons for said removal and may, if he desires, contest it before the city council. Although no mention is made of possible reinstatement, it is presumed this could occur on a two-thirds vote of all councillors.

At present, however, the mayor may remove the head of a department without council approval, although the removed official may demand a public hearing and may be reinstated over the mayor's removal. Reasons for all removals must be filed with the council through the city clerk and copies sent to the person or persons removed.

Under the present charter the city council may remove the head of any department for reasons it deems sufficient, but this power is not vested in this body under the provisions of Plan B.

One of the most important sections of Plan B is that which has to do with the award of contracts. In a recent supreme court decision, based upon a Quincy case, the court held the mayor has full control over all contracts and the matter of awarding them is left wholly in his hands. Under the present charatr the mayor approves all contracts, but boards and heads of departments have the power to award them subjete of course to mayoralty approval.

Both charters require that every order, ordinance, resolution and vote relative to city affairs and adopted or passed by the city council shall be presented to the mayor for his approval and gives the mayor the right of veto and the council the right to pass over a veto by a two-thirds vote.

Plan B calls for annual election of a superintendent of schools by the school committee.

Considerable discussion has arisen regarding the disposition of such commissions as the board of public service and the budget and audit commission and also the director of school hygiene, which distinctly are children of the present charter, in case Plan B should be adopted.

It is presumed by some that these officials would continue to serve out their terms of office and then be retired if the government saw fit to dispense with them, while others feel that inasmuch as no mention is made of them in Plan B they would automatically cease to exist when a new regime went into power.

This is a question, one among several perhaps, that will have to be worked out if the new charter is accepted.

There is a provision in the act which created the four-standard charters to the effect that once one of the forms is accepted, it must be kept for four years.

When this charter act first was passed, no primary elections were provided, but later amendments included a primary for all four forms.

Many Come to Aid of Mrs. De Bouchel

BY NEA SERVICE

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 25.—Last week, Atlanta, Ga., held the limelight in the jilting of Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel, beautiful New Orleans society woman. Now it's New Orlean's turn.

Said to represent the Candler Interests, private detectives and other agents are reported to have been working here, seeking to gather evidence against Mrs. De Bouchel. By this, it is charged, the Candlers hope to bolster the charges of impropriety made by Asa G. Candler, millionaire cocoa-cola king, when he broke his engagement.

Even the offices of Mrs. De Bouchel's attorneys have been visited by these agents, it is alleged. Harold Moise, one of the woman's lawyers, alleges he caught a man leaving the Moise office with the last letters Candler wrote his ex-fiancee. A struggle ensued before Moise regained the missives, he says.

Meantime, New Orleans is militantly aligned with Mrs. De Bouchel in regard to the charges made against her. Her return from Atlanta was the occasion for hundreds of socially prominent people, leaders in woman's clubs, etc., to meet her at the station and pledge their confidence in her integrity and their aid in refuting the charges.

Mrs. De Bouchel is in seclusion here. Meantime, from all over the south, her friends are rallying to her support.

From Memphis comes new assistance in Mrs. De Bouchel's fight to vindicate her honor. George Bowling, who was adjutant general of the Sons of Confederate Veterans in 1919, says he saw Mrs. De Bouchel nearly all the time the confederate veterans were in session in Atlanta. He says he is ready to be a witness and testify the charges of impropriety against her are false.

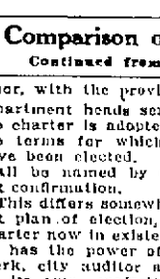

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends, neighbors and relatives who, by kind acts, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings helped to lighten our burden of sorrow in the death of our beloved son and brother.

Claim British Bought Francs

ser on the actual circumstances affecting exchange," said a high official of the bank of France to the Associated Press today. Then attempting to express himself by using an American colloquialism said: "But this time we can locate the colored gentlemen in the wood pile."

"The British banks and the British treasury, which have long been accumulating French francs have used them, as was their right to do, to buy the dollars they needed instead of using pounds," he continued. "The consequence was that the payment of the big sum of interest to the United States had no bad effect on the pound. On the contrary, British exchange profited by the subsequent depreciation of the franc."

The British banks, having disposed of their francs, cannot repeat such an operation easily again, it was pointed out.

"Speculation has had little to do with the present movement," said an important banker today. "Speculation simply followed the movement which was started by the skillful British operations. Even the situation in Germany had more to do with it than speculation. The tribulations of the debtor are always an embarrassment to the principal creditor. If we could count on the payment of even part of these sums which are owed us by Germany, the effect on our exchange would be considerable."

France is taking precautions to assure the deliveries of wheat needed to supply the deficit of this year's crop, which, according to the present rate of exchange, will need about a billion francs.

The Coal Profiteers

quently has sought the support of other administrators in the New England states, and in New York, in his effort to obtain action by the federal authorities.

William H. Woodin, New York administrator, has notified Mr. Phelan that he will co-operate with Massachusetts, and has already sent to Washington a request for action.

Many dealers have complained to Mr. Phelan of the unjust prices being demanded, and have asked for relief, in order that they may compete in the market with those dealers who are securing their fuel at the established price.

The letter sent by Mr. Phelan to Federal Distributor Conrad E. Spens is as follows:

"Again I wish to reiterate that if the public is to get advantage of the prices named for 'company' coal and that part of the production controlled by 'Independents' who have agreed to the $9.25 maximum price, some way must be found to eliminate the roll-top, swivel chair dealer commonly referred to as the 'go between' and sometimes as a 'jobber,' and who is supposed to get the rake off between the Pennsylvania price and the exorbitant prices asked of the local dealers, which, based on prices now being asked, might range anywhere from $3 to $5, if not even higher.

"Now, isn't there some way that you as federal fuel distributor, can clarify the situation of the 'go-between'? Unless you can, I cannot clearly see how Massachusetts is going to be much benefitted by these so-called 'company' prices at the mines, ranging from $7.90 to $8.50, who control 75 per cent of the production, and so-called independent producers, who control 20 per cent of the production, who have agreed to fix their maximum price at $9.25 and later the same will apply to so-called independent prices (which I understand is the maximum price you hope to have fixed by Oct. 31) on the remaining 5 per cent of production.

"Stop this abuse and the coal situation will not only be helped greatly in the present emergency, but for the future as well."

Happy Mother Tells How Children Were Restored

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine is again very forcibly demonstrated in the home of Mrs. Josephine Deckret, 1312 Bank st., Baltimore. After putting this splendid tonic to the test with herself and three children, Mrs. Deckret says:

Tanlac has been such a great blessing to myself and three children that it has won my lifelong praise. My health had been so wretched for two or three months that I was just dragging around. I could neither eat nor sleep to do much good and had a world of trouble with indigestion. I have just finished my third bottle of Tanlac and am almost a well woman already.

"John Frank, aged six, and Carolina, who is four, both complained of headaches, pains in the stomach and were very restless at night. They had no appetites, were thin and pale, and took no interest in play or anything else.

"And Joseph Paul, two years old, was in just about the same fix. I could not get him to eat, he was fretful day and night, and was very thin and pale. They have taken about two bottles of Tanlac each now, and healthier, happier children could not be found. John Frank has gained six pounds, Carolina eight and little Joseph is as fat as a butterball and playful as a kitten. I certainly have good reasons for praising Tanlac."

The experience of the Deckret family is only typical of thousands of others whose statements are on file in the Tanlac offices. Hardly a day passes that does not bring scores of such messages of praise from every part of the United States and Canada from families where mother, father, son and daughter have all found health, contentment and the joys of living through simply taking a course of Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

May Reduce Face Value of Ruble

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press)—In connection with the efforts being made to stabilize the ruble, the finance commission has proposed a new issue of money which would do away with notes running into the denominations of the millions by the simple expedient of chopping off the last six ciphers. Thus the million ruble note now in circulation would represent one ruble of the issue proposed for 1923.

A NEW ORGANIZATION

SHANGAI, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press) At a meeting here of delegates from the American chamber of commerce of Shanghai, Tientsin, Peking, and Hankow, the associated chambers of commerce of China was organized and a program outlined for the betterment of trade conditions in the Orient.

Marriages performed in registry offices in one district of London alone increased from 200 or more than 1000 annually within recent years.

FACES TRIAL FOR SLAYING TWO

Great Britain Must Pay Debts

relations in general, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"It is said Great Britain is not going to extend her responsibilities. But you must not be afraid of your responsibilities. The policy of Great Britain must be peace-loving, but unafraid. If I stand alone, I will resist any departure from it.

Must Have Fair Play

"I will never let Great Britain down. I will not stand by or for any man who does. Whatever government is in power, we must not offer it any factious opposition. There must be no nagging critics; there must be fair play.

"We are told that the new government is a government of tranquility. In what respect does a policy of tranquility differ from ours? If tranquility means any change from the existing conditions of things, then it is bad.

"We have made peace in Europe; we have made peace in the Near East. What does the new policy mean? It's no use using words unless they mean something."

Referring to the coalition government which he headed, he said: "I have stood for national unity—for unity of the men of all creeds, parties and sections.

"Our object first was the winning of the war, and afterwards, extricating the country out of its after-war difficulties. It was our policy then, and it is our policy now."

Understands Revolt

Referring to the conservatives who broke away from the coalition and by their defeat of Austen Chamberlain as conservative leader, brought about the accession of Andrew Bonar Law to the premiership, he said:

"I can understand the revolt of the under-secretaries. There were subalterns who would like to be captains and captains who would like to be made colonels or full generals."

At another point he said: "The country's interest is the thing that matters, at the beginning, at the end and all the time. The peril is not over. Alone the conservative party cannot defend the great interests which are our common concern.

"The conservatives may win the next victory. I doubt that, but supposing they do, that is not the end of the war between the two great conflicting ideas of the organization of society. Our business is to see that this blunder shall not do harm to our country."

Urges Unity

Unity in action between Great Britain and the United States was urged by Mr. Lloyd George in his speech.

"I am for the League of Nations," he said, "but until you get the United States and all the great nations of Europe, as well as the small, the league will be crippled and cannot serve its full purpose. America and Great Britain must work together.

"I am all for co-operation with the allies, but Great Britain has her own responsibilities. She has her own mission in the world, and she must stand by it."

In the course of his dealing with home affairs, Mr. Lloyd George declared the first purpose of any government in its policy at home must be to do everything to improve trade.

"Stern economy is essential," he added, "and I ask that the new chancellor of the exchequer shall pursue the policy of the old.

"McKenna says things are worse. I know Mr. McKenna, and, quite frankly he was the man most responsible for the liberal division in 1916.

"Mr. McKenna was always denouncing me because from profound convictions I thought it essential there should be a change in the direction of the war."

Grey Makes Allusion

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Considerable interest has been aroused by Viscount Grey's allusion, in his address at Bradford, last night, to France having been "let down" by her allies since the world war. Viscount Grey was British foreign secretary at the outbreak of the war, retiring upon the formation of the Lloyd George ministry in 1916.

"Before we criticise France's actions," he said, "let us realize the facts. When peace was concluded France had two agreements, one with Great Britain, and one with the United States, that she would have the full support of Britain and America if attacked in the future by Germany.

"These were not included in the treaty of Versailles, but they were as much a part of the peace as was the treaty of Versailles. They made an enormous difference to France. They are gone. I admit it was not the fault of Lloyd George's government that they went, but it does not make it any better for France whose fault it was."

Viscount Grey added, however, that exclusive treaties could not assure permanent security and would lead to counter treaties and counter alliances.

He contended that the policy of the coalition government had brought Great Britain dangerously near the necessity of fighting a single handed war in the near east, and had imperiled the Indian empire.

SENSIBLE, THINKING WOMEN

no longer doubt the efficacy of that old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, because it relieves the ailments to which they are afflicted. In almost every neighborhood there are living witnesses of its wonderful effects. Therefore, if you doubt its value or power to help you, ask your neighbor. In nine times out of ten she has been benefited by its use or knows someone who has. It will pay you to give this root and herb medicine a trial.—Adv.

Valuable Painting Desecrated

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A $5000 painting of Jeanne d'Arc by Edward Rigny, an American painter, which reposes as an altar piece in the little chapel of the Jeanne d'Arc home for French girls, has been desecrated, it was learned today, when the artist began the work of restoring it. The damage Rigny said, was an act of "innocent vandalism" probably perpetrated by a house painter who sought with unskilled hand but sincere purpose to repaint it to his liking.

Schoolboy Faces Trial For Larceny

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Willie Dalton, 17 years old, former bank messenger, laid aside his school books once more today to face his third trial for stealing $772,000 in bonds from the Illinois Northern Trust in February, 1921. In the first two trials, the juries disagreed. Young Dalton, whose flight with the stolen bonds made him the quarry of a nation-wide search, was captured in a country poolroom by a village marshal at Heywood, Ill.

Little Children Brighten Homes

EVERY young couple starting out in life has visions of joyful hours spent before the fireside with healthy, happy children; but, alas, how often young women who long for children are denied that happiness because of some functional derangement which may be corrected by proper treatment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the medicine for these conditions, as the following letters show:

Chicago, Ill.—"You surely gave women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous it kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."—Mrs. Judith Tomsheck, 10557 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without this Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Fred Miner, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

Original Stories Crowded Off Screen

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The crying need of the screen is the development of a form of art distinctively its own. Producers and directors have been telling me that for the past several years, yet they seem to be getting farther and farther away from that development.

The original screen story stands hardly a ghost of a chance of being produced. A survey of pictures now on the way to the screen shows that.

"Bella Donna," "Vanity Fair," "Adam and Eva," "Nobody's Money," "A Bill of Divorcement," "Robin Hood," "The Christian," "Ben Hur," "Lorna Doone," "If Winter Comes," "Brothers Under Their Skins," "Affinities," "Java Head," "Outcast"—all of them are adaptations of plays and published stories.

However, can you think of one movie made from an original story having the story worth of the general run of those just listed? Possibly "The Old Nest" and "Remembrance," written by Rupert Hughes directly for the screen, might rank with some of them.

Other pictures based on original screen stories now on the way to the screen are "Broken Chains," "Back Home and Broke," "Gimme," "The Dangerous Age" and "Fury," but they are as so many drops in the mighty ocean of celluloid drama.

Perhaps you think this decline in the use of original stories for the screen is due to a lack of supply. The Fox scenario department alone received 10,000 scenarios last year and not one was accepted. Cecil DeMille has a standing offer of $1000 for one idea around which a photoplay can be constructed. It need be expressed in only three or four words, but as yet nobody has submitted an acceptable idea.

The best three photoplays of the month are "When Knighthood Was In Flower," "Clarence" and "The Old Homestead." The only motion picture of more than passing interest developed from an original screen story in the month is "Skin Deep." This record doesn't indicate that the screen is developing its own art form.

Screen rights to Ethel M. Dell's "Top o' the World," Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" and to "The Rear Car," a play recently produced in California, have been purchased by Goldwyn.

Warner Brothers have purchased film rights to "Beau Brummel," Richard Mansfield's hit; "Cornered," Madge Kennedy's play last year, and "How to Educate a Wife," by Elinor Glyn.

Cosmopolitan has acquired "Yolanda," "Touchstone of Fortune" and "Gentle Knight of Brandenberg," all by Charles Major, and "The Go-Getter," by Peter B. Kyne.

Richard Walton Tully is preparing to star Guy Bates Post in a new version of "Trilby," which was filmed five years ago with Clara Kimball Young and Wilton Lackaye in the leading roles.

This is only a partial list of material which has been bought and which is not yet in the process of transition to the screen, but it is sufficient to indicate that the writer of original screen stories stands little show of having his or her material produced for some time to come.

Then what is the hope for the screen developing a distinctive art form?

Oscar, an elephant, plays an important role in "Ten Ten Love," the next picture starring Madge Bellamy.

Betty Blythe is dressed as Cleopatra in some of the scenes of "The Darling of the Rich," which is about completed.

BLIND MAN IS TRAVELING ALONE

Traveling alone through the New England states, although blind for many years, Eugene Smith of Keene, N. H., is now spending a few days with his brother, Loren E. Smith of 9 Alder street. Smith is a trained musician as well as traveler, and is also an expert piano tuner. He is a graduate of the Perkins Institute for the Blind and began his musical career there.

Smith's study of music in its varied branches has been long and arduous, but entirely successful. His real pleasure in life, he said, when interviewed, was to hear the birds sing and smell the perfume of growing flowers. He is entirely happy though fated to remain in darkness the remainder of his days, and much of his time is taken up with music for which he has great fondness.

COURT MERRIMACK F. OF A. CELEBRATES

The 43d anniversary of Court Merrimack, 11, Foresters of America, was observed in a fitting manner last evening. The observance was in the form of a get-together for the members and a few invited guests at the close of the business meeting and was largely attended.

The evening's program was presided over by Lecturer John L. Hendricks and included the following numbers: Piano selections, Master Francis Redding; remarks on the history of the court, Deputy Grand Chief Ranger Thomas Greene; vocal selections, Thos. McQuade; address on the observance, Grand Secretary William J. Mitchell of Boston; vocal selections, Ambrose Ready; address on the fraternal work of the Foresters, former Grand Treasurer Patrick J. Daley of Lawrence; remarks, Mayor Brown; recitation, John J. Payne; remarks, Past Grand Secretary James J. Gallagher.

During the evening refreshments were served by the following committee: Charles A. Gallagher, Thomas C. Mooney, Thomas L. Kelley, R. J. Townsend, John J. Gilligan, Thomas L. Burns, Arthur Bernhart, John J. McCullough, Martin Harkan, Edward J. McInerney, Peter L. Gill, William Cousen and A. Ready.

AVOID AUTO "RIDE BEGGARS"

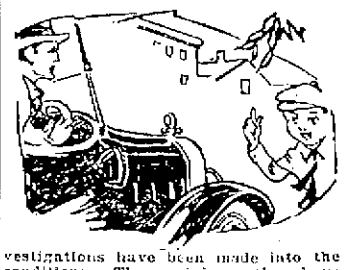

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—When you see a stranger asking for a lift keep on going. Take no chances.

This warning is issued to motorists of the country by Walter D. Meals, president of the National Motorists' association. It refers in no way, to acquaintances, says Meals, but to that class which he terms "ride beggars."

"The attitude of those seeking rides," he says, "is not usually one of gratitude. Frequently they seem to get the notion that the driver is under some sort of obligation to them."

Many motorists who have turned down "ride beggars" have heard indecent and abusive language flung after them. Complaints have come to the automobile clubs of the N.M.A. and investigations have been made into the conditions. The opinions that have been reached are summed up by Meals.

"It is often dangerous to give rides to strangers, particularly at night," he concludes. "There is the danger of robbery. There is danger of becoming liable in case of accident or injury to the person given a ride.

"The practice is bad. It encourages children to solicit rides. The danger of accidents is not negligible.

"Two classes particularly have made themselves obnoxious. They are the boys who want rides just for the excitement and fun of the thing. Then there are the strangers who have acquired the ride begging habit.

"The driver of an automobile is under no obligation to give anyone a ride. In emergencies, like street car tie-ups, motorists have shown themselves generous and public-spirited. They need not defend themselves for exercising care and scruple in a matter so personally concerning them in times when ordinary circumstances exist."

Turning the steering mechanism while the car is still puts a strain on the steering gears and is bad for tires.

Motor traffic into Canada increased by 600 per cent. last year.

Ponca City, Okla., has more than one car to each family.

Windshield for the rear seat is made on automatic rollers.

Chicago "L" lines announce plans to use motor buses as feeders.

Motor bus lines are now running regularly in 108 of the largest cities.

Twenty-eight steam railroads in 23 states are using flanged wheel motor buses for short hauls.

Windshields and spotlights are being made for fitment to motorcycles.

Old tire casings may be used to make inside boots or blowout patches.

Twenty per cent. of the country's aluminum supply is used up in automobile manufacture.

Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania will not have a car license with other than the figure 7 in its number.

Closed cars amounted to 30 per cent. of this year's output and are expected to mount to 50 per cent. next year.

RUNNING BOARD LIGHT

The small car owner may make his own high-class safety light equipment with ease. All he needs is a small lamp with a stretch of wire to the battery. A spring clip to the door may be made so that when the door opens the light automatically turns on. The diagram shows details of the connection.

WANTS TICKET ZONES EXTENDED

Councilor Peter P. McMenimon of Ward 3 has requested officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. to extend the present ticket zones on the South Lowell and Wigginville lines to the ends of both routes.

The request will be given every consideration by the trustees and it is hoped the extension may be granted.

Jitneys first appeared in Los Angeles in 1914.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS DISMISSED

Roland S. Watts of 1 Newbury street, this city, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Arthur Richard of Dracut, which occurred last Wednesday night, was found not guilty and discharged at the Methuen district court yesterday. Watts informed the court that on the night of the accident he was driving his car towards Lawrence with Richard sitting beside him. He said at a point near the Methuen armory on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard he swung his machine to the right to allow a truck to pass by and at the same time one of the tires of his car burst and the machine swerved into a telegraph pole. Richard, who was thrown heavily to the ground, was taken to the armory and subsequently to the Lawrence General hospital, where he died.

"FIGHTING JACK" DUNN WILL SPEAK HERE

Brig.-Gen. John H. Dunn, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and known as "Fighting Jack," will be one of the principal speakers at the open meeting to be held on the evening of Nov. 14 in Memorial hall. At last night's meeting of Walker Rogers Post No. 662, Senior Vice Commander David F. Caddell presiding, a large number of members were on hand to discuss winter programs.

The elaborate program for the Nov. 14 celebration includes a list of speakers with Dr. J. D. Lucas, state surgeon, and Adjt. John N. Wallace of the state department, in addition to Gen. Dunn. There will be a program of singing, wrestling, boxing and instrumental music during the evening.

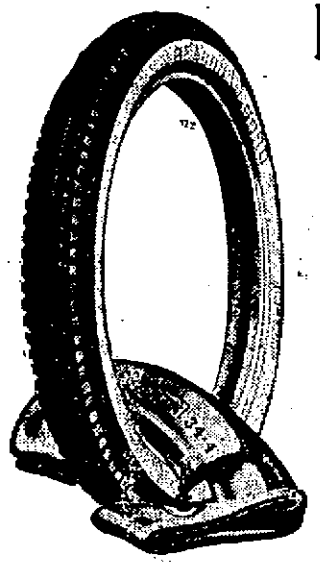

REILLY RALLIES

Two enthusiastic rallies were held yesterday at the Dennison Mfg. Co. in Framingham, by James C. Reilly, candidate for the office of district attorney in Middlesex county. Both rallies were attended by large and attentive crowds of voters.

Today Mr. Reilly will address rallies in Somerville, Hopkinton, Ashby and Ashland, while a monster rally will be held in Somerville this evening. District Attorney Saltonstall will speak at this latter place in Mr. Reilly's behalf.

NEW INDUSTRY GETTING READY FOR BUSINESS

The new textile organization prepared to open for operations early in November in the formal Lowell Textile company's plant in North Chelmsford, is to be known as "The Southwell Wool Combing Corporation of North Chelmsford," with a paid-up capital of $150,000. The proprietors of the new concern plan to scour, card and comb wool. Jacob Reed of Worcester, president of the corporation, was the purchaser of the plant at public auction on Oct. 10.

James Southwell, who is to be general manager of the new corporation, is well known in the textile world and a former superintendent of the Atlantic mills in Providence, R. I. Mr. Southwell, in addition to managing the business, will also act as vice president and treasurer. The machinery will be operated by steam with a power plant of 300-horse power capacity. Work of installing machinery and necessary mill equipments is now going rapidly on.

Here's the start of the first race between the Canadian Bluenose and the Henry Ford, American entry, off Gloucester, Mass. The Henry Ford (right) won. Captains of both fishing schooners considered it a race but officials declared it "no race" since the skippers disregarded their signal to return after the start.

Bluenose Gets Better Start

before she luffed around the mark and she gained a few more seconds by good sailing. The Ford was slow. She split tacks immediately and stood inside.

At 12.05 the Ford's inshore hitch proved nothing but a sharp luff and the American boat soon stood back on the starboard tack and followed the Bluenose.

The Bluenose was leading by 200 yards, was pointing higher and footing a trifle faster. The wind had increased to 10 knots. The Ford set her staysail.

At 12.30 the Bluenose had increased its lead to 400 yards. The Ford, however, had edged a bit to windward and was holding herself a trifle higher, probably on account of her staysail. The wind had breezed up a trifle more and was blowing a full 12 knots both boats being full under.

The Bluenose tacked to port at 12:40 and crossed the Ford by 300 yards. The Bluenose, after taking the port tack set her staysail to windward. The Ford kept on the starboard tack. At 12:45 when a trifle to the windward of the Bluenose, she tacked to port. The Ford was quicker in stays than on Monday. The Ford was 100 yards to windward of the Bluenose's wake, but nearly half a mile astern. The Ford was badly handicapped by the leech of her mainsail which had been cut twice by orders of the committee.

At 1 p. m., the Bluenose was leading the Ford by nearly a mile although the Ford was standing higher.

The breeze had increased to 15 knots and a high sea was running.

Captain Morrissey set up his staysail at 1.10 and at once the Ford began to overhaul the Bluenose. In 10 minutes the American boat had cut the lead of the Canadian to a half mile and was holding a better breeze. The race instead of being a Canadian affair, became an exciting contest again. At 1.20 the boats were within four miles of the second mark, with the Bluenose leading by 700 yards.

Ford Was Favored

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press)—Gloucestermen and Lunenburgers, crews of the racing fishermen Henry Ford and Bluenose, were brought together again today for competition after continued controversy and prepared for the start of their third race in a soaking sou-wester. The wind was moderate and on past performances was considered to favor the Henry Ford's chances for another victory, which would be the second of the series officially and would bring to her without further question, the international fishing vessels championship.

For the Bluenose, the conditions were more or less a disappointment, the brisk blow from the northwest having passed. In light to moderate winds the Henry Ford has shown herself the better boat. In the stiffer going at the close of Monday's race won by the Ford, the Bluenose showed she was at her best.

Start at 11 o'Clock

The start of the race today was set for 11 o'clock. With the rain sweeping in through the harbor entrance, the men of the Ford in sou'westers worked as hard as if they were pulling trawls against an approaching storm, taking out the ballast put aboard yesterday when they had declared they would abandon racing and the consequent controversy and go fishing. It was with the agreement that this ballast be restored to its previous condition and the racing trim of the vessel be left unchanged, that the trustees of the cup under the deed of gift, gave assurances that no question would be raised of the technical violation of the rules involved.

H. R. Silver, chairman of the board of trustees, was on the wharf early today to see that the ballast removal was carried out without prejudice to the chances of the Bluenose. It was to him that Capt. Clayton Morrissey of the Henry Ford had to give written statement that his ballast was as before. Except for Mr. Silver, the wharf was deserted as the men of the Ford went about their lumping job.

Protects Sails

Aboard the Bluenose Capt. Angus Walters held the covers on his lower sails as protection against the soaking rain. This was a luxury of sail equipment not possessed by the Gloucesterman.

Captain Angus was disappointed in the reduced wind. The postponement of yesterday, he felt, had cost him a chance to go out in the blow in which the Bluenose would be at her best.

Captain Morrissey said he thought the Henry Ford would be able to do as she had done before. While his men were doing the laborers work, he was supervising changes to alter the setting of his staysail lowering a block, tightening a leech and making it more fit to hold the wind. His main sheet, he remarked as he looked at the reduced spread, still lacked the length that he would have liked to carry out with him. This was the result of the successive slashings ordered to meet the stipulated sail area.

Fund Will Be Raised

In the city today a fund was under way to buy for him and for the Henry Ford a new mainsail, the one he was racing with having been made unfit for fishing, according to the skipper.

The decision to race today, was made late last night by Captain Morrissey and his crew at a banquet in their honor. This sudden turn about on the part of the Gloucestermen, who had been bending every effort to return to the fishing banks, caused joy throughout the fishing port. The Ford's skipper explained it as a concession to the public demand for another race.

The spectator fleet was considerably reduced today but a number of local fishing craft prepared to follow the race. Several destroyers and the flagship Rochester were on hand.

ART SCHOOL HEAD DEAD

Lloyd Warren Jumped or Fell to Death Today in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Lloyd Warren, head of the Beaux Arts School of Architecture and a brother of Whitney Warren, internationally known architect, jumped or fell to his death today from a window in his sixth floor apartment in West 64th street.

The architect's body, clad in silk pajamas, was found by a milkman at thee bottom of an airshaft. Police declared Warren had committed suicide but this theory was discredited by his brother, who said Lloyd had been suffering from syncope since an injury to his head some time ago, and that he probably toppled from the window while seeking a breath of air.

SUPREME COURT IN IMPORTANT DECISION

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 25.—The city of Seattle has power to refuse a pawn broker's license to R. Asakura, Japanese, on the ground that he is not a citizen of the United States, the state supreme court holds.

"The occupation of pawnbroking is a privilege and not an inherent right," Justice Kenneth MacKintosh wrote in the opinion, "and therefore, it should be confined to such persons as may reasonably be supposed to have a full sense of responsibility to their country and a desire for its welfare."

MINISTERS TO TAKE OATH OF OFFICE TODAY

LONDON, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press).—The king has summoned a council for today, at which the new ministers announced yesterday by Prime Minister Bonar Law will take their oaths and receive their seals.

Nowhere in the London press this morning, is any special enthusiasm shown for Mr. Bonar Law's choices, although the Unionist press as might be expected are calmly appreciative.

It is assumed that all of yesterday's appointees will be members of the cabinet, except Attorney General Douglas McG. Hogg and the lord advocate, W. A. Watson, and there may be further cabinet appointments. The Unionist political writers believe many of the under-secretaryships and minor posts will not be filled until after the election.

Charles Darwin, famous evolutionist, was very delicate and considered a day's work done at noon.

GASTON HOLDS RALLY

Democratic Candidate for U. S. Senate Attacks Tariff on Wool

ATHOL, Oct. 25.—In an attack upon the woolen schedule of the republican tariff bill at a rally here last night, Col. William A. Gaston, democratic candidate for the United States senate, declared that no part of the tremendous increase in the cost of clothing, due to the high duty, will go to labor. He charged that the wool growers of the western states will receive exorbitant prices for their wool and that the money which is taken from the pockets of the working people will go direct to the wool growers. He said in part:

"Two years ago, one of the largest Boston dealers in wool purchased a shipment of Argentine wool 'in the grease' at a cost of 31 cents a pound. There was no duty at that time. Under the prices now prevailing the same grade of wool costs 15 cents a pound without the duty. But the republican congress claps a duty of 22 cents a pound on it 'in the grease.' It is a grade of wool that should enter into the making of medium priced clothes. The American family is not allowed to profit by the fall in the cost of Argentine wool."

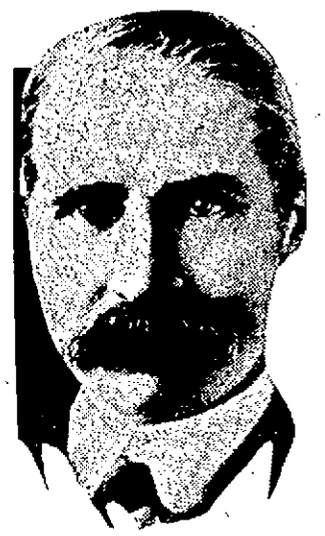

BABY GUY'S GUARDIAN AWARDED NEAT SUM

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser yesterday awarded to John E. Mack, guardian of Baby Guy Stillman, $25,000 for his services in defending the infant against the charge of illegitimacy brought by James A. Stillman, millionaire banker, in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Anne U. Stillman. He also allowed to Mr. Mack $1901.14, which the guardian reported he had expended in Guy's behalf.

The court also allowed to Referee Daniel J. Gleason, who heard evidence in the case, compensation at the rate of $150 a day for 148 days devoted to the case—a total of $22,200.

Counsel for Stillman had fought the granting of compensation to guardian Mack, contending he was entitled only to his "taxable costs" in the case. They also had contested Referee Gleason's fees as "exorbitant."

In disposing of these objections, Justice Morschauser recalled it had been shown Stillman was willing to spend money "to purchase evidence," referring to letters alleged to have been written to Beauvais by Mrs. Stillman, for which the banker paid $15,000.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womankind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's, called Anuric (for kidneys and backache), has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefits received—that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. of any of his remedies, or write for free medical advice.—Adv.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

CAR SHORTAGE FELT HERE

Contractors Sometimes Have to Wait for Supplies—Lots of Lumber

Lowell contractors and builders are meeting with frequent delays in certain important building construction quarters due to lack of supplies coming promptly from far points, owing to extreme car shortages on railroad lines running north and west.

Lumber merchants, however, say that most of their orders are being taken care of handily, with delays infrequent when orders are not issued for immediate shipments.

The Davis & Sargent people claim to be well stocked with lumber materials for the more important new construction wants, and deny that they are having any trouble supplying demands.

"Shipments from outside points are sometimes delayed but during the past two weeks cars of materials ordered some time ago, have come in more freely, and we are stocked closely now on the materials most in demand for new building purposes," said a member of the Middlesex street concern.

Other lumber merchants declared they are not short on required supplies, although in some lines such as lathes, narrow finish and clapboards, there has been frequent shortage of supplies, but no extraordinary demand that could not be readily filled in most instances.

The shipments of lumber have come into Lowell during the past two weeks in really large quantities, a Thorndike street concern reported.

Railroad headquarters reported nine cars of lumber from western points and three from southern lumber stations, in since last Friday. Merchants dealing in building supplies required to complete work before cold weather sets in, claim they are having no delays worth mentioning. All of the open yard areas appear to be well stocked at the present time with "roughs" and finished lumber.

There has been a shortage of piping materials in some quarters. House sewerage connections have also been scarce for some time, and required connections with both sewers and water mains have had to wait.

One lumber dealer reports three cars of hard pine and oak just in, replenishing a fast-disappearing supply.

Bricklayers Scarce

There is a steady demand for bricklayers in Lowell and vicinity and few good workmen in that branch of the building industry are available at the present time.

Curtis W. Johnson, of the building firm of C. W. Johnson & Son, Central street, said the shortage of expert bricklayers was real, although no great amount of work had been held up on that account.

Other contractors declared that the demand out of the city for bricklayers, with payments of higher wages per hour, and even bonuses, had called many good workmen to the Shawsheen and other districts. The American Woolen Co. in Andover is building many new homes for employes, and bricklayers are scarce in that vicinity many Lowell men going there to help supply the demand for good workmen at top wages.

FIND HAT WORN BY U. S. RELIEF WORKER

MOSCOW, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press).—The hat worn by Philip J. Shield, missing American relief worker, when he left his house in Simbirsk, has been found on the bank of the Volga river, five miles above the town, according to a telegram from Joseph Dalton, district supervisor of the relief organization in Simbirsk. So far as known Shield has not been seen by anyone in the locality since his disappearance more than a week ago. Col. William N. Haskell, director of the American relief work in Russia, has gone to Simbirsk for a personal investigation.

BUSINESS REPORTED ON THE UPGRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Business in Europe, Latin America, and the Far East is steadily on the upward grade, and, with few exceptions, is better the world over, delegates to the convention of the American Manufacturers' Export association were told today by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. The convention which opened today, will continue through tomorrow.

"Conditions almost everywhere show decided improvements," Dr. Klein declared. "In the Orient, conditions are better now than they have been at any time since 1920. Japan is pulling herself out of the slough of economic depression and business in China is getting better.

"Deflation has run its course, stocks have been reduced, and merchants have taken their losses; labor has taken its cut and has shown a pronounced tendency to co-operate. Production, always the fundamental basis of economic development, is increasing throughout the entire area."

LOWELL PEOPLE BACK FROM POLAND

Antonina Targ, her daughter and son-in-law, Antonina and Joseph Janas, have arrived home from Poland where they have been spending the past six years. Henry Wiechs of 83 Third street, an organizer of the North American Civic league, also made the return trip to America on the same steamship. The travelers had some difficulty in passing the immigration station in New York, but after showing deeds to Lowell property and bank books showing funds in Lowell savings institutions, the travelers were allowed to continue their journey to their former homes in this city.

Polish money has greatly depreciated in value, the returned voyagers say. Mr. Janas has obtained employment in the Massachusetts mills.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE

Says Backache Often Means Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with a dull misery in the kidneys, it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well known authority. An excess of meat makes uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and laggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's poisonous waste, else you have backache, headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

THE CAMPAIGN

It is fortunate for the republicans that the election comes so soon after the enactment of the robber tariff bill, that the people will not have an opportunity to realize its ruinous effect upon certain lines of industry and the monopolistic power it grants to the favored interests, which dictated the schedules.

Already the cost of living is bounding upward as a result of the tariff, but six months hence the real effects of the measure will become apparent. In the course of a year, according to tariff experts, the republican tariff law will exlort four billion dollars from the American people or an average of $35 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It provides a tariff on wool that will add from three to six dollars to the price of every suit of woolen clothes. In this case the tariff on wool is 70 per cent greater than that provided in the famous Schedule K of the Payne-Aldrich law for which the republican party was swept from power. But it has apparently been the purpose of the republican leaders to hold back the enactment of this law until the approach of election so that its effect on the cost of living would not be seriously felt and would not, therefore, stand forth in its true light as a damning witness against the party at the polls.

Senator Lodge and other republican leaders argue that it has brought prosperity. The fact that it was withheld so long has delayed the return of prosperity which would come unless blocked by the suspense due to republican inaction which left merchants in a quandary as to the future.

In his own party there is a strong revolt against Senator Lodge because he devotes his time and his energies to directing the republican machine instead of fighting for the industrial interests of New England. His friends are making frantic appeals for support, but it is too late. The housekeepers and the wage earners, a large proportion of whom are also women, will vote against Senator Lodge and for his opponent, Col. Gaston, the democratic candidate, will fight for their interests and the interests of the country, whereas Senator Lodge fights mainly for the republican party, which holds him in office. His reactionary policies hark back to the days of Mark Hanna when the trusts were fostered under the McKinley tariff law. They were swept aside by the Wilson administration, but are now to be revived or an entirely new set brought to life by the bounties of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, for which Senator Lodge was the chief expounder and defender.

AGAINST CHILD LABOR

The cotton manufacturers of Fall River have voted in favor of a 48-hour week throughout the country for the textile industries. They recommend this as an amendment to the constitution and about the same time the Child Labor committee of Massachusetts has requested the Massachusetts senators and representatives in congress to work for an amendment to the constitution empowering congress to regulate child labor. We surmise that if this amendment were adopted, congress would very soon enact a 48-hour law for textile factories throughout the country. That would go far to prevent child labor as it has been carried on in the south.

The appeal to the Massachusetts congressional delegation states that the nation must see that its children are not exploited by backward communities and asserts that in Georgia children of 13 years may now work ten hours a day and those of 14 years and six months may work all night without violating any law of the state. The law in regard to child labor in North Carolina is equally in favor of children working long hours either by day or by night. It is hoped that something may be done along this line, inasmuch as congress has already made two attempts to put a stop to child labor in the south or wherever it might exist throughout the country, and both have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. The enslavement of children in factories and sweat shops should be stamped out.

AN OAKLAND FIRE STATION

The residents of the Oaklands are fully justified in demanding that the city government shall furnish them with better protection against fire. The High street engine house is the nearest to the Oaklands district but it is over a mile distant from some points in the Oaklands where valuable residences are located. Some of the petitioners favor the location of a new fire station on Belvidere heights and others at Oakland square. Oakland square would seem to be a very central location and, if chosen, would probably serve to provide fire protection for growing districts out along Rogers street. The needs of the Highlands had reason to complain of the drainage for and now it is the duty of the city government to meet the necessities of the Oaklands at its earliest convenience.

The residents of the Oaklands have had reason to complain of the drainage system and it is not entirely certain that this has yet been satisfactorily solved. Nothing is being said of that, however, at the present time and people are interested in securing better fire protection. It is not very long since a very destructive fire occurred at the Atherton plant occupied by the Northern Waste Co. The fire department might have checked that fire in its incipient stage had there been a station at Oaklands square.

If we are to judge from the consideration given the petitioners at the hearing before the city council on Monday evening, it would appear that the council favors the location of a new fire station in the Oaklands and will take steps to have one built there as soon as possible, although it can hardly be expected that the work can be accomplished this season.

HARVEY BREAKS OUT

Ambassador George Harvey has broken out again in London, this time in a tirade against the book of Genesis, which, he says, is not inspired. He denied the rib theory of creation and favored that of simultaneous creation of man and woman, but holds that women have no souls. He also claims that the Decalogue was intended for men only and is not binding upon women, who in biblical times, he held, were used more as slaves or beasts of burden. Mr. Harvey blamed Moses for various versions of the Decalogue and he dilated upon the legends of the creation found in different nations.

England, a nation that has been accustomed to acceptance of the Bible as inspired, must feel shocked at such an iconoclastic address, striking at the very roots of all Christian belief.

The British people stand aghast at Harvey's incubrations and wonder in what direction he will make his next outbreak.

THE SOVIET SYSTEM

In Russia only soldiers and peasants or other people who actually work with hand or brain are allowed to vote.

New orders, issued to Soviet election officials, rule that the following shall not be permitted to vote. "Persons who employ hired labor for the purposes of profit, persons who live on unearned increment, private dealers, traders and commercial agents, clergymen, monks and all employes of religious cults."

This is class government, "pure and simple." Among others, it bars from the polls a farmer employing one farmhand. The Bolshevik bars the bourgeois, or the man supposed to have accumulated a little wealth. He is ostracized and that explains why Soviet Russia has no private capital to conduct her industries and no public capital to maintain her system of transportation.

THOSE STOCK MELONS

Sober second thought suggests that some of these stock dividends are cucumbers or lemons, rather than melons.

A share of stock is really a mortgage on part of the actual physical value of a business. Divide the total number of outstanding shares of stock into the dollars or physical value that the shares represent, and you have the true value of one share.

When the number of shares is doubled, the original real value of one share is cut in two. Tripled, divide by three. And so on. That's simple arithmetic. A gallon remains a gallon, whether you keep it in one jug or divide it into quarts or pints or dilute it with water so that it will fill five gallons.

JOKES

Raymond Hitchcock, comedian, says Americans have a sense of pie-in-the-face or slapstick fun, but no real sense of humor.

He claims the old jokes go best with audiences because a joke, to an American, is like wine—has to be aged to be appreciated.

That's not the real reason. Old jokes bring laughs, year after year, because a new generation is always growing up that never has heard the old gags. The stuff that is old to grown-ups is new to youth. Actors and scenery change, but life is the same old show, century after century. Some of the best jokes known date back to ancient times just as some of our wisest maxims have come down from the age of Solomon, Pericles, Caesar and Augustus.

FREIGHT CARS

A shortage of 141,252 freight cars existed October 8, reports the American Railway Association. And the shortage is growing.

Nine months ago, on January 8, the railroads had a surplus of 646,573 idle cars.

A comparison of the figures informs you more about business conditions than you could get by reading a mile of the average financial news. When railroads move freight on a big scale, people are buying and selling on a big scale. That makes prosperity.

Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League and Congressman Holden Tinkham of Boston after debating the merits or demerits of the prohibition law are said to have shaken hands and parted good friends. Had Tinkham had his choice of the formalities, we surmise, he would have had a clinking of glasses in a farewell drink after the old style. But the strongest accompaniment of the debate was a drink of water.

Ponzi comes to trial, but it will be noted that he is not regarded as the ordinary swindler. Had he embezzled a few thousand dollars from a bank or swindled a farmer in a horse trade, he would probably be more severely punished than he will be for the grand larceny of $8,000,000.

Secretary Weeks of the war department very naturally objects to the pacifist movement for the reduction of armaments with the United States leading as an encouragement to other powers to follow and some of them do not incline to follow even in the distance.

There is a dangerous relation between October leaves thickly strewn on the highways and the auto skids now so numerous.

A Thought

The glory of life is to love, not to be loved; to give, not to get; to serve, not to be served.—HUGH BLACK.

The Shock Absorber

Jones was buying a cheap car and was discussing the necessary fittings. "How about a shock absorber?" he asked. "Well," said the salesman, "we can fit one for you." "No!" replied Jones thoughtfully. "No, don't fit it on. Just send one to my wife in advance—she thinks I'm buying a limousine!"

Easy To Say

Three women were drinking tea together and the first said: "George and I have been married for 25 years, and in all that time there has never been an unkind word—no, not even an unkind thought to mar our perfect happiness." The second woman was tremendously impressed. "My goodness! I wish I could say that!" she cried. The third woman smiled, and said: "Well, why don't you? Jane did."

Unwarranted Liberty

They were rival candidates for a seat in congress and they smiled patronizingly when they met in a railway train. "My dear sir," said the first rival, kindly, "whatever on earth has prompted you to oppose me in the forthcoming election? You haven't a chance to win; it's a donkey to a strawberry against you." "Indeed," said the other man dubiously, "that doesn't sound encouraging, but perhaps you wouldn't mind apologizing for the liberty you've taken in calling me a strawberry."

Wonderful Memory

At a regimental dinner a popular brigadier boasted that he never forgot the name or the face of anyone who had served under him. After the coffee had been round and conversation was more or less "easy," as soldiers say, a youth approached the brigadier. "You don't remember me, sir?" "Why, of course, I do, my boy; I remember you quite well in the old brigade. Tell me, how is young Barton getting on? Do you ever see anything of him now?" "O, yes, sir," replied the ex-officer. "I see him pretty often. I am Barton."

He Was Reading

Poor old Jones had met just a few old college friends, and wending his uncertain way homeward, he pondered ways of concealing his condition from his wife. "I'll go home and read," he decided. "Who ever heard of a drunken man reading a book?" Later Mrs. Jones heard a noise in the library. "What on earth are you doing in there?" she asked, when she discovered it was her husband. "Reading, my dear," Jones replied cheerfully. "You old idiot!" she said scornfully, as she looked in at the library door. "Shut up that telephone directory and come to bed!"

Approved of Funeral

The county court judge had retired at last, after a long and unpopular career, but there were sufficient false flatterers among the lawyers practicing before him to propose a testimonial. They sent around to a young lawyer who had no false politeness to waste and asked him for a subscription. His reply was as follows: "Gentlemen—I am afraid I cannot send you anything for the purpose you indicate in your letter. Please put me down, however, for a handsome donation toward a wreath when it shall be required."

This Way But Once

We go this way but once, O heart of mine,
So why not make the journey well worth while,
Giving to those who travel on with us
A helping hand, a word of cheer, a smile?

We go this way but once. Ah, never more
Can we go back along the selfsame way
To get more out of life, undo the wrongs,
Or speak love's words we knew but did not say.

We go this way but once. Then let us make
The road we travel blossomy and sweet
With helpful, kindly deeds and tender words,
Smoothing the path of bruised and stumbling feet.

FITZGERALD TO SPEAK HERE TOMORROW

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, democratic candidate for governor, will visit Lowell tomorrow and conduct three noon rallies. At 12.30 he will speak at the Massachusetts mill gate, at 12.45 at the Hamilton and at 1.30 at city hall square.

He will move into Middlesex county cities nearer Boston in the afternoon and has rallies scheduled for Somerville, Medford, Winchester, Everett and Malden.

WHEN ROADS ARE CLEAR

If you wish to avoid heavy traffic, while on an auto trip, go out on Tuesday or Wednesday. On these days, between 2 and 3 in the morning, you will find the road most free of motor cars.

This is the conclusion of the United States bureau of public roads, after taking a traffic census of the most traveled roads in the country.

From Wednesday to Saturday traffic increases steadily. It jumps to its greatest volume on Sunday.

Ninety per cent. of the day's traffic, the bureau finds, is between 7 in the morning and 9 at night.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

You can't keep a good man down, and that's why Frank Ricard was an interested spectator at the O.M.I. Cadet-Butler A.A. football game last Sunday. Mr. Ricard, to whom the Lowell sport public needs no introduction, had promised a beautiful loving cup to the winner of the crucial game, and consequently was right on deck to reward the victors. The score ended in a tie, however, and the presentation was deferred to a later date, when, it is hoped, the rival teams will meet again and settle the much-disputed championship claim. The valuable cup is now on exhibition in the display window of Mr. Ricard's jewelry store in Central street and has caused more than one casual passer-by to pause and marvel at its beauty.

Saw Bob Hart, big league umpire, at the K. of C. carnival the other night. Bob looks good after a strenuous season on the diamond, during which one of the closest championship struggles took place. Like a great many big league umps, Mr. Hart plans a very busy season of indoor activity. Besides being a recognized expert on the baseball field, Bob is also an accomplished polo ist and has exhibited his skill in that line here on many occasions. It is probable that the local council of the Knights of Columbus will invite the Lowell arbiter to address the members at a coming meeting. His last talkk khefore the council was greatly appreciated.

Style makers announce that women will wear their hair pompadour again. That means a return of the unsanitary "rat." The companion story comes from the Panama canal, where the steamer Felix Taussig passes through, bound for Atlantic ports. In its cargo is a large shipment of human hair, also 47 bales of goats' beards. Are they for the goats of fashion?

Charles M. Schwab, the steelmaker, says he doesn't take much stock in great geniuses, but "the hardest struggle in the world is to be more than an average man. Think and do differently from the average. If you want to find success. Learn to do some one thing better than anyone else." Mr. Schwab undoubtedly meant that the thing to be done better than anyone else can do it should be one of sufficient importance to justify the expenditure of time and money in learning it.

PROSPECTIVE BENEDICT GUEST OF FRIENDS

Pierre C. Favreau, a member of the firm of Favreau Bros., electrical contractors, in Merrimack street; whose home is in Lakeview avenue, will be married Thursday, October 26, to Miss Rose Alma Perron, a popular resident of Salem and a vocal student at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. The ceremony will be performed at St. Josephs church, Salem, by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Grenier. The bride will be attended by her father, Mr. Joseph Perron, while Mr. Favreau's witness will be his brother, Mr. Urgel Favreau. At the close of the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride, 33 Cabot street, Salem, and later the couple will leave on a honeymoon trip to New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will make their home at 49 Lamb street, this city.

PIERRE C. FAVREAU

These facts concerning the coming wedding were made known yesterday and immediately arrangements were made for a bachelor party and some thirty friends of the young man were invited to attend the festivities, which were carried on last evening in the main dining room at Cole's Inn in Central street.

At 8.30 o'clock a bountiful dinner was served and after the inner man had been looked after properly, Eugene Caisse, a close friend of the guest of the evening, presented him, in behalf of those present, a purse containing $100 in gold. Then the fun began. Mr. Favreau responded briefly, but to the point, and his remarks were followed by a varied entertainment program in which all present participated. A feature of the program was an address by Harry A. Cole, manager of the Inn, who served in the U. D. division in France with Mr. Favreau, and who related in a very pleasing manner incidents which occurred to the boys in France. The affair was brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "O Canada," by the gathering. Urael Favreau acted as master of ceremonies.

In attendance were Alberic, Urgel, Venance and Euclide Favreau, Eugene Caisse, Arthur J. Bernier, Alfred St. Onge, George Boucher, William Perreault, Henri Bissonnette, Arcolle Beaudelle, Henri Dersorlers, Charles Cordeau, Lucien Lussier, Avilla Desrosiers, Donat Gervais, Edgar Rancourt, Richard Thomas, William Patterson, Amedee Caron, Jr., Arthur Breault, Raoul H. Monier, Nelson Phillips, Philippo Favreau, Edouard Coutu and E. J. Larochelle.

DRIVE TO ORGANIZE TEXTILE OPERATIVES

The United Textile Workers of America has launched a drive for the organizing of textile operatives of New England under the banner of the organization and in order to carry the drive to a successful end all organizers have been ordered to the front and in addition two women organizers have been added to the staff. The drive will include this city, but it is said activities will not be started here for a few weeks.

Organizer Thomas J. Regan, of this city, has been ordered to report at Cohoes, N. Y, tomorrow and he will leave tomorrow morning for his new field of work. Mr. Regan has received instructions to organize the operatives of the Harmony mills in that city, which number close to 5000 and also to gather into the organization of employes of the hosieries and underwear plants in the city. The employes of the Harmony mills are already organized about 85 per cent. and the Lowell man feels it will be an easy task to gather the other 15 per cent. under the banner of the organization he represents. "Of course," he says, "it will be a bigger job to organize the hosiery and underwear workers, but I believe I can manage it." He figures he will be in Cohoes about three weeks.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

AS ORDERED

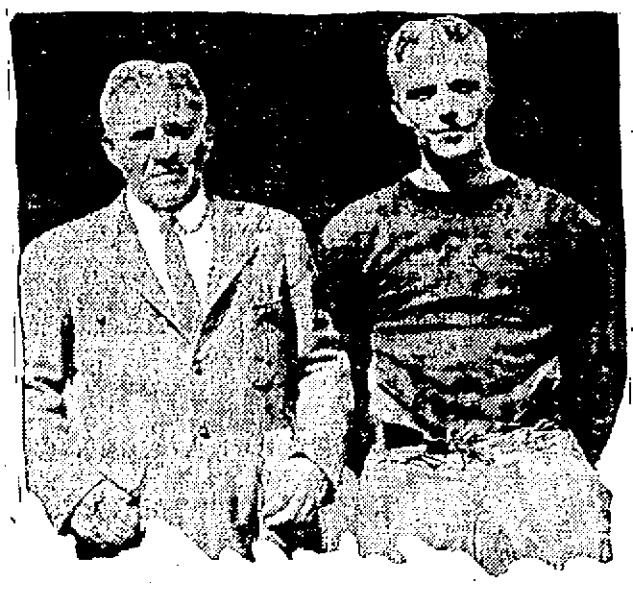

It's Halloween, and I must write a poem,
Adapted to the season and the date,
So I must mention—though you doubtless know 'em—
Such matters as will seem appropriate.
For instance "jack-o-lanterns, golden yellow,"
And "missing gates that rouse the owners' spleen,"
And "hickory nuts" and "cider rich and mellow,"
It's Halloween!

Of course it's necessary, too, to mention
The "sheeted figures slipping through the dark,"
And obviously I must call attention
To "pranks the youngsters play while on a lark."
And I must speak of "fun that's gay and hearty,"
And note the weather, "brisk and chill and keen,"
And tell of "merry games at many a party,"
It's Halloween!

I'll say a word about the "girl who glances
Into a mirror by a candle's light,
Seeking her destined hero of romances";
Can't leave that out and have my verses right,
"Popcorn," "marshmallows," "apples"—you'd be cheated
If these weren't listed in my lay, I ween;
So—there they are! And now my job's completed,
It's Halloween!

Chicago Rooters Look To Coach and Captain

COACH STAGG; CAPTAIN LEWIS

Chicago looks to Coach Stagg and Captain Lewis to supply the strategy that will give Chicago another victory over Princeton Stagg, one of the oldest and most resourceful coaches in the country, regards his Chicago team of this year the equal of the 1921 eleven. Chicago beat Princeton last year, 9 to 0. The inference is Stagg looks for another victory. The fact that Princeton appears weaker than last season strengthens the belief that Stagg will deliver.

Woman With Babe in Arms Jailed

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Rose Febro, who appeared in federal court with a baby in her arms, has been sentenced by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe to serve five months in the county jail for violation of the Volstead act. The court remarked that women had been given the ballot and demanded all the rights of men and that they should be given the same treatment as males. "If they have children and their relations or friends will not take care of them, the city authorities will have to do so," said the court.

THE REASON

CONTENTMENT of mind, fair treatment, and the consideration at all times of the welfare and happiness of our employees are the things which make possible that team-work and co-ordination of effort between many thousands of employees and many different mills which has made the American Woolen Company famous for cloth of unsurpassed "per-dollar" value.

Matters that concern us most concern our employees. Hence, the executives of the American Woolen Company—from its president down—feel a personal interest and moral responsibility in the welfare of our hosts of workers.

Volstead Opposed for Re-election By Rev. O. J. Kvale

BY NEA SERVICE

GRANITE FALLS, Minn., Oct. 25.—The father of America's prohibition law, opposed for re-election by a minister and lifelong foe of liquor who has the backing of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and other "wets"—

Such is today's strange paradox in the political campaign in the seventh Minnesota congressional district.

Congressman Andrew J. Volstead, author of the Volstead prohibition act, is back home here, making the hardest political campaign of his career.

He seeks re-election on his prohibition record, against the Rev. O. J. Kvale, who declares himself "drier than Volstead."

The fight has assumed national interest. The nation's "dry" and "wet" organizations have both entered the campaign, for it is bound to have a tremendous effect upon the big effort to amend the dry law and legalize light wines and beer.

Volstead's opponent is pastor of the Lutheran church at Benson, Minn. Rev. Kvale has not raised the prohibition question, did not seek "wet" support—but regardless of the "dry" views, it has been thrust upon him.

Volstead Power Great

Volstead is chairman of the powerful judiciary committee of the house of representatives, to which all bills for modification of the prohibition act would be referred. Volstead's ability to hold down consideration of wet measures is a big factor for prohibition strength.

Defeat of Volstead, besides eliminating him, would improve chances for favorable action toward amendment. If the republicans retain control, George S. Graham, Philadelphia, would become chairman of the judiciary committee. Wets say he would be "more amenable to reason" than a prohibitionist.

Should the democrats regain control of the house, Robert Y. Thomas of Kentucky would be the committee chairman. Consideration of modification amendments by the judiciary committee would be assured, in either case, with Volstead removed, says the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Thus, the Rev. Kvale, ever a foe of the saloon, involuntarily has the support of the national "wet" organization, while the national organization of the Anti-Saloon League, which he has always supported, is fighting him.

It's Third Race

This is the third time the two "dry" men have opposed each other. Two years ago, Kvale defeated Volstead for the republican nomination. The republican state organization backed a contest, however, and Volstead was declared nominated.

In the fall Kvale, running as the farmer-labor candidate, lost to Volstead by but 1600 votes.

This year, Kvale is running as an independent, with the endorsement of the democrats and non-partisan league.

All is not "wet" support that is behind the Rev. Kvale. Since he came to Boston from Wisconsin, five years ago, he has won widespread opularity through his charitable w his activity during the war and ...e prominent part he has taken in public affairs at Benson.

High In Church

In the Lutheran church he has been prominent since school days. He is a member of the board of education and the board of finance of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

For 23 years, Kvale was pastor at Oxfordsville, Wis., near Madison. During this time he was a close friend of Senator Robert LaFollette, and gives the latter credit for much of his political inspiration.

Rev. Kvale and his wife have seven children.

"Thoughtful Mothers!" Are You One of Them?

All mothers—bless them—are loving and devoted. How often we are led to respect and admire the "thoughtful mother" who provides for emergencies and saves her loved ones from hours of suffering and herself from needless anxiety and sleepless vigil.

The season for colds, coughs, pneumonia, influenza and catarrhal ailments is drawing near, when the "thoughtful mother" makes up a full pint of pure, quickly effective cold and cough syrup; made at home by using pure concentrated Essence Mentho-Laxene (2½ ozs.) mixed with simple sugar syrup or strained honey. A pint of sugar and a half pint of water makes the syrup in three minutes. The essence and the syrup are then poured into a pint bottle and is ready to use to prevent bad colds and coughs getting worse. The very first dose gives wonderful relief and in a few days all traces of the congestion and catarrhal symptoms are usually gone. The joy of seeing the quick freedom from colds, coughs and dangerous complications, the freedom from anxiety and sleepless nights, to say nothing of the real economy of this home remedy—is worth its weight in gold.

The drug store supplies the Essence Mentho-Laxene. "Best ever sold for cough or cold". 8oml 5 ots. in stamps for trial bottle to The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio

With Aid of Collars You Can Make Old Frocks New

One way to refurbish one of last season's frocks is to add one of the new wide collars now so fashionable.

Those of net or georgette crepe, trimmed with hemstitching and a lace edging, may be made very inexpensively at home and they give the same effect of the expensive ones you buy in the shops.

It seems only fair to give this word of warning—if you have very broad shoulders such a collar will emphasize the fact. Only the young and slender should attempt this extreme style.

MONEY PAID BY CITY TO PENSIONERS

Just how much money yearly does it cost a city to take care of its employes too old to work and those incapacitated from injuries received in performance of their duty? The average person in this city hasn't an idea, couldn't guess within a few thousand dollars and has little idea, if any, how many persons are on the pension list. To those who do not know it might be interesting to learn that last year the city of Lowell paid out $23,112.94, while this year the figure will be slightly over $26,000. This amount does not include the money paid to members of the school department as the state has an arrangement with teachers which provides for pensions.

The figure for last year is fixed, as far as last year is concerned, but this year's figure is based upon that amount of money expended in the past nine months. Taking the amount of money paid out in the month of September as a computation basis, the city will pay out $26,127.18 this year. This will not be the exact figure in all probability because some individual may be added to the list before the year closes which would increase the total, or then again death may claim some member now on the pension list which would lessen the total for the year.

At the present time there are 41 persons, all men, drawing pensions from the city. During the month of September 42 men drew pensions but during the middle of the month one of the number died, thereby automatically cutting his name from the list.

The fire and police departments, two of the largest municipal departments with regard to the number of men employed, head the list of representatives on the pension sheet. Each has 15 former members of the department receiving compensation. Until the death of one former member of the police department, which occurred last month, the police had one more drawing pension than the fire department.

The highest yearly amount paid out to any fire department member is $1018.35, while the lowest is $501.87. The average amount paid out each month is $788.60. The lowest amount paid to any one member is $1.37½ per day. In taking such a figure into consideration it should be remembered that the pension laws have changed since they were first made, thereby allowing men pensioned at the present time to receive more money.

In the police department the pensions vary greatly. They range from $1.71½ per day to $3 and $2.50 per day up to a yearly basis of $1500. The lowest amount received by any on this list is $546. In September $963.84 was paid out.

The water department takes care of two men. One of these receives $365 and the other $634. The public buildings has one man who receives $21.67 per month. In the streets department there are six men who receive amounts varying from $25 per month to $827.90 per year. The total payroll is $245.54 per month.

Two janitors connected with the school department receive $28.73 and $41.66 per month. This totals up to $70.39 per month or $844.78 per year.

It is fortunate that a city is able to care for faithful employes or those who are incapacitated during the time they work for a city. Of course a number not included here are protected through the workmen's compensation law. With one or two exceptions, the men on the pension list are those who have been in the city's service for years and who were retired on pension as a reward for faithful services rendered.

FIVE AFTER ONE POSTMASTERSHIP

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 25.—Five well known residents of this city are known to have made application for examination as candidates for the postmastership of Springfield.

Applications were to be filed in Washington by midnight last night. Those known to have applied are Col. Paul J. Norton, commander of the 104th Regiment, M.N.G.; Christopher G. Simpson, ex-president of the common council; James F. Wallis, Jr., ex-alderman and former chairman of the republican city committee; Archibald H. Matthews, a veteran of the 104th Infantry, U.S.A., and Ellis P. Knox, present employe in the postoffice.

It is estimated that the dog has been man's companion for about 7000 years.

MAYONNAISE

AND YOU CAN MAKE IT YOURSELF—READ HOW

EVERYBODY likes mayonnaise. But the best mayonnaise is the kind you make yourself at home. Some housewives think mayonnaise is difficult and troublesome to prepare.

Look over the Mazola recipe here and see how simple it is.

Take the can of Mazola you now have or get a can from your grocer and follow this recipe carefully. You will be delighted with the results.

Mazola-made mayonnaise is always firm and will keep longer without separating.

Likewise for other dressings, such as French Dressing, Mazola is not only the preference of those who know salad oils, but you don't need to worry about using Mazola liberally.

For, as there are no heavy ocean freight rates or import duties to pay, it is much less expensive than imported olive oil.

Mazola never gets rancid, in any climate or temperature. So you do not need to keep it in the ice box.

A Friendly Hint: Be sure to always have a can of Mazola on hand.

Mayonnaise Dressing

1 cup Mazola ½ teaspoon Salt
1 Egg Yolk ½ teaspoon Sugar
3 tablespoons Lemon Juice or Vinegar
¼ teaspoon Paprika

Add well mixed seasoning to egg, with one teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar, and beat well, adding one teaspoon Mazola at a time until mixture thickens, after which the Mazola may be added more rapidly. Thin with lemon juice or vinegar when necessary.

LONDON PAPERS PRAISE NEW PRIME MINISTER

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Times comments in a friendly tone on Bonar Law's accession to the premiership, expressing the belief that the country will be pleased at his abstention from melodramatic promises and will confidently await the full exposition of his program.

The Daily Telegraph, which has been generally a hearty supporter of former Premier Lloyd George, also is favorable to the new prime minister, commending the "honesty, moderation and strong common sense of his address yesterday."

The Daily Express reproduces a rumor, which also appears elsewhere but which is entirely unconfirmable, that the premier may include the Earl of Balfour in his administration. Such a step, says the Express, would be disastrous, because "Balfour is the author of the Palestinian policy whereby the Zionist minority is to govern and dispossess the Arab majority with the aid of British bayonets."

This policy, the newspaper adds, is leading straight to an Arab revolt and trouble as disastrous as the Greeks met in Asia Minor. It calls upon the government to reverse its policy in Palestine and clear out of the near east altogether.

This stand is supported by the Daily Mail and it is obvious that unless Bonar Law complies, these two papers will oppose him.

ERK TESTIFIES IN PONZI CASE of Huge Sum Being Withdrawn Hurriedly From Bank

Believed Ponzi Was Dealing in International Reply Coupons

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Testimony that $2,300,000 standing in the Hanover Trust Co. to the account of Charles Ponzi was withdrawn between July 17 and July 28, 1920, was given in superior court today by Miss Lucy Meli, the couri today by Miss Lucy Meli, the reply coupon financier's former secretary, Ponzi and five of his agents are being tried on charges of larceny and conspiracy.

Miss Meli, who said that she did not know what became of the money, asserted that $1,800,000 was withdrawn hurriedly within a week prior to July 26, the date on which Ponzi stopped receiving investments in his fifty per cent in 45 days' scheme.

The witness identified six checks of $200,000 each, endorsed by Ponzi and some payable to him. They were drawn on the Hanover Trust Co. Miss Meli said that Ponzi's account in the bank was charged to the name of Lucy Martell, after a warning had been received at Ponzi's office that the money was to be attached. She said that Charles Pizzi, a former director of the Hanover, suggested to her, in Ponzi's absence from the city, that the account be transferred to a fictitious name.

On cross-examination by Ponzi, who is acting as his own counsel, Miss Meli said she never had any doubt that Ponzi was dealing in international reply coupons. She did not change her mind, she said, until he pleaded guilty in the federal court in December, 1920.

She said Ponzi had given orders for the purchase of 100,000 Italian lire.

BAY STATE MAN RECEIVES INJURIES

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—A cablegram received here today from W. Irving Bullard, vice-president of the Merchants National Bank of this city, who was injured in Rio de Janeiro, last Sunday, said that his left leg and shoulder were broken in two places and that he suffered severe bruises. Mr. Bullard, who officially represents Massachusetts at the Brazilian centennial exposition, was riding in an inclined railway car when the cable snapped, dropping the car to the bottom of the hill. The accident, the message said, was unavoidable. The message was addressed to Mr. Bullard's banking associates. His wife and two children are with him, but were not passengers in the car.

WILL NOT CLOSE UNTIL NOV. 5

The Merrimack Square theatre management has found it possible to postpone its closing for the purpose of extensive building alterations for another week, so instead of making the coming Sunday the closing day, it will be a week from then, or on Nov. 5.

Elsewhere, in an advertisement, the theatre management expresses regret at being compelled to close for nearly two months, but the plan of expansion is so comprehensive and sweeping that it would be a physical impossibility to continue entertainments while the major portion of the construction is going on.

Letters of regret came from Geo. F. Clark, Townsend; George W. Gove, Madison, Wis.; Rev. James H. Little, Bethel, Me., and William H. Severance, Troy, N. Y.

President William H. Severance of Troy relinquishes his office this year, and this afternoon, when officers are elected for 1923, the veterans planned to elect John J. Ryder, the present vice-president, in his place. Mr. Ryder, familiarly known as "Hamrod," and greatly beloved by the veterans, was badly wounded in the Atlanta campaign, but recovered and returned to the rank before peace was declared. He was a corporal in the old Thirty-Third and was 80 years old last April. The new president-to-be used to be six feet and two inches in height, but shrinkage began to creep along the roadways, he has lost the two inches and doesn't regret it.

William H. Severance had an excellent year as president and his friends told him so in royal fashion today.

The secretary of the association, W. T. S. Bartlett of this city, handled the day's programs, arranged for the fine dinner at noon and superintended the after-dinner exercises and read the usual reports. Today's dinner was provided without cost for the veterans and their friends by a Lowell feminine friend of the comrades in memory of a beloved daughter and her husband.

At noon nearly 50 members and friends, including numerous invited guests, sat down to the annual banquet. The election of officers came afterward, with a program of informal nature including speaking and singing.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Operations of opposing speculative forces were responsible for the irregular course of prices at the opening of today's stock market. Shares of eastern railroads, Mexican oil companies and a number of specialties, were in good demand, but some of the steel, equipment and motor shares were under pressure. Reading and Western Maryland 2nd preferred each established new peak prices for the year, the former at 55¾, up 1¼. Other strong spots in the rail group were Western Maryland common, Jersey Central, Great Northern preferred and New York Central, up ¾, to 3 points. Mexican Petroleum sold two points above last night's close in the first few minutes of trading. Other individual strong spots were Coca Cola, Pressed Steel Car, United States Realty, Consolidated Gas, May Department Stores and American Can, all up a point or more. United States Steel common sold off ⅝ of a point and Republic Steel 1¼. Studebaker was under professional pressure, yielding 1¾ points. Standard Oil of California, Houston Oil and American Car also were heavy.

The close was steady. Atlantic Gulf dropped 5¼ to a new low for the year in the final hour. However, good buying of American locomotive which was pushed up 2¼ points above yesterday's close, started a rally in other parts of the list which was aided by extensive short covering.

HOLDUP AND ROBBERY IN ANDOVER STREET

A holdup and robbery in Andover street that occurred a week ago last Saturday night, in which Mrs. Ann Denny, for four years employed by Mrs. Freeman B. Shedd, was robbed of her pocketbook containing $60 and valued and identifying papers and keys, came to light today.

The attack and robbery took place just above the park at the intersection of Andover and Nesmith streets at about 9.30 p. m. and although Mrs. Denny fought for her possessions and screamed as she was roughly handled by two young men, no one happened to be passing at the time and she was forced to watch them disappear, one in one direction and the other in the opposite.

The attack was at once reported to the police by Mrs. Shedd, but no trace of the robbers has been found.

REGRETTABLE INCIDENTS IN EASTERN THRACE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press).—Several regrettable incidents have occurred in Eastern Trace, despite the presence of allied military detachments says a statement by Shakir Bey, the first made public since his appointment as civil governor of Thrace for the Turkish Nationalist government.

The Turkish populations in the province are "behaving excellently," adds the statement, "and it is untrue that Turkish irregulars are operating there.

"The administration of the province will observe the same rules toward the Greeks and Armenians as in Asia Minor, namely, that men of military age will concentrate in prison camps. Those who have been traitors will be punished and all others, if peaceable and honest, will be permitted to continue to live and work in absolute safety."

ARREST THREE FOR AUTOMOBILE THEFT

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 25.—Three young men, armed with loaded revolvers, arrested here last night in a touring car stolen from a West Brookfield garage were taken to East Brookfield today to face a charge of theft of the car and warrants also have been issued in Palmer for their arrest for breaking and entering a store there and the theft of supplies. They gave their names as Harold Vezie, 16, and Charles Roper, 15, both of Revere, and William Jackson, 24, who is a sailor and claimed no home. They are said to have admitted the theft and break and told the police they were on their way to New York to dispose of the car.

CASE OF ASSAULT AND BATTERY

The charge of assault and battery preferred by Fred W. Robinson against his step-brothers Joseph and Thomas Perks of Dracut, was heard in a special session of the district court by Judge Fisher this afternoon. Joseph pleaded guilty to the assault, which occurred last Sunday, and was fined $30, while Thomas, who pleaded not guilty, was fined $10. They were given three and two weeks, respectively, in which to pay.

DROP PACKARD STOCK FROM DETROIT LIST

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—Common stock of the Packard Motor Car Co. was ordered dropped from the list of the Detroit Stock Exchange today, the board of governors holding that the exchange had not been given sufficient notice in the declaration yesterday of a dividend of 5 per cent payable to stockholders of record today.

The suspension, announced as temporary at the opening of the stock exchange today, was made permanent when the company declined to advance the record date to tomorrow.

WILL TELL OF TRIP TO WESTERN CITIES

At the next regular meeting of the school committee, scheduled for Oct. 31, an extensive report will be submitted, based on the recent trip to Cleveland and other cities, taken by several members of the board. It is anticipated the report will cover the school lunch room question and may delve somewhat into the management of athletics.

While in Cleveland the committeemen were splendidly entertained by Herbert L. Bixby, former headmaster of the Lowell high school, who now is assistant superintendent of schools in the Ohio city, with full control over all elementary schools.

LOOTING CHARGES ARE CONTAINED IN NOTE

MOSCOW, Oct. 25. (By the Associated Press) Charges that Vladivostok is being looted by the White Guards of the Priamur government with the assistance of Japanese officers and soldiers are made in a joint note sent to Japan by the soviet government and the Far Eastern republic. The communication places all responsibility for violations and losses upon the Japanese.

DISMISS COMPLAINT AGAINST FILM COMPANY

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A complaint filed by the attorney general against the Famous Players-Lasky corporation for an alleged violation of the state motion picture censorship laws was dismissed today by a general sessions grand jury. The jury reported the dismissal after questioning members of the board of censors.

The motion picture corporation had failed, it was charged, to make certain eliminations ordered by the censors from one of its plays, until after it had been shown several times.

Interesting Address on Textile Conditions

men, resulting in good production, regular work and increased orders for output against northern competition, which was dwindling away "because of shameful lethargy and lack of old-time business energy" in many textile quarters, not excepting Lowell.

Hitting straight from the shoulder, the speaker said in part:

"Come with me to the ideal cotton textile section of the sunny south—the Piedmont section. I take this for one example of the prosperity that has come to our southern neighbors in the cotton industry. There is plenty of good fresh air and sunshine, homes for families, each separately arranged, with gardens, etc., for each home; plenty of good water, lighting equipments, che p fuel, good wages and generally better living conditions all around than can be found in Lowell or any other northern industrial city of its size.

Tribute to Operatives

"Most of the people down there are of excellent stock, Irish and Scot, coming to the cities to work in the mills and find new homes and more money than they ever earned before. They are not 'poor white trash' at all, as some northerners think. They are the finest people we have in America today—strong, sturdy, clean-living and educated. They like just as good living conditions as you do here in Lowell, and they are provided with them, too. They are human, and they appreciate good homes and good treatment.

"In Piedmont, and in Greenville, and other cities, the textile game is being played fairly with all employes. To be sure the wages are not quite so high down there, but living conditions are better and it doesn't cost so much to live. Colored people do not work with white people in the mills as some suppose. That is not allowed. And that protects the mills from any labor troubles, for there are no unions down there to amount to anything. In Charlotte there are some union organizations, but they have been quiet, inoperative for some time and are not active this season at all."

Mr. Fortune declared that Spartansburg was another city that had wonderful industrial conditions. He described the rise of numerous mill owners from the "ground up." Some of the leaders in the southern textile industry today, like Victor Montgomery of Spartansburg, started without a dollar. He was handicapped by the loss of his first mills and the death of his family, but he kept on until the Spartansburg mill today is a splendid example of ideal southern mill conditions properly managed and conducted at all times for the benefit of employes and employers alike.

Happy Home Life

The speaker described the happy home life of the southern industrial workers, who has all modern home furnishing and clothes and recreations familiar to his northern brothers and sisters. And very few southerners are of late foreign extraction, the speaker said.

During the past 20 years the number of cotton spindles operated in the south has risen from 4,365,000 to 15,231,000, the present number. While the northern mills have gained during that period of time only 34 per cent. In number of spindles, the southern gain has been 248 per cent., showing the growth of the remarkable and healthy southern textile industry.

Looms have increased in the north, but 19 per cent in 20 years, while the south shows an increase of 118 per cent.

Northern mill men say southern employes are paid 35 per cent. less wages than their friends in the north, but the speaker said this was not true—that the average is about 19 per cent. lower instead of 35. Conditions in the south are different, however, and the present wages paid are excellent with living conditions figured in the aggregate. The southern mills train their own operators and are reaching high standards.

New England is in great danger of losing its priority in the textile business, the speaker declared emphatically. Utica, N. Y., concerns have moved south, others have already gone, and others are planning to go. The time is ripe for agitation to awaken northern mill men from "their lethargy," the speaker continued.

"The cotton textiles are the backbone of old New England. The shoe industry is drifting away to St. Louis and elsewhere, although the boot and shoe workers in our territory are doing better than they have done for some time past. The time is at hand for concerted action if New England is to retain any part of its great textile industries that used to be supreme.

"The whole truth is this: The second generation of the south is springing up and going into the textile business. They are proud of their trade, as their fathers were. They are going to reap a harvest in the southland, as they have been reaping for some time past. The textile industries are the biggest businesses in the south today. We must compete with them from now on with more real energy and wideawakeness if we are to maintain any part of our old supremacy. It behooves you people here in Lowell and all the great New England textile centers to get busy.

"Northern mills cannot work with hour schedules uneven in numerous cities and meet other competitors. There must be fixed hours in this industry here in all mills working on similar output. Employes must have the kind of treatment and living conditions that their brethren receive down in the southland.

Believes in Advertising

"I am glad to see the textile industries reviving in this section, with better times ahead. I believe that we lack here much prosperity because we decline to advertise like other sections of the country. The textile industries of New England have not been advertising for a long time, but other industries elsewhere are constantly doing so. The textiles in your vicinity ought to start an advertising campaign at once. It pays. They are stagnant indeed who do not put forward their goods in the modern methods, and advertising is the thing, as southern textile manufacturers have discovered so promptly. Advertising is money well spent. You can't get around that, and that is what the local textile industries need today—a good advertising campaign, well handled and pushed hard. It would help the revival that is coming."

The speaker said business was going ahead tremendously in southern textile fields, with more money in circulation and other lines of business improving steadily. He believed conditions were improving, too, in New England.

Previous to the address, the Ad men announced coming events, urged members and friends to buy tickets to various entertainments and athletic contests and received several new members with cordial enthusiasm. The souvenir dinner is coming on Dec. 7. President Frank Ricard was in the chair today. Secretary-Manager Wells invited the Ad men and their friends to attend the monthly luncheon of the chamber of commerce in the Memorial Auditorium next Monday.

Kirk and Wallace testified that their act was intended for a joke and a letter from Attorney General Shaw of Houlton read in court, stated that "holdups were a common form of amusement along the road." Sheriff Grant and Deputy Graves, who turned out to be the occupants of the automobile held up, testified against the respondents.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Unless some action is taken to prevent profiteering by the coal jobber, Massachusetts can hardly benefit by the recently established mine prices, said James J. Phelan, state emergency fuel director, in a letter today to Conrad E. Spens, federal fuel distributor.

"If the public is to get the advantage of the prices named for 'company coal,' the letter said, "and that part of the production controlled must be made to eliminate the roll-top, swivel chair dealer commonly referred to as the 'go-between' and sometimes as the jobber, and who is supposed to get the rake-off between the Pennsylvania price and the exorbitant price asked of the local dealers, which, based on prices now being asked, might range anywhere from $2 to $5 if not even higher.

"Stop this abuse and the coal situation will not only be helped greatly in the present emergency, but for the future as well."

Yeggs Cut Off Town—Blow Safe

STOUFFVILLE, Ont., Oct. 25.—A band of cracksmen swooped down on this town early today, cut all telegraph and telephone wires, broke into the Standard bank, drilled open the safe door and escaped with approximately $10,000 in cash and a quantity of securities.

Golf Succeeding Liquor as Asset

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—Golf is succeeding liquor as a commercial asset to salesmen, according to Vincent L. Price, president of a candy manufacturing company here today. "Where a salesman would entertain a customer with rounds of highballs in the days before prohibition, he now is establishing friendly relations on the golf course," he said.

FIGHTING PROHIBITION

Counsel for Shippmen Seek Supersedas Order to Prevent Injunction Dismissal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—An effort by counsel for the ship companies which are seeking to prevent enforcement of the prohibition of liquors on foreign ships touching American ports and on American vessels outside territorial waters of the United States, to obtain from Associate Justice Brandeis of the supreme court a supersedeas order to hold up the dismissal of their injunction proceedings by Federal Judge Hand of New York was awaited here today.

Whether Justice Brandeis would act immediately on such a petition which the attorneys announced they were preparing to submit to him, or wait until after the supreme court meets Nov. 13, was a subject of speculation. If a supersedeas order were obtained shortly it was pointed out, interference by the government with operation of the appellants' ships would be prevented until final decision by the supreme court on the legal point at issue, where the normal course would be for federal officers to proceed with enforcement of the statute as soon as dismissal of the injunction case had been formally signed by Judge Hand.

TO ARREST BELA KUN

GENEVA, Oct. 25—A warrant for the arrest of Bela Kun, former head of the Hungarian Soviet government which was dominant in Hungary for a short time after the war, was issued today by the federal police department. JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES—No. 92.

Jack started in to dig and worked hard. It was not long before his hands were blistered and his back was aching. The plucky lad kept right at his task, however. He was anxious to uncover the hidden treasure. Flip ran around chasing sparrows.

Unnoticed by Jack, a strange boy wandered near and watched him dig. Presently he motioned for others to come over and watch. The lad was very curious as to what Jack was digging for. In the meantime Jack went deeper and deeper into the ground.

Footsteps and strange voices startled Jack. He stopped and looked around. Quite a crowd had gathered. The little adventurer was bewildered and somewhat scared. He didn't know a soul in the crowd and wondered if anyone would interfere with him. Continued.

CROWD AT CARNIVAL

Second Night of Big Carnival in Associate Hall Very Successful

Favored by ideal weather, the second night of the big K. of C. carnival continued in Associate hall last night with about 3000 people in attendance. The various booths, neatly distributed about the hall, reported a capacity business, the gathering generously responding to the persistent appeals of the lively and energetic salesmen and ladies. As on the opening night, general dancing was in order throughout the evening and continued until midnight, with the following in charge: Floor director, J. Joseph McOsker; assistant floor directors, Thomas P. Donnelly and Bernard F. Roach. During the dance numbers, a singer from Boston rendered several popular airs, which were greatly approved by all. A balloon dance, in which all participants were required to purchase balloons, was one of the many features of the evening. Several of the balloons refused to behave and soared to the celestial heights of the hall while others burst without warning in the hands of the owners.

At appointed intermissions, John F. Noone ascended the stage platform and assumed the position of auctioneer, calling for bids on various articles of rare worth. Joseph M. Duffy, of 153 High street outbid his nearest competitor and was awarded a beautiful electric lamp, while a bag of flour was won by Miss Winifred Hart of West street, one of the hustlers on Santa Maria table.

While the main hall bustled with activity, the vendors in the council chambers upstairs reported sales of unusual proportions, practically doubling the receipts of the night before. Grand Knight John E. Hart was again on deck to supervise the affair and with a competent staff of assistants, everything proceeded with consistent regularity. The carnival will close this evening when special features, especially reserved for the closing, will be exhibited, including a grand auction sale of every article on the tables. This afternoon was devoted to the children of the city and, needless to say, all took advantage of the opportunity to engage in the merry-making.

MILITARY BALL BY AMERICAN LEGION

The military ball to be held Friday evening, Nov. 10, Armistice eve., under the auspices of the local American Legion, promises to be a colorful affair, for in addition to guests coming attired in uniforms of the World war, army, navy and marine corps, there will be the brilliant colors of the Spanish war veterans, the venerated uniforms of the Grand Army of the Republic and the attractive display of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and other famous organizations of renown in the world military.

The ball room decorations are to be in keeping with the display of uniforms and the spirit of the evening. A most extensive decoration scheme has been planned, the active committee in charge of this work being headed by Dr. Joseph P. Kearney, chairman, who has conferred with Blackall & Clapp and Whittemore, architects, to obtain a comprehensive scheme that will be in harmony with the building and event.

Legion committeemen announced today that the ball is not for military representatives and enthusiasts alone, but for the general public. The Legion is simply endeavoring to revive interest in the glory of old-time military events of this kind and is seeking the hearty co-operation of the public at large.

The list of invited guests includes Governor Channing Cox, Lieut.-Gov. Fuller, Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Gen. Edwards and numerous other well known gentlemen in civic and military life of the commonwealth.

Three thousand season tickets for the Moses Greeley Parker course of lectures and concerts have been distributed. Two thousand were rapidly snapped up on Monday and the third thousand was as eagerly sought this afternoon at the Auditorium box office.

The course this year will be divided into week-day night lectures and concerts and Sunday afternoon concerts and one of the best general programs possible has been arranged by the committee.

Three Burton Holmes travelogues have been booked and twice Isaac F. Marcosson will lecture, once on "The Changing East" and later on "The German Collapse and World Security."

After that time the general public will be admitted without tickets so far as the seating capacity of the Auditorium will permit.

FLIVVERING FROM COAST TO COAST

Flivvering in a gasoline vehicle plastered with the names of cities and towns from 'Frisco, Cal., and far Tijuana, the wettest town on the other side of the Mexican border, to Portland, Me., not forgetting the Spindle City, two more of the clan of coast-to-coast travelers slid into the big square near the Richardson hotel on Middlesex street this noon and hurried over to a frankfurt parlor for sustenance, also demanding coffee that wasn't made of chicory.

For these two trippers of the Ford clan of tourists have been used to good foods all the way from the Yuma desert, where they ate free frigoles and honey, to the land of cotton where the tamales and the fried corn pones came easy. Folks all the way along the route didn't want any Yankee money for entertaining the tourists, who gave their names to The Sun this noon as Fred Hammond, who appeared in chic khaki, and T. H. Hanley, who wears glasses, and is a good fellow to meet. Hanley came from Lynn once, but hangs out when at home in Springfield, Mass., where this famous trip started.

The record to Lowell is just 22,000 miles by flivver, with six blowouts, two new sets of tires on the rears and six changes from old to new on the two front spinners.

The box covering the Ford was home made, but cost nearly $500 to build. It is covered with names of men, towns and famous sights discovered on the long trail.

Hanley built the conveyance. Everything went fine until the oil stove gave out on the Mojave desert, but a traveler helped them out and there were no obits to write in the home papers.

The trip was begun in the spring of 1920, backed by a letter from good Governor Milliken of Maine.

From Portland the boys visited all the states, interviewing Rockefeller oil barons continuously when they weren't getting governors' signatures. They spent the winter in California and outside stations, skipped down to the Mexican resorts to see if the wild animals were really alive as reported, and left Los Angeles in April for the homeward trip. They hit Lowell this morning with frankfurts the first thing on the menus, while the truckmen who reside in the district of Thorndike street plied them with fancy bottles of orange juice and lemon pop, which necessitated a little irritating remark from Friend Hanley:

"Is that the best you can do in Lowell?"

Mr. Hanley has no relatives here, but says the Hanley family is well known, for he reads the Lowell papers.

St. Patrick's Holy Name Society Hear William H. O'Brien of Boston

Practically the entire membership of St. Patrick's Holy Name society attended the special meeting in the school hall last night and listened to a very interesting and instructive address by William H. O'Brien, of the public utilities department of the state house. Mr. James O'Sullivan, president of the society, had charge of the meeting and introduced the speaker, who dwelt at length on his personal experiences in various lines of business, from the time of his connection with the Munsey magazine up to his present important position in the public utilities department.

Mr. O'Brien, who is an accomplished speaker, had no set subject for his address, but gave a heart-to-heart talk along many lines. He referred to the telephone and telegraph as two of the greatest public utilities in use today, and displayed a wonderful familiarity with that topic. At the conclusion of his informal talk, the members accorded the visitor a rising vote of thanks and extended him a welcome to reappear here in Lowell at some future date. Several non-members attended last night's meeting, including the brothers of St. Patrick's school and priests of the parish, who were present as invited guests.

"Like — I'm Dead," Replied John

BOSTON, Oct. 25—Identified as a dead man and with preparations almost complete for his funeral, John A. Mooney of the West End, very much alive, finds himself in all sorts of complications. Last Saturday a body was picked up in Charlestown and taken to a morgue where Mrs. Mooney identified it as that of her husband.

Yesterday morning a patrolman saw John walking along the street. They went to the police station and Mrs. Mooney was summoned.

"You're dead," they exclaimed in unison.

"Like —— I am," replied John.

"Who said so?"

After convincing them that he was still alive, John attempted to draw some money from a bank but was refused, it being told that he was dead. He also tried to convince officers of Station 2 that he was alive but they chased him out.

There still remain a few good seats for Irene Castle's personal appearance at the new Auditorium Thursday night. Seats are still on sale at Steinert's. Tickets which have already been ordered but not called for will be placed on sale at noon tomorrow.

One of the most striking and original features on the program of Irene Castle's "Dances and Fashions of 1923," is her new Butterfly dance, which is brought direct from a distinct triumph at Armenonville in the Bois de Boulogne. The dance scored so heavily with lovers of joy at the amusing summer revue that the Castle butterfly could not be omitted when plans were laid for the concert tour in this country.

The Castle Madame Butterfly costume was first seen and applauded at the Ambassadors, on the Champs Elysees.

REAL ESTATE MEN HAVE BANQUET

Several Lowell real estate men attended the banquet of the Massachusetts Real Estate exchange held at Hotel Bellevue, Boston, last evening. Among those present from this city were George D. Kimball, Curtis W. Johnson, Dieudonne St. Pierre and Albert Bergeron.

The members had a business meeting after the banquet, discussing the pros and cons of the new legislative bill to come before the state solons this fall, providing for the licensing of all real estate brokers in Massachusetts.

Lowell members of the "M.R.E.E." are said to be a unit in favoring the passage of this bill, which, it is expected, will prevent so-called "outlaw" brokers from doing business in Massachusetts illegally.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL SENDS HIS REGRETS

The committee in charge of the Theodore Roosevelt memorial exercises to be held at the Memorial Auditorium on Friday afternoon of the present week, at which Senator Henry Cabot Lodge will be the principal speaker, has received a letter of regret from His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, who was invited to attend and speak.

The cardinal's letter, addressed to Mrs. Henry M. Thompson, local chairman of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial association, follows:

My Dear Mrs. Thompson—I wish sincerely it were in my power to be with you at the meeting in honor of Theodore Roosevelt to which you have so kindly invited me, but alas this is my busiest time of all the year and I cannot go, much as I wish to.

I had the honor of knowing Mr Roosevelt rather intimately, and I admired him the more I knew him. He was the embodiment of those particular qualities which America most cultivates and which all real men most admire—lofty courage, boundless energy, manly frankness. He was in many senses the typical American. His memory will always be a stimulus to patriotism and a challenge to honest and straightforward work.

How I should like to say all this and much more at your meeting. Please say for me what I should so like to say. Very sincerely,

WILLIAM CARDINAL O'CONNELL

E. J. COONEY SPEAKS AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., October 25.—Newspaper advertising and public relations were subjects featured at today's session of the American Gas association at its fourth annual convention on the Steel Pier.

E. J. Cooney, of Lowell, Mass., said the gas men should stop wasting thousands of dollars annually in program and so-called special advertising and invest their money in newspaper advertising which would bring one hundred per cent results through strictly legitimate channels.

"Using valuable newspaper space to tell what your capitalization is always arouses the ire of those who preach socialism," he said, "while the publishing of the names of those who constitute your board of directors is a sop to the men occupying those positions. Such advertising never did and never will sell one cent's worth of gas, or will it ever accomplish one iota of good will for the company."

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Much Time Taken Up Today With Assault and Battery Case

A case which consumed considerable time in the district court today was that of Frank Leba, for assault and battery on a Polish woman. Dr. Matthew P. Mahoney testified on the witness stand that he was called to attend a severe flesh wound, apparently inflicted by a sharp instrument, on the forehead of the woman. Officer Jerome Cullen said he was in the vicinity of Common street on Oct. 14, when the alleged assault took place, but knew nothing of a knife being used.

The complainant, with bandaged forehead, stated that the defendant had stabbed her with a knife, which was introduced as evidence. Leba exhibited two black eyes when called upon to give his testimony, and alleged that the two particular regions had been blackened by contact with brass knuckles in a brawl which preceded the assault in question. Judge Enright summed up the case briefly and fined defendant $25. He paid.

The old case of assault and battery against Peter Andonian, on Misto Ganem, came up again today and was continued until tomorrow morning.

The alleged assault occurred in a Suffolk street coffee house and in an argument over the Near East situation Andonian is said to have seized the complainant, knocked him down and bit his nose to such an extent that six stitches were required. Several witnesses were called and it was long after noon when the case was concluded.

Odilon Rochette, for the neglect of minor children, was released under bonds of $200, until next Friday.

For the non-support of his wife, Nicholas Sfakieon was found guilty and fined $75. He appealed and was released in $300 bonds for appearance in superior court on the first Monday in November.

Vaselas Fotopoulos, on a charge of illegal sale, was granted a continuance until Friday.

Joseph Boisclair, Denis Lynch and James Burns, all pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness. Boisclair was already under a suspended sentence for a similar offense and the court today revoked the suspension and imposed a direct sentence of four months to the house of correction. Burns and Lynch received sentences to the same place for periods of four and two months, respectively.

WILL INCREASE VOTING FACILITIES

The election commissioners will enlarge the voting facilities in the polling places for precincts 2 and3 of ward 3, at Chelmsford and Grand streets and on Pine street near Westford street, and also in precinct 1 of ward 9, at the High street engine house, in compliance with requests received from the republican city committee. The committee also made the same request for the Laura Lee school, but this already had been cared for on request of Councilor Arthur B. Chadwick.

Chairman Hugh C. McOsker said today the commission will crowd every stall possible into the booths in question, realizing the congestion that is possible in large precincts.

An unprecedented rush of voters is expected on state election day between 12 and 1 o'clock, noon, which will be the only hour available for hundreds of people. The polls will open at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m.

SYMPHONY CONCERT

Renowned Orchestra Heard to Excellent Advantage at Memorial Auditorium

The Boston Symphony orchestra again came to Lowell last night to be heard in concert in the Memorial Auditorium by nearly 4000 people. There were a few scattering vacant seats, but only a few, perhaps half a hundred in all, although the gallery in the rear of the stage was not used.

As many times as the Symphony may come to the city in the future, it will be enjoyed in increasing measure, principally because when playing in the Auditorium it is performing in a setting worthy of the stone. Cramped quarters for the musicians have been unavoidable in the past and while the big Auditorium stage was none too large, it was sufficiently roomy to accommodate the personnel of an even one hundred.

And then again, it is such a pleasure to hear music in the Auditorium. First, its acoustic properties were tested by the human voice in tones of addresses, then it was tested by the voice in song and last night by orchestral music. The properties are admirable in every way. It is indeed impossible to detect a flaw.

In the arrangement of his program last evening, Mr. Monteux selected a symphony, a symphonic poem, three movements from "The Damnation of Faust" and the much loved Tannhäuser overture. The program ran a full two hours and was the best ever played by this splendid band in its many visits to the city.

The ability of leadership possessed and adroitly used by Mr. Monteux was in great measure responsible for the splendid impression instantly made. His spirit was contagious and clearly was echoed and re-echoed from all instruments from strings to kettledrums.

From the opening notes of Tchaikovsky symphony, sonorously sounded by horns and bassoons right through to the climax and conclusion of the Pilgrims' chorus in the Tannhauser overture, the orchestration was exquisite, brilliant when the scoring called for brilliancy, almost ethereal when the mood required and at all times moving in perfect concert in keeping with the director's nod and flourish of baton.

The program ran as follows:

Tchaikovsky,
Symphony No. 4 in F minor, Op. 36
I. Andante sostenuto; moderato con anima.
II. Andantino in modo di canzona.
III. Scherzo; Pizzicato ostinato: Allegro.
IV. Finale: Allegro con fuoco.

Liszt,
Symphonic Poem No. 3, "Les Preludes"

Berlioz,
Three Pieces from "The Damnation of Faust,"
a. Menuet.
b. Valse des Sylphes.
c. Rakoczy March.

Wagner .....Overture to "Tannhauser"

The concert was secured under the local management of Albert Edmund Brown, who has booked many other splendid things for the Auditorium this winter. The Symphony again comes on March 27 of next year.

Last evening members of the Lowell Masonic choir served as ushers, and there was little, if any, confusion.
